2,000 Expected To Attend Conference
For Pastors, Laymen

Approximately 2,000 Baptist pastors and laymen are expected to attend a three-day conference on Evangelism which opens Monday at the First Baptist Church, West Monroe.

The conference will feature a number of outstanding Southern Baptist and Louisiana Baptist speakers, including the president of the Southern Baptist Convention, Dr. C. C. Warren, president of the eight million member Southern Baptist Convention, will address the conference Tuesday morning, Jan. 31.

Other out-of-state speakers will include Dr. Roy McClain, pastor of the First Baptist church, Atlanta, Ga.; Dr. Baker James Gauthen, secretary of Southern Baptists Foreign Mission Board; Dr. Ramsey Pollard, pastor of Broadway Baptist church, Knoxville, Tenn.; and Dr. Eual Lawson, Southern Baptist Home Mission Board.

Presiding alternately at the sessions will be Dr. Robert L. Lee, interim executive secretary of the Louisiana Baptist Convention; Dr. George Ritchey, pastor of the Mansfield First Baptist church; Dr. James Horton, pastor of the First Baptist church of Monroe; Rev. Millard Box, pastor of Emmanuel Baptist church, Baton Rouge; and Dr. Paul Roberts, pastor of the First Baptist church of Lake Charles.

The first session will open at 7 o'clock Monday evening.

Hagerty Charges Pearson's Claim 'Scurrilous Lie'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—President Eisenhower's press secretary, James C. Hagerty, today denounced as a complete falsehood and a "scurrilous lie" a columnist's statement that Eisenhower had intervened in the Al Sarena timberland case.

Hagerty referred to a column by Drew Pearson which appeared in subscriber newspapers yesterday. Pearson wrote:

"I have always wondered why Secretary McKay was in such a hurry to sell this valuable piece of Douglas fir worth over $200,000 for only about $2,270, on the flimsy excuse that it was needed for gold mining. Other secretaries of the interior had refused to sell." He went on:

"McKay, though nicknamed 'Generous Doug,' is not usually quite that generous. In this case, however, he had an interesting little note direct from the President.

"Buried in the Senate Interior Committee files is an interesting letter, which was picked up when the Senate subpoenaed the records of Secretary McKay.

"It's a letter from a friend of President Eisenhower's addressed to him, asking that the Al Sarena section of the Rogue River National Forest be released to the McDonald family.

"Across the letter in his own handwriting President Eisenhower had scribbled 'Dear Doug.' Then followed a personal request from Ike to Doug to see what he could do to get the forest released.

Four Air Force Jets Abandoned As Fuel Runs Out

TOKYO, Jan. 27 (AP)—Four U.S. Air Force jets, valued at more than $2 million exhausted their fuel almost simultaneously and crashed into the East China Sea near Okinawa Friday after their pilots parachuted to safety.

Three of the pilots landed in the water and were rescued in a massive air-sea operation. The fourth landed on Okinawa near Okuma. An Air Force spokesman said the four were flying on a routine training mission and ran into a storm while returning to Okinawa.

He said they skirted the storm instead of risking their F-86-F Sabrejet fighters by flying through it and "ran out of juice" 30 to 60 miles northeast of Okinawa because of the extra distance they had to travel.

Ann M' Caleb, 18, 'Miss Franklin Parish' Of 1956

WINNSBORO, Jan. 27 (Special)—Miss Ann M' Caleb, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. McCaleb of Winnsboro was named Miss Franklin Parish of 1956 here tonight after being chosen from 12 contestants.

Miss McCaleb was named Queen of the Cotton Festival held at Bastrop in September of 1955.

The dark-haired beauty will represent Franklin parish in the Miss Louisiana contest in Lake Providence July 4.

In addition to winning the honor of representing the parish at the forthcoming pageant, Miss McCaleb received a $250 scholarship and an engraved trophy. The lovely young miss was sponsored by the Winnsboro Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Second place winner was Miss Myra Ann Moore, Winnsboro. Third place honors went to Miss Beverly Martin, also of Winnsboro.

Eileen Walter three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin D. Walter was chosen from 16 contestants as "Little Miss Franklin Parish."

St. Francis Hospital To Add $222,000 Expansion

St. Francis hospital in the near future will embark on a $222,000 project to add a 40-bed capacity chronic patient unit to the hospital. Contract for construction is expected to be let in May.

The report was confirmed last night by Mother Marie Gertrude, hospital superintendent.

Mother Gertrude said the new construction would amount to a seventh floor addition to the present hospital which was completed in a vast building project last year.

Plans for the new addition will go on the architect's draftboard in the immediate future, according to Mother Gertrude. She said a bid for construction would be let "probably in May."

The federal government will furnish $141,750 toward financing the cost of the $222,000 project.

The U. S. Public Health Service said yesterday in Washington that the St. Francis project had been approved by Sen. Long and Senator Otto E. Passman, of the Fifth congressional district, received notice that government funds had been assured for the project.

Recently completed hospital facilities at St. Francis gave Monroe one of the most modern hospitals in this part of the state. Finished with an impressive brick and masonry exterior, the hospital is fitted throughout on the interior with the latest equipment.

The new hospital has also been equipped with a modern laundry and standby electric generating plant.

St. Francis hospital is managed by the Franciscan Sisters of Calais, France.

House Leaders Reach Accord On Road Taxes

Highway Users To Foot Most Of Bill
For Construction

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (UP)—House Democratic and Republican leaders agreed Friday to push a tax-boosting plan that would require users to foot most of the bill for a new multi-billion dollar road-building program.

Although details were not spelled out, Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) said the plan probably will involve a one-cent increase in the present two-cent federal gasoline tax, plus higher levies on diesel fuel and tires.

The agreement apparently settled, as far as the House is concerned, the question of how to raise the extra money needed for the federal share of a proposed 15-year, $51 billion highway program. Whether the Senate will go along with raising highway use taxes in an election-year remains to be seen. It refused to boost any revenues in a road bill it approved last year.

House GOP leader Joseph W. Martin Jr., who attended a closed door meeting with Rayburn and other party leaders, said there was general agreement "that to get a highway bill we will have to have higher taxes."

He said he believes the administration will go along with the plan. Republicans, he said, have given up hope of enacting the controversial bond-financing plan that President Eisenhower recommended last year.

Rayburn said a tax-boosting bill will be introduced, probably next week, for study by the House Ways & Means committee. The legislation then will be made a part of the overall road-building bill being drafted by the public works committee.

Rayburn said one question still to be resolved is whether to add one cent or two to the present two-cent-a-gallon tax on diesel fuel. As for tires, he said he personally favors raising levies on both passenger car and truck tires, with the largest increase applying to big truck tires.

He also proposed raising to 10 per cent the present 8 per cent excise levy on the manufacturers' sales price of trucks, buses and trailers.

Sen. George Sees 'Undermining' Of U. S. By Russians

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (UP)—Sen. Walter F. George, top Democratic foreign policy spokesman in congress, said Friday he is convinced Russia does not want a "shooting war" but seeks to undermine the United States economically.

The Georgia Democrat, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, said there is "definitely no change" in Russia's long-range goal of world domination.

But he said Russia's tactics "have changed noticeably" since the Geneva conference last summer, and now the Kremlin is trying to weaken the U. S. economy without resort to war which they "hope... won't come."

George's statements were seen as backing up his opposition to expanded U. S. economic aid, which the administration is seeking. The Georgian has urged greater use of loans in foreign aid and opposes the administration's request for authority to make long-term aid commitments.

George said evidence of Russia's no-shooting-war policy is seen in two recent developments. One, he said, is the reported "friendly" tone of Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin's letter to President Eisenhower this week. He also cited increased Soviet emphasis on its own economic help to underdeveloped nations.

"Unquestionable the Russians hope they'll be able to put the squeeze on us economically through some of these neutral nations" which Russia has offered to help, George said.

He described as a "good feature" of the Soviet aid plan the Kremlin's emphasis on loans rather than free grants.

Mostly cloudy and warmer, with scattered showers in the northeast section of Louisiana was forecast for Saturday by government weathermen.

Monroe - West Monroe temperatures ranged from a low of 46 to a high of 63 Friday.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (UP)—Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson conceded Friday in the face of angry Democratic criticism that his department "pulled a boner" by endorsing a magazine article assailing the nation's farmers.

Benson issued a statement apologizing for a letter written over his signature to Harper's magazine. The letter described as "excellent" an article in the December issue of the magazine entitled "The Country Slickers Take Us Again."

Although Benson said he did not see the letter, and had not read the article, he accepted responsibility for it. He added, however, that the article "as reported to me by members of my staff, does not in the slightest reflect my views."

Reds Open Prague Conference With Attacks On Dulles

By HENRY SHAPIRO
PRAGUE, Jan. 27 (UP)—Political and military leaders of the eight Communist Warsaw pact nations opened a conference on military organization Friday with a series of attacks on U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and "aggressive" American circles.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and Soviet Defense Minister Marshal Georgi Zhukov attended for Russia, with Red China's No. 2 man, Gen. Chu Teh, representing his country as an observer.

Czech Foreign Minister V. Alexei Cernik opened the first session in the Cernin castle which houses the Czech foreign ministry with an address denouncing "western forces of war... especially in the United States."

Polish Premier Jozef Cyrankiewicz expanded this theme and attacked Dulles for "meddling" in the internal affairs of East Europe.

Delegates from Russia, Poland, Albania, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania and East Germany attended the "political consultative committee" meeting of the pact which was organized in May, 1955, at Warsaw as Russia's answer to the NATO forces in the west.

All speeches at the two hour and 15 minute opening session were translated simultaneously into the various languages of the delegates in the ornate hall lighted by candleabra.

The session quickly approved a two-point agenda calling for discussion of the situation in the world and the role of the United Nations.

Treasury Rehires Ousted Attorney

U. S. Seeks To Deport Tokyo Rose

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—An unprecedented deportation proceeding was announced today against Tokyo Rose, the siren-voiced, American-born broadcaster for Japan during World War II.

The woman, whose real name is Mrs. Iva Ikuko Toguri D'Aquino, was convicted of trying to lure GIs into deserting their lonely Pacific outposts. She is scheduled to leave the Federal Women's Reformatory at Alderson, W. Va., tomorrow after completing her 10-year treason sentence, with time off for good behavior.

Immigration officials plan to go to Alderson to serve her with a deportation warrant to test the fine legal question whether a natural-born American can be ordered out of this country.

Since the Revolutionary War there have been only nine treason convictions in civil courts and none was followed by deportation action, so far as available records show.

Immigration officials said today that Mrs. D'Aquino lost her American citizenship when she was convicted at San Francisco in 1949. They added that her release raises a question whether she now becomes "an undesirable resident alien" subject to deportation.

Other officials in discussing the case avoided use of the term "alien" referring to Mrs. D'Aquino as "a stateless person."

Tokyo Rose will not be kept in custody by the Immigration Service on her release from prison. She will be paroled pending hearing, so that she may proceed to Chicago with relatives who have arranged to meet her outside Alderson tomorrow morning. The deportation hearing is tentatively set to be held in Chicago.

Tokyo Rose is now 39. Of Japanese parentage, she was born an American citizen in Los Angeles on July 4, 1916.

Before the war started, she went to Japan to visit relatives and was married there to Felipe D'Aquino, a citizen of Portugal. She remained in Japan during the war and was identified as one of a half-dozen women who staged the Tokyo Rose broadcasts over the powerful government radio. All of the other participants were Japanese.

At her San Francisco trial, Mrs. D'Aquino was described by the prosecution as "an arch traitor" (Continued On Twelfth Page)

Cross Word Puzzle Gets Close Call, But No One Claims The $75 Jackpot

BY BONANZA BILL
Contestants this week made a good try at cracking the $75 jackpot in the Morning World's crossword puzzle contest, but no one succeeded.

Mrs. Paul A. Voney, 703 Erin Ave., was among those coming close to the magic formula for unlocking the till. She missed only one letter. The word should have been "act," and she elected to spell out "art," in number ten down.

Next week the jackpot total will be boosted to $100.

Here are explanations of the more difficult clues to this week's puzzle.

5. You'd HARDLY call a girl BOB, though just possibly you might. To call a girl a BOY would be just too ridiculous.

7. IDEALISM is "lofty notions"; it is an IDEALIST who "might promote" these lofty notions.

8. The metaphorical "RAY of sunshine" (a happy person or a piece of good news, etc.), fits best here. A DAY of sunshine may well simply be taken for granted, par-

Potential Barge Shippers Sought In Monroe Area

Questionnaires in letter form are being sent out to all potential barge shippers in the northeast Louisiana area in a joint survey by the Monroe Area Development Corp. and the Monroe-West Monroe Chamber of Commerce, according to Jim Williams, secretary manager of the Chamber.

The survey is an effort to assist the U. S. Corps of Engineers to ascertain the need for a nine-foot channel on the Ouachita River, the letters state.

They point out that a special study by the U. S. engineers is being made currently to determine the "actual" need for such a project on the river.

"The MAIDCO, Chamber of Commerce and the Ouachita River Valley Association are jointly interested in this project," the letters assert.

Recipients of the letters are asked to give such information as the percentage volume increase the individual firm would barge on the Ouachita river in the future if there is a nine-foot channel; what new commodities would the firm ship via barge; origin and destination points; and would the firms be interested in common carrier privileges if there is a nine-foot channel dug in the Ouachita river.

Williams said that any business small of large, who might have been missed, are asked to cooperate in notifying the Chamber of Commerce or the MAIDCO in the Virginia hotel of their interest in future shipping on the Ouachita.

He asked that all the questionnaires be returned completed by February 7, in order to expedite the survey.

Mollet Studying Program To Offer French Assembly

PARIS, Jan. 27 (AP)—Premier-designate Guy Mollet went to work today on the coalition program he will present to the National Assembly next week in a bid for approval.

He spent most of the day seeing his chief ally, former Premier Pierre Mendes-France of the Radical party; members of his own Socialist group; and government financial experts. On Sunday, he told reporters, he hopes to take up the toughest issues—what to do about the revolt in Algeria and how to share the seats in the Cabinet. He is trying to form a coalition.

There is wide belief that Mendes-France will be deputy premier, without responsibility for running any specific department. That would leave him free to work on Algeria and foreign policy.

Mollet and Mendes-France have said they would take ministers only from their "Republican Front" alliance—the Radicals, the Socialists, and portions of the two small groups of followers of Gen. Charles de Gaulle known as Social Republicans, and the middle-of-the-road Democratic and Socialist Union of the Resistance.

The two popular Paris evening papers, France-Soir and Paris Presse, today offered their readers lists of "possible" ministers that agreed in leaving Mendes-France without portfolio and putting socialist Christian Pineau into the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. Socialist Robert Lacoste was believed Mollet's choice for economic affairs, and Radical Vincent de Moro-Giafferri for minister of justice.

Was Cain's Target

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—Clifford J. Hynning was reinstated as a Treasury Department attorney today, 19 months after being dismissed as a "security risk." He promptly resigned.

The case had been reopened last September after former Sen. Harry Cain of Washington had sharply criticized official actions in connection with it.

Hynning could not be reached for comment today, but it was reported he plans to continue the private practice of law here.

Sen. Hennings (D-Mo.), chairman of a Senate Constitutional Rights subcommittee, said he was gratified that "justice has been done" in the Hynning case, but he added he was amazed that the Treasury "had not seen fit to utter one word of apology or regret for the two-year ordeal to which it subjected Mr. Hynning."

A Treasury announcement said Hynning was restored to duty after reconsideration of his case and a "careful review of the entire record." It added that Hynning immediately offered his resignation and it was accepted.

Hynning's job paid $9,600 a year at the time of his dismissal. The salary has been increased since. Although Treasury officials would not say how much back pay was involved, it was estimated to be in the neighborhood of $20,000.

In a long statement reviewing the case, Sen. Hennings said "the Hynning case teaches us that once (Continued On Twelfth Page)

Highway Users To

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 —UP— House Democratic and Republican leaders agreed Friday to push a tax-boosting plan that would require users to foot most of the bill for a new multi-billion dollar road-building program.

Although details were not spelled out, Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) said the plan probably will involve a one-cent increase in the present two-cent federal gasoline tax, plus higher levies on diesel fuel and tires.

Equatorial Path Set For Proposed Earth Satellite

The announcement noted that the satellites should be observable in the United States, Central and South America, Africa, southern Europe, the Balkans and Middle East, part of the Soviet Union, Pakistan, China, Japan, Indonesia, Australia and New Zealand.

Later satellite flights may follow other paths, enabling all of the 42 nations participating in the IGY program to make studies, the announcement said.

One, he said, is the reported "friendly" tone of Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin's letter to President Eisenhower this week. He also cited increased Soviet emphasis on its own economic help to underdeveloped nations.

"Unquestionable the Russians hope they'll be able to put the squeeze on us economically through some of these neutral nations" which Russia has offered to help, George said.

He described as a "good feature" of the Soviet aid plan the Kremlin's emphasis on loans rather than free grants.

Treasury Rehires Ousted Attorney

U. S. Seeks To Deport Tokyo Rose

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP) — An unprecedented deportation proceeding was announced today against Tokyo Rose, the siren-voiced, American-born broadcaster for Japan during World War II.

The woman, whose real name is Mrs. Iva Ikuko Toguri D'Aquino, was convicted of trying to lure GIs into deserting their lonely Pacific outposts. She is scheduled to leave the Federal Women's Reformatory at Alderson, W. Va., tomorrow after completing her 10-year treason sentence, with time off for good behavior.

Immigration officials plan to go to Alderson to serve her with a deportation warrant to test the fine legal question whether a natural-born American can be ordered out of this country.

Since the Revolutionary War there have been only nine treason convictions in civil courts and none was followed by deportation action, so far as available records show.

Immigration officials said today that Mrs. D'Aquino lost her American citizenship when she was convicted at San Francisco in 1949. They added that her release raises a question whether she now becomes "an undesirable resident alien" subject to deportation.

Other officials in discussing the case avoided use of the term "alien," referring to Mrs. D'Aquino as "a stateless person."

Tokyo Rose will not be kept in custody by the Immigration Service on her release from prison. She will be paroled pending hearing, so that she may proceed to Chicago with relatives who have arranged to meet her outside Alderson tomorrow morning. The deportation hearing is tentatively set to be held in Chicago.

Tokyo Rose is now 39. Of Japanese parentage, she was born an American citizen in Los Angeles on July 4, 1916.

Before the war started, she went to Japan to visit relatives and was married there to Felipe D'Aquino, a citizen of Portugal. She remained in Japan during the war and was identified as one of a half-dozen women who staged the Tokyo Rose broadcasts over the powerful government radio. All of the other participants were Japanese.

At her San Francisco trial, Mrs. D'Aquino was described by the prosecution as "an arch traitor."

Potential Barge Shippers Sought In Monroe Area

Questionnaires in letter form are being sent out to all potential barge shippers in the northeast Louisiana area in a joint survey by the Monroe Area Development Corp. and the Monroe-West Monroe Chamber of Commerce, according to Jim Williams, secretary manager of the Chamber.

The survey is an effort to assist the U. S. Corps of Engineers to ascertain the need for a nine-foot channel on the Ouachita River, the letters state.

They point out that a special study by the U. S. engineers is being made currently to determine the "actual" need for such a project on the river.

"The MAIDCO, Chamber of Commerce and the Ouachita River Valley Association are jointly interested in this project," the letters assert.

Recipients of the letters are asked to give such information as the percentage volume increase the individual firm would barge on the Ouachita river in the future if there is a nine-foot channel; what new commodities would the firm be interested in common carrier privileges if there is a nine-foot channel dug in the Ouachita river.

Williams said that any business small of large, who might have been missed, are asked to cooperate in notifying the Chamber of Commerce or the MAIDCO in the Virginia hotel of their interest in future shipping on the Ouachita.

He asked that all the questionnaires be returned completed by February 7, in order to expedite the survey.

'Security Risk' Cleared; Quits Post Promptly

$20,000 In Back
Pay Involved; Case
Was Cain's Target

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP) — Clifford J. Hynning was reinstated as a Treasury Department attorney today, 19 months after being dismissed as a "security risk." He promptly resigned.

The case had been reopened last September after former Sen. Harry Cain of Washington had sharply criticized official actions in connection with it.

Hynning could not be reached for comment today, but it was reported he plans to continue the private practice of law here.

Sen. Hennings (D-Mo.), chairman of a Senate Constitutional Rights subcommittee, said he was gratified that "justice has been done" in the Hynning case, but he added he was amazed that the Treasury "had not seen fit to utter one word of apology or regret for the two-year ordeal to which it subjected Mr. Hynning."

A Treasury announcement said Hynning was restored to duty after reconsideration of his case and a "careful review of the entire record." It added that Hynning immediately offered his resignation and it was accepted.

Hynning's job paid $9,600 a year at the time of his dismissal. The salary has been increased since. Although Treasury officials would not say how much back pay was involved, it was estimated to be in the neighborhood of $20,000.

In a long statement reviewing the case, Sen. Hennings said "The Hynning case teaches us that once

Mollet Studying Program To Offer French Assembly

PARIS, Jan. 27 —Premier-designate Guy Mollet went to work today on the coalition program he will present to the National Assembly next week in a bid for approval.

He spent most of the day seeing his chief ally, former Premier Pierre Mendes-France of the Radical party; members of his own Socialist group; and government financial experts. On Sunday, he told reporters, he hopes to take up the toughest issues—what to do about the revolt in Algeria and how to share the seats in the Cabinet he is trying to form.

There is wide belief that Mendes-France will be deputy premier, without responsibility for running any specific department. That would leave him free to work on Algeria and foreign policy.

Mollet and Mendes-France have said they would take ministers only from their "Republican Front" alliance—the Radicals; the Socialists, and portions of the two small groups of followers of Gen. Charles de Gaulle known as Social Republicans, and the middle-of-the-road Democratic and Socialist Union of the Resistance.

The two popular Paris evening papers, France-Soir and Paris-Press, today offered their readers lists of "possible" ministers that agreed in leaving Mendes-France without portfolio and putting socialist Christian Pineau into the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. Socialist Robert Lacoste was believed Mollet's choice for economic affairs, and Radical Vincent de Moro-Giafferri for minister of justice.

Cross Word Puzzle Gets Close Call, But No One Claims The $75 Jackpot

BY BONANZA BILL

Contestants this week made a good try at cracking the $75 jackpot in the Morning World's crossword puzzle contest, but no one succeeded.

Mrs. Paul A. Voney, 703 Erin Ave., was among those coming close to the magic formula for unlocking the till. She missed only one letter. The word should have been "act," and she elected to spell out "art," in number ten down.

Next week the jackpot total will be boosted to $100.

Here are explanations of the more difficult clues to this week's puzzle:

CLUES ACROSS:
5. You'd HARDLY call a girl BOB, though just possibly you might. To call a girl a BOY would be just too ridiculous.
7. IDEALISM IS "lofty notions"; it is an IDEALIST who "might promote" these lofty notions.
8. The metaphorical "RAY of sunshine" (a happy person or a piece of good news, etc.) fits best here. A DAY of sunshine may well simply be taken for granted, par-

Water Resources Cited As Key To Industrial Development Of South

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—The Southeast can become the nation's greatest industrial area if it will develop its water resources, Maj. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, retired, said today.

Now director of the Alabama state planning and development board, Pick spoke at a luncheon given at the capitol by Rep. Boykin (D-Ala.). Members of the Mississippi and Alabama congressional delegations and others were guests.

Pick, former Chief of Army Engineers, said that the Southeast in addition to developing its water resources, should adopt atomic energy as quickly as possible to move ahead of the rest of the country.

He called for construction of the Tennessee-Tombigbee Canal to connect the Tennessee and Tombigbee rivers and create a slack water channel to the Ohio River, opening up the Southeast to mid-continent cities.

He related a conversation in which a New York economist told him, Pick said, that the Southeast in a few years will stack up as the "greatest industrial bulwark of this nation."

Two Attacked By Dogs; Tests For Rabies Underway

Two cases of dog bites occurred in West Monroe Wednesday and Thursday, according to the city police reports.

At 4:30 p.m. Wednesday, one report stated, Beverly Temple, 9, daughter of West Monroe Police Officer and Mrs. Floyd Temple, was bitten twice as she rode her bicycle in front of 303 North Fifth.

The dog, owned by Mrs. Charles W. Reppond, of 303 North Fifth, is a black and white mongrel, according to the report. It is currently being held by chain in the Reppond yard for observation by the Health Department, which will make tri-weekly tests to determine if rabies is present, police said.

It was pointed out that if it is found that the dog has rabies, steps will be taken immediately to protect the Temple child from the effects.

The other case was reported at 4:45 p.m. Thursday, when Solomon Lee, Negro, told police he had been bitten by a dog owned by an unidentified Negro woman, at 215 McKaskle, West Monroe.

Solomon described the dog as shaggy, light tan in color and about one and a half feet tall.

The incident was reported immediately to the health department which is investigating.

Murder Verdict Without Death Returned On Nash

Herbert Nash, charged with murder in the death of Jewel Hardwell on April 15, 1955, was found guilty but without capital punishment yesterday afternoon by a 12-man jury in Fourth District Court.

Judge Jesse H. Heard, presiding, remanded the Negro for sentencing. It was not known late yesterday afternoon whether the defense counsel would file for an appeal.

The law allows a lapse of time for the convicted man to make an appeal before sentencing.

The jury deliberated only 40 minutes in the case. Testimony began Thursday about 1:30 p.m. and was climaxed yesterday at 11:30 a.m.

The state's argument, headed by District Attorney Albin P. Lassiter, contended that Nash shot Hardwell, an 18-year-old Negro youth out of jealousy over a 16-year-old Negro juvenile girl.

The Negro girl was the key witness for the state. Nash, who showed no visible emotion when the verdict was returned was the only witness for his defense.

Nash told the jury and court that Alonzo Austin, a Negro companion at the time of the shooting, handed him the pistol which accidentally discharged, killing Hardwell.

Austin appeared as a state witness in the case.

One Killed, Two Injured In Auto Crash Yesterday

A 25-year-old Collinston man, passenger in a Bastrop bound auto, was killed instantly and his two companions injured as their car left the road early yesterday morning and crashed into a tree five and one-half miles out of Monroe on U. S. 165.

Dead with a fractured skull and crushed chest was Johnny Jones, Negro, according to Ouachita parish coroner Dr. J. T. French.

In the Charity hospital with a number of broken ribs was McQueen Roland, 30, of Bastrop. He was a passenger in the death car.

Joseph Diestany, 31, also of Bastrop, driver of the auto, was released from the St. Francis hospital after X-rays were taken. He was reported to have suffered only minor bruises about the face.

The rear of the car, completely torn to bits, was where Jones was sitting it was reported.

State police who investigated the accident said at the present time it was unknown why the vehicle left the road.

for in Alaska it is often as cold as from 30 to 50 degrees below zero.

The same chap has done it again. A certain Monroyan about four years ago, when leaving a well known downtown restaurant, picked up the first overcoat he saw and wore it home. Sunday, the next day, he wore the garment to church, and after he returned from the morning service he thrust his hand, for the first time, into the overcoat pocket and found to his amazement that he had keys to a church in Rayville and other data of a clergyman.

Ultimately the "wrong" was righted, but the past week again something happened. . . . The other time it was a minister who was the victim but this time an overcoat was taken from a rack at the same cafe and this time it proved to be property of Jeff Caldwell, Sr., the chief of police of West Monroe. But this was made right the next morning.

Seems ministers of the gospel and even a head of a municipal police department fail to be exempt.

Honors have been passed out the past week. That important event each year — selection of the man of the year — has taken place and Sam Rubin Jr., affiliated with many clubs and other local groups, was awarded this high Jaycee honor.

Also the Central Savings Bank and Trust Company picked three outstanding men to the board of directors.

These were Travis Oliver, Jr., well known in professional and business circles, being a practicing attorney and son of the late president of the Central bank; George Weeks, president of Weeks Supply Co., Ltd., was a second one picked, and William King Stubbs, prominent architect, was the third man selected.

The selection of these men will be approved by all who are familiar with them and the important posts that they hold in the community.

A reporter walking along St. John street late Thursday morning noticed one Monroe citizen, who is apparently nonchalant about parking tickets. As he drove off in a late model Chevrolet, he was seen working his windshield wipers with the ticket fixed under one blade, tracing a path across his windshield. Whether he was trying to dislodge the ticket, or was too deeply engrossed in other matters to be concerned about such a petty annoyance, is a matter of conjecture.

Drop, driver of the auto, was released from the St. Francis hospital after X-rays were taken. He was reported to have suffered only minor bruises about the face.

The rear of the car, completely torn to bits, was where Jones was sitting it was reported.

State police who investigated the accident said at the present time it was unknown why the vehicle left the road.

Kentucky Press Group To Oppose Newspaper Tax

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 27 (AP)—William C. Caywood Jr., president of the Kentucky Press Assn., said today it will oppose a bill to clamp a tax on some newspapers.

The measure received approval from a House committee in Frankfort yesterday. It would impose a penny-a-copy tax on papers published more than five times a week with a circulation of more than 10,000.

icularly in summer, and may even be a nuisance to some people.

13. TOPIC is best. A man might introduce a new TOPIC by himself, or he might need help, but getting a new TONIC established on the market is not a job for an individual — many people will be involved so to say that he "may" find it takes help is wrong. He definitely will find.

14. LOST best fits the clue. If he is dull he would probably be LOST, that is, out of his element among brilliant minds. LAST is not good as we are not told that the boy is himself a student or that there is any examination or test involved for him to be LAST in.

17. PARKING is particularly apt. The clue emphasizes "right outside his front door." BARKING is not as apt because a dog would probably be just as annoying as right outside the door. Not so with PARKING, however.

21. TASKS are "completed" but TANKS are referred to as being "produced" or "turned out" rather than completed.

24. A KING may, or may not, suggest a dynasty. "MING" DEFINITELY was or is a dynasty; it does not suggest one.

CLUES DOWN:

1. If you cry out for AIR, YOU are in distress. You may, however, cry out for AID for somebody else.

2. She may wonder what she is to WEAR for the occasion. But one does not invite a woman to a symphony concert without telling her what she is to WEAR.

3. Very true of GLUM children, but not necessarily of SLUM children for surely HAPPY SLUM children COULD make a happy picture?

10. This clue can only apply to act and not to ART. In any ACT for the artist to be successful his ACT must be "popularly acclaimed." If it is not, then the artist has failed and some artists might make excuses, and excuses are only made in case of a failure.

11. The clue emphasizes, however, that the "true" artist would not stoop to excuses. ART does not fit the clue as well since there are countless varieties of ART many of which do not involve "public acclaim" at all in which case public acclaim is not sought whether the artist be a true artist or not.

12. The phraseology of the clue strongly favors COOKS. To say: "he will naturally be interested in how she LOOKS" is a clumsy way of putting it but would apply to "COOKS." You would refer to his being interested in "her LOOKS" rather than "how she LOOKS."

18. GONG is best since the bigger it is the louder the ring can be expected to be; that is, the more it's likely to be heard from. As for GANG, many of the largest and most smoothly organized GANGS go about extremely quietly.

22. WIN, yes; but, at a chess tournament, silence is expected; thus WIT is not apt.

Freak Blaze Hits Flooded Plant In Los Angeles Area

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27 (AP)—Fire followed floodwaters Friday in one section of drenched Southern California where thousands of persons were digging out from Thursday's worst storm in some 20 years.

The freak fire was attributed to burning gasoline floating atop flood waters. It broke out in the giant Ford assembly plant at Los Angeles-Long Beach harbor, starting with a series of explosions and flashing through the installation. It inflicted burns and injuries to a group of plant officials inspecting flood damage in a rowboat.

Fire departments from all waterfront communities joined with fire boats in fighting the blaze in the 23 1/2 acre plant. Nearby were numerous oil wells and storage tanks that were endangered. Quick action by firemen, however, kept the flames from spreading to the oil installations.

The Ford plant had been closed down because of Thursday's floods. It employs several thousand workers when in operation.

The plant is situated behind dikes below the level of harbor waters at high tide and a break in one of the walls helped increase the depth of the water on the Ford grounds and spread the flames.

One fatality was attributed to Thursday's flood which dumped 7.97 inches of rain on Southern California in a 48-hour period. The body of seven-year-old Roger Weingartner was discovered in the Rio Hondo wash in San Gabriel Valley. He had been playing outside his home and apparently fell into the wash.

Occasional sunshine brightened up the flooded areas Friday as the rains ceased and the runoff of flood waters permitted some 700 evacuees in south and southwest sections of Los Angeles county to return to their homes.

Municipal flood control engineers and experts from the Army's Corps of Engineers said that barring the sudden arrival of a new storm as heavy as the last, the flood danger officially was over.

Property damage estimates ranged from $1 million to $2 million but agriculturists said the benefit to parched farm and range land would exceed that figure.

for in Alaska it is often as cold as from 30 to 50 degrees below zero.

The same chap has done it again. A certain Monroian about four years ago, when leaving a well known downtown restaurant, picked up the first overcoat he saw and wore it home. Sunday, the next day, he wore the garment to church, and after he returned from the morning service he thrust his hand, for the first time, into the overcoat pocket and found to his amazement that he had keys to a church in Rayville and other data of a clergyman.

Ultimately the "wrong" was righted, but the past week again something happened. . . . The other time it was a minister who was the victim but this time an overcoat was taken from a rack at the same cafe and this time it proved to be property of Jeff Caldwell, Sr., the chief of police of West Monroe. But this was made right the next morning.

Seems ministers of the gospel and even a head of a municipal police department fail to be exempt.

Honors have been passed out the past week. That important event each year — selection of the man of the year — has taken place and Sam Rubin Jr., affiliated with many clubs and other local groups, was awarded this high Jaycee honor. Also the Central Savings Bank and Trust Company picked three outstanding men to the board of directors.

These were Travis Oliver, Jr., well known in professional and business circles, being a practicing attorney and son of the late president of the Central bank; George Weeks, president of Weeks Supply Co., Ltd., was a second one picked, and William King Stubbs, prominent architect, was the third man selected.

The selection of these men will be approved by all who are familiar with them and the important posts that they hold in the community.

A reporter walking along St. John street late Thursday morning noticed one Monroian citizen, who is apparently nonchalant about parking tickets. As he drove off in a late model Chevrolet, he was seen working his windshield wipers with the ticket fixed under one blade, tracing a path across his windshield. Whether he was trying to dislodge the ticket, or was too deeply engrossed in other matters to be concerned about such a petty annoyance, is a matter of conjecture.

trop, driver of the auto, was released from the St. Francis hospital after X-rays were taken. He was reported to have suffered only minor bruises about the face.

The rear of the car, completely torn to bits, was where Jones was sitting it was reported.

State police who investigated the accident said at the present time it was unknown why the vehicle left the road.

The north-bound auto, according to state police, left the highway on the wrong side of the road in a curve and smashed into a tree in the left hand ditch.

Kentucky Press Group To Oppose Newspaper Tax

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 27 (AP)—William C. Caywood Jr., president of the Kentucky Press Assn., said today it will oppose a bill to clamp a tax on some newspapers.

The measure received approval from a House committee in Frankfort yesterday. It would impose a penny-a-copy tax on papers published more than five times a week with a circulation of more than 10,000.

Crossword Puzzle

icularly in summer, and may even be a nuisance to some people.

13. TOPIC is best. A man might introduce a new TOPIC by himself, or he might need help, but getting a new TONIC established on the market is not a job for an individual — many people will be involved so to say that he "may" find it takes help is wrong. He definitely will find.

14. LOST best fits the clue. If he is dull he would probably be LOST, that is, out of his element among brilliant minds. LAST is not good as we are not told that the boy is himself a student or that there is any examination or test involved for him to be LAST in.

17. PARKING is particularly apt. The clue emphasizes "right outside his front door." BARKING is not as apt because a dog BARKING a short distance away would probably be just as annoying as right outside the door. Not so with PARKING, however.

21. TASKS are "completed" but TANKS are referred to as being "produced" or "turned out" rather than completed.

24. A KING may, or may not, suggest a dynasty. "MING" DEFINITELY was or is a dynasty; it does not suggest one.

CLUES DOWN:

1. If you cry out for AIR, YOU are in distress. YOU may, however, cry out for AID for somebody else.

2. She may wonder what she is to WEAR for the occasion. But one does not invite a woman to a symphony concert without telling her what she is to HEAR.

3. Very true of GLUM children, but not necessarily of SLUM children for surely HAPPY SLUM children COULD make a happy picture?

10. This clue can only apply to act and not to ART. In any ACT for the artist to be successful his ACT must be "popularly acclaimed." If it is not, then the artist has failed and some artists might make excuses, and excuses are only made in case of a failure. The clue emphasizes, however, that the "true" artist would not stoop to excuses. ART does not fit the clue as well since there are countless varieties of ART many of which do not involve "public acclaim" at all in which case public acclaim is not sought whether the artist be a true artist or not.

11. The phraseology of the clue strongly favors COOKS. To say: "he will naturally be interested in how she LOOKS" is a clumsy way of putting it but would apply to "COOKS". You would refer to his being interested in "her LOOKS" rather than "how she LOOKS."

18. GONG is best since the bigger it is the louder the ring can be expected to be; that is, the more it's likely to be heard from. As for GANG, many of the largest and most smoothly organized GANGS go about extremely quietly.

22. WIN, yes; but, at a chess tournament, silence is expected; thus WIT is not apt.

Freak Blaze Hits Flooded Plant In Los Angeles Area

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27—UP—Fire followed floodwaters Friday in one section of drenched Southern California where thousands of persons were digging out from Thursday's worst storm in some 20 years.

The freak fire was attributed to burning gasoline floating atop flood waters. It broke out in the giant Ford assembly plant at Los Angeles-Long Beach harbor, starting with a series of explosions and flashing through the installation. It inflicted burns and injuries to a group of plant officials inspecting flood damage in a rowboat.

Fire departments from all waterfront communities joined with fire boats in fighting the blaze in the 23 1/2 acre plant. Nearby were numerous oil wells and storage tanks that were endangered. Quick action by firemen, however, kept the flames from spreading to the oil installations.

The Ford plant had been closed down because of Thursday's floods. It employs several thousand workers when in operation.

The plant is situated behind dikes below the level of harbor waters at high tide and a break in one of the walls helped increase the depth of the water on the Ford grounds and spread the flames.

One fatality was attributed to Thursday's flood which dumped 7.97 inches of rain on Southern California in a 48-hour period. The body of seven-year-old Roger Weingartner was discovered in the Rio Hondo wash in San Gabriel Valley. He had been playing outside his home and apparently fell into the wash.

Occasional sunshine brightened up the flooded areas Friday as the rains ceased and the runoff of flood waters permitted some 700 evacuees in south and southwest sections of Los Angeles county to return to their homes.

Municipal flood control engineers and experts from the Army's Corps of Engineers said that barring the sudden arrival of a new storm as heavy as the last, the flood danger officially was over.

Property damage estimates ranged from $1 million to $2 million but agriculturists said the benefit to parched farm and range land would exceed that figure.

Nigerians Cheer Queen Elizabeth On Royal Visit

LAGOS, Nigeria, Jan. 27 (AP)—Thousands of barefooted Nigerians trudged hot and dusty miles from the bush country into Lagos today to welcome Queen Elizabeth II, arriving tomorrow for a 20-day ceremonial visit.

A million persons, including

Lagos 300,000, are expected to be on hand to cheer the first British sovereign to visit this colony. Everywhere Union Jacks and bunting brightens Lagos, even in the slum districts.

This afternoon dusky squatters, many under umbrellas to protect themselves from the sun, staked claim to a yard of space on the 11-mile route from the airport to Government House, where the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh will stay.

The royal couple will travel 2,500 miles by train and plane touring Nigeria, a country the size of Spain with 32 million people.

They left London late today. Prince Charles and Princess Anne went aboard the four-engine plane to kiss their parents goodbye. Then Queen Mother Elizabeth and Princess Margaret led the children down to watch the takeoff. Charles and Anne waved excitedly as the plane roared away.

The plane is the same one that took Elizabeth from Africa to England in 1952, when, at the outset of a world tour, she learned of the death of her father.

The plane landed late tonight at Tripoli, Libya, completing the 1,400-mile first leg of the flight.

The main feature in the market today was strong commission house buying with fair trade support that came late in the day and was prompted by a statement made by Senator Ellender that the Senate Agriculture committee would vote for restoration of rigid 90 point supports for basic farm crops. Ellender said they would approve 90 point support because the agriculture department could not formulate plans to put into effect his suggestion of 90 point supports only for top grade commodities. This plan was viewed as a compromise between flexible and rigid supports.

The market was firm earlier in the day in lighter routine trading with the firmness attributed to the more favorable political action of the last few days. The market closed steady with advances of from 1 to 13 points in the old crop months and 36 to 37 points up for the new crop months. Advances were limited by scale up hedge selling orders and some profit taking. Liverpool market closed with gains of 10 to 19 penny points in the old contract months with new contracts unchanged to 20 points higher. At the Liverpool close with sterling 2803 the differences between New York and Liverpool were March 466, May 555 and July 497, all New York over.

Sales of CCC cotton this week for export totaled 130,750 bales with prices ranging from 25.50 to 26.92 for middling 15-16th. Clayton was the largest buyer taking over 44,000 bales with the balance spread over about 49 other firms. The CCC so far has sold 457,706 bales of the 1 million-bale export quota established. Unfixed call sales increased 32,400 bales for the week ending January 20 to total 509,700 bales compared to 1,200 bales to total 33,900 bales compared to 194,600 bales last year.

Open interest on the New York exchange decreased 14,000 bales to 1,577,000 bales compared to 2,980,000 to 194,600 bales last year. Fair sized sales of 80 squares for the 4th quarter were reported at 19 cents. The market continued steady and mills are well sold up.

GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 27 (AP)—A majority of grain contracts were higher at the end of a listless trading session on the Board of Trade today. Old crop soybean futures scored the best upturn.

Wheat closed 1/4-3/8 higher, corn 1/4 lower to 1/2 higher, oats 1/4 lower to 1/2 higher, rye unchanged to 1/4 lower, soybeans 1/2 lower to 1/4 higher and hard 10 cents lower to 3 cents a hundred pounds higher.

CHICAGO—Close:

Wheat: March 2.09 1/2-10; May 2.06 1/2; July 1.95 1/2-3/4; Sep. 1.97 1/2; Dec. 2.01 1/2.

Late Recovery Takes Stocks Up From Day's Lows

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (AP)—Recovery late in the session today helped the stock market make a good showing, but it closed lower nevertheless.

The market began mixed and then declined. Prices never were depressed to any great extent, and late in the day it began a recovery that reduced the net loss considerably.

Prices were off around 2 points at the outside while gains of a point were found in significant areas of the list.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was down 20 cents at $173.20. It was off $1.30 yesterday. The rise Tuesday and Wednesday added $3.10 to the average.

The industrial component lost only 10 cents while railroads were off 30 cents and utilities remained unchanged.

The list was rather narrow with 1,168 individual issues traded of which 323 advanced and 586 declined with 5 new highs and 24 new lows for 1955-56.

Volume came to 1,950,000 shares as compared with 1,840,000 shares traded yesterday.

Corporate bonds were mixed and U.S. government issues were higher.

HELICOPTER PILOT — First Lt. David F. Pierce, of 3300 Richmond Avenue, Monroe, has completed an Air Force helicopter pilots' school in Texas and is now en route to a new assignment at Bunker Hill AFB in Indiana. He is now spending a few days at home between assignments.

Shivers Sharply Critical Of Texas Insurance Firms

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas, sharply criticized the insurance industry Friday, charging it has "done very little" to keep itself out of the hot water that it is in now.

The governor's blast at the industry which he has been stoutly defending was one of a series of developments in the insurance scandals including grand jury and legislative investigations and court action.

At Austin also, 98th District Court Judge Charles O. Betts rejected a plea to delay determination of the merits of putting U.S. Trust and Guaranty Co. of Waco in permanent receivership. It is now in temporary receivership, and Judge Betts will try the case Monday.

A House committee continued at Austin to dig into the background of the U.S. Trust failure with particular attention Friday on how the regulatory Insurance Commission performed. Senate probers were in recess until next week.

Solon Defends Position Held In Bankrupt Company

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 27 (AP)—State Rep. Bert McDaniel of Waco told House investigators today he never violated the public trust while representing U. S. Trust and Guaranty Co. from early 1954 to the present.

He said his fees for services to that company, its affiliates and company president A. B. Shoemaker were at all times reasonable, increasing toward the end of 1955 in line with the importance of legal matters he was handling.

McDaniel, speaking from the rostrum in the chamber of the House of Representatives instead of using the witness chair, did not specify the total amount of his fees. But a report of the state auditor has indicated they totaled at least $18,250 for the two-year period, of which $7,500 has never been paid.

A Dec. 15 court order halting operations and freezing assets of U. S. Trust prevented payment of a $7,500 check made out to McDaniel the previous day.

Late OAS Leader Presented Award Posthumously

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—The Theodore Brent Inter American Award was presented posthumously today to Dr. Carlos Davila, the late secretary general of the Organization of American States (OAS).

Handing Dr. Davila's widow a loving cup which went with the award, Richard G. Jones, president of International House, New Orleans, told Mrs. Davila that she and her family "can, indeed, be proud always of their beloved husband and father."

Dr. Davila, former provisional president of Chile, devoted more than 40 years toward improving inter American relations. He died Oct. 1.

Also attending the ceremony were Lloyd Cobb and C. C. Walther, former presidents of International House and Donald MacLeay and J. L. Barnicle, Washington representatives of the Mississippi Shipping Co., which established the Brent Award.

Cotton Letter

The main feature in the market today was strong commission house buying with fair trade support that came late in the day and was prompted by a statement made by Senator Ellender that the Senate Agriculture committee would vote for restoration of rigid 90 point supports for basic farm crops. Ellender said they would approve 90 point support because the agriculture department could not formulate plans to put into effect his suggestion of 90 point supports only for top grade commodities. This plan was viewed as a compromise between flexible and rigid supports.

The market was firm earlier in the day in lighter routine trading with the firmness attributed to the more favorable political action of the last few days. The market closed steady with advances of from 1 to 13 points in the old crop months and 36 to 37 points up for the new crop months. Advances were limited by scale up hedge selling orders and some profit taking. Liverpool market closed with gains of 10 to 19 penny points in the old contract months with new contracts unchanged to 20 points higher. At the Liverpool close with sterling 2803 the differences between New York and Liverpool were March 466, May 555 and July 497, all New York over.

Sales of CCC cotton this week for export totaled 130,750 bales with prices ranging from 25.50 to 26.92 for middling 15-16th. Clayton was the largest buyer taking over 44,000 bales with the balance spread over about 49 other firms. The CCC so far has sold 457,706 bales of the 1 million-bale export quota established. Unfixed call sales increased 32,400 bales for the week ending January 20 to total 509,700 bales compared to 1, export quota established. Unfixed call purchases decreased 15,200 bales to total 33,900 bales compared to 194,600 bales last year.

Open interest on the New York exchange decreased 14,000 bales to 1,577,000 bales compared to 2,980,000 bales last year. Fair sized sales of 80 squares for the 4th quarter were reported at 19 cents. The market continued steady and mills are well sold up.

Shivers Sharply Critical Of Texas Insurance Firms

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas, sharply criticized the insurance industry Friday, charging it has "done very little" to keep itself out of the hot water that it is in now. The governor's blast at the industry which he has been stoutly defending was one of a series of developments in the insurance scandals including grand jury and legislative investigations and court action.

At Austin also, 98th District Court Judge Charles O. Betts rejected a plea to delay determination of the merits of putting U.S. Trust and Guaranty Co. of Waco in permanent receivership. It is now in temporary receivership, and Judge Betts will try the case Monday.

A House committee continued at Austin to dig into the background of the U.S. Trust failure with particular attention Friday on how the regulatory Insurance Commission performed. Senate probes were in recess until next week.

Solon Defends Position Held In Bankrupt Company

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 27 (AP)—State Rep. Bert McDaniel of Waco told House investigators today he never violated the public trust while representing U. S. Trust and Guaranty Co. from early 1954 to the present. He said his fees for services to that company, its affiliates and company president A. B. Shoemaker were at all times reasonable, increasing toward the end of 1955 in line with the importance of legal matters he was handling.

McDaniel, speaking from the rostrum in the chamber of the House of Representatives instead of using the witness chair, did not specify the total amount of his fees. But a report of the state auditor has indicated they totaled at least $18,250 for the two-year period, of which $7,500 has never been paid. A Dec. 15 court order halting operations and freezing assets of U. S. Trust prevented payment of a $7,500 check made out to McDaniel the previous day.

Late Recovery Takes Stocks Up From Day's Lows

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (AP)—Recovery late in the session today helped the stock market make a good showing, but it closed lower nevertheless.

The market began mixed and then declined. Prices never were depressed to any great extent, and late in the day it began a recovery that reduced the net loss considerably.

Prices were off around 2 points at the outside while gains of a point were found in significant areas of the list. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was down 20 cents at $173.20. It was off $1.30 yesterday. The rise Tuesday and Wednesday added $3.10 to the average.

The industrial component lost only 10 cents while railroads were off 30 cents and utilities remained unchanged.

The list was rather narrow with 1,166 individual issues traded of which 323 advanced and 586 declined with 5 new highs and 24 new lows for 1955-56. Volume came to 1,950,000 shares as compared with 1,840,000 shares traded yesterday.

Corporate bonds were mixed and U.S. government issues were higher.

Progress On French Farms

Probably in no other country on earth is there a greater devotion of the farmer toward his land than in France. The French are a people of small land-holdings, small farms, sedulously tilled, constantly fertilized, ditched and drained and guarded against erosion. The per-acre production of French farms is fabulous; yet the manpower utilized in producing French crops is inordinantly large compared to such mechanized farming nations as the United States. Many of the small farms of France employ methods and tools which have changed little since Biblical times, when the legions of the Caesars were deployed on the fertile plains of the great rivers southeast of Paris.

Within the past several years, however, the inevitable tendency toward larger farming units, fully mechanized, has made itself felt in France.

One of the "show places" of French agriculture is the family-owned but incorporated 1,360-acre farm of the Liermans, father and son, not far from the historic battlefields of Soissons and Chateau Thierry, in the Department of the Aisne.

This establishment is valued at more than $570,000, in American money. Annual gross sales range from $200,000 to $230,000. Marcel Lierman and his son, Roger, the latter 33 years old, are "agricultural engineers," the father being a graduate of the "Institut National d'Agromomie."

In an average year, last year, the Liermans devoted 486 acres to wheat, 272 acres to sugar beets, 127 acres to alfalfa, 73 to grapes, 64 to barley, 36 to oats, 43 to winter barley and 21 to flax.

They grew a good-sized garden, providing vegetables for their entire establishment; and canned many delicious fruits from their diversified orchard.

The Lierman farm has 103 acres set aside for cattle pasture, and 68 acres for sheep runs. There are two sheep herds of about 420 each, and about 750 lambs are marketed annually. Thirty-five milking cows provide about 1,000 of gallons of milk per cow annually. A thoroughly modern piggery yields more than 300 swine annually. Fifty to 60 steers are purchased each year, in the fall, for grain feeding and winter fattening.

The farm employs 40 to 50 full-time farmhands, mechanics and supervisors, and increases its working force to 70 or more during the crop season. This, it will be noted, is about triple the number that would be employed on a modernized American farm growing the same crops and livestock. Many of the workers live in a village, in houses owned by the Liermans, paying $1 per month rent. Some have held the same jobs for 25 or more years. Each family has its individual garden, and receives free electricity and supplies at greatly reduced prices.

From 30 to 35 per cent of the farm's annual gross goes for labor; but under a long-range program mechanization is being increased five per cent annually, and labor retrained as machines are introduced.

The farm now has five tractors, two trucks and six trailers, together with a wide variety of other mechanized equipment. It serves as the center of a cooperative pool embracing ten farms, where tractors and other labor-saving machinery can be rented, with drivers, on a day's notice, with the cost apportioned.

Productivity of the Lierman farm has increased 50 per cent since 1915, through better seed selection, increased fertilization and advanced methods of tillage and harvest.

France has a system of price supports somewhat akin to that of the United States, embracing basic farm commodities. The Liermans, unlike most other French farmers, say they would prefer an open market without subsidies.

One of the biggest needs confronting French agriculture, they pointed out, is easy credit at low interest rates.

Deadly Doctrine Of A U. S. Circuit Court

One of the most far-reaching and dangerous decisions ever handed down by a U. S. Court of Appeals was promulgated Friday by a circuit court of three judges in Washington, D. C.

By a two-to-one majority, this tribunal ruled that the powers of Congress to investigate red infiltration into American society, and government, is limited sharply; and that Congressional investigators have no right to compel witnesses to name former Communist associates.

Here is raised a new jurisprudential theory of the rights and duties of Congress, revolutionary in its implications, harassing in its limitations that would be imposed upon the Congress—amounting to a bold new challenge that the U. S. Supreme Court is the final and supreme legislative body in this land; and that the Congress is a fawning creature and servile subsidiary of the nine justices constituting the Supreme Court.

This court boldly lays down the theory that the right of Congress to investigate traitorism and subversive activities is not an absolute right, but rather a limited right depending entirely upon what slant a federal judge might take, on the wild-eyed premise that Congressional inquiries must have as their purpose some valid legislative goal, such as remedial laws.

How utterly idiotic can a Court of Appeals get? How far removed from the U. S. Constitution, and the Bill of Rights? How long will the American people submit to the rapidly growing tyranny of the U. S. Courts as at present constituted—the lowest in talent and in public esteem this country ever knew in its immemorial history—which in their middle echelons and at their source in the United States Supreme Court rapidly are seizing and usurping legislative functions of government; and are issuing laws and edicts by judicial fiat, in contempt of Congress and the Executive Branch of the Government?

When that right is destroyed, American liberty is destroyed. When that right is impaired, American liberty is in deadly danger.

Farm Price Declines

In the three weeks since Congress met, Republicans have shown signs of panic over farm price declines. Democrats have offered the same old panaceas of the Truman administration and both sides have turned a real problem into a political football.

The President's farm message offered nothing which had not been previously suggested, but it represented the best political thinking of the White House "palace guard" which look over from Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson the task of recommending ways of meeting what Republicans from farm states described as a political crisis.

Benson has taken a steady pounding for the past six months from Democrats and members of his own party, though continuing price decline had been predicted by agricultural economists as inevitable since farm prices began dropping at the end of the Korean war, with the steady increase in European production of basic farm products a contributing factor.

Some non-political observers who have visited agricultural areas devoted to feed grains, cotton and dairy products believe that the concern of members of Congress in an election year is more acute than that of the farmers themselves. At any rate, the decline in farm prices has become a major issue among members of Congress from both parties, with occasional evidence of something closely resembling demagoguery.

Since the government buying of hogs has now produced enough for school lunches and the other non-commercial uses for which it was designed and most of the original 500 million dollars allocated last November for that purpose has been spent without an upturn in the price of hogs, demands are being made that packing companies increase the price they are paying for hogs.

The packers' reply is that the Department of Agriculture fixed the price to be paid for hogs bought for the non-commercial program and they have not paid less than that price. Any higher price will have to be passed on to the consumer at a time when the lowered cost of pork products, widely advertised by chain and group markets, is increasing sales. The renamed "She's A Bang" . . . The song publisher in big trouble for not paying writers 150 grand.

The Tin Pan Alley copycats, who have just come out with two "new" ditties titled: "Weep Me An Ocean" and "Love Is Many Things." . . . The playwright now represented on Broadway who is offily embarrassed. His pal left him for a girl! . . . Bob Goldworm, who hoped to marry Jane Price (she eloped with another, being consoled by ballerina Mary Ellen Terry. . . . The top Broadway producer who is back at his psychiatrist's. His stage manager and Girl Friday quit him and he wants to know why. . . . Eartha Kitt, who says she missed getting a large haul from an Arabian prince because she got her picture in the London papers wearing slax. The sheik thwart it was soon unfurled. . . . Duke Elvire De Bousquet, who allegedly blew his fortune (close to a million) gambling at Monte Carlo. He is now the maitre d' at Bucks County Playhouse Inn. . . . The top model's beau-friend (married) who dropped dead the other day with a receipt in his pocket for her $6,000 mink. She was hysterical all week calling cops and begging them to keep the news from his wife. . . . The network headliner, whose prestige dived, who is drowning in booze, too. The tragedy is the woman in his life, who is ditto. She never drank a drop until she met him. . . . The backstage stickup of $7,000 at "Plain & Fancy." The salaries of the troupe. It wouldn't have been staged by gentlemen-friends of some of the chorines, would it? . . . The predicament of the Latin Quarter stage manager, Ernie D'Amato. He's allergic to feeders, which all 25 ladies of the ensemble wear. He constantly sneezes, which is seeds better than a stuffed schnozz. . . . The famed racket monarch, who is burned up at Perry Como for not saying "howdy" as they passed on the street. (Perry, you lil ol' snob!)

Modelulu Resalie Vernon's upcoming lawsuit against a mid-western mfr. alleging slander, damage to her reputation, etc. . . . Henry Fonda, who tells chums the trial separation is just that. Mrs. Fonda tells pals she's had it.

The population of the United States, now in excess of 165 million, has doubled since 1900.

Our Children

Imperfect Humanity

Every human being longs in his inmost soul to be perfect, to rise superior to all his difficulties and, secretly, to stand above all others in his full power and dignity. But nobody yet has achieved that goal. There is no perfection in this world. Perfection means the end of growth, and that would be the end of all of us.

Yet we keep reaching for the perfect thing, the perfect man and the perfect child. That helps us to grow and keep growing, provided we keep in mind that it is the effort that counts and not the failure to reach the high standard we set. Effort toward a perfect job, toward a perfect character, is the very essence of a healthy, successful life. It is that we must encourage in children, and in ourselves, and keep trying—even though we fail again and again.

Children often are grieved and discouraged to the point of tears by teachers and parents who never seem to be satisfied with a nearly-perfect lesson or mark. "Ninety-eight in spelling. What was the matter with the last word? Seems to me that you might get a hundred in anything as easy as spelling."

This discouraging attitude is very common. A pupil writes a fine composition. He wrote it in high heat, the fire of creation burning brightly within him, but his penmanship was bad, very bad. And he had a couple of blots. Without reading the composition, the teacher of English said, holding the paper like a banner, "My word, looks as if a duck's foot had walked all over this. Can't you even be neat? A third grade child could hand in a better paper than this." But she hadn't read the story which, when she finally got to it, made her sing for joy.

But the boy had gone home to say, "I'm never going to write another composition for that teacher. Get me a transfer to another school. If you don't, I'll quit school."

It is so easy to see the mistakes and not so easy to see through them to the effort the child made, the degree of success he achieved. And the struggling learner is easily hurt and discouraged and made to feel unfit.

Dr. Edward Johnstone, of Vine-land, used to say, "Why Tommy, you have FOUR words right. Wonder if you'll surely get another one tomorrow. Good boy."

Maybe if we tried that plan, praising the right word, the one fine sentence on the paper, the "B" on the card, we'd do better?

Does your child have bad eating habits? Is he a food fussy? Dr. Patri explains the importance of good eating habits for good health in his booklet No. 303, "Feeding Children." To obtain a copy, send 25 cents in coin to get care of this paper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Worry Clinic

By Dr. George W. Crane

Horace's dilemma shows that religion needs to be decided in logical fashion. Young people are very idealistic in the teens. They should not be upset by confusing the "form" for the "substance." Jesus was an advocate of common sense and often criticized the church ritual of his day.

Case Q-360: Horace P., aged 14.

is a thoughtful high schooler. "Dr. Crane, I am quite worried," he confessed to me after he had addressed his high school convocation.

"I want to join the church. But I don't know how to be baptized. My grandmother says I will never go to heaven unless I am immersed clear under the water. 'But the church which I've been attending, thinks baptism by sprinkling is O. K."

"You've been teaching a Bible Class for many years," so what would you recommend?"

Logical
My mother was in Horace's dilemma when she was a teen-ager. She had been baptized by sprinkling and then listened to a religious orator who informed her she would go to Hell unless she was immersed.

So she was baptized a second time by immersion, as have been millions of devout Christians. Many churches nowadays, however, leave it up to the new member and will accede to his wishes in the matter.

Actually, we have often unduly stressed "form" in religion and have ignored the underlying "substance."

If a person is baptized by total immersion under the water, obviously this water bath does not wash away his sins, for water even though full of modern soap and detergents, will not dissolve sin.

Since the act of baptism is thus purely a symbolical process, it indicates a change in the applicant's outlook, then many church members believe it makes no essential difference whether a person is sprinkled or totally immersed or just has water poured upon his head.

Now I anticipate a great influx of rabid criticism for having I tentatively mention such a top as baptism.

And many editors will probably be deluged with red hot letters from readers demanding that Dr. Crane's column be deleted henceforth from the newspaper.

For when people can't state logical analysis, they immediately try to maintain the status quo, stirring up mob psychology to undermine the advocate of logic. "Moral indignation," stated G. Wells, is jealousy with halo.

But a scientist should never be coerced by mob hysteria.

"Always look a mob in the face," stated John Wesley, and the what I have often done in I column as regards the presswork that has prevented nervous circulation of some misguided slogan of a previous century.

John the Baptist started the idea of baptizing with water. He said that Jesus baptized the Holy Ghost.

Jesus left no word at all in Bible saying Christians should be baptized by sprinkling or pour or immersion.

So the act of baptism should never that different church leaders, not Christ, are responsible for symbolism.

Always write to Dr. Crane care of this newspaper, enclose a long 3 cent stamp, add envelope and 20 cents to e typing and printing costs when send for one of his booklets.

Progress On French Farms

Probably in no other country on earth is there a greater devotion of the farmer toward his land than in France. The French are a people of small land-holdings, small farms, sedulously tilled, constantly fertilized, ditched and drained and guarded against erosion. The per-acre production of French farms is fabulous; yet the manpower utilized in producing French crops is inordinantly large compared to such mechanized farming nations as the United States. Many of the small farms of France employ methods and tools which have changed little since Biblical times, when the legions of the Caesars were deployed on the fertile plains of the great rivers southeast of Paris.

Within the past several years, however, the inevitable tendency toward larger farming units, fully mechanized, has made itself felt in France.

One of the "show places" of French agriculture is the family-owned but incorporated 1,360-acre farm of the Liermans, father and son, not far from the historic battlefields of Soissons and Chateau Thierry, in the Department of the Aisne.

This establishment is valued at more than $570,000, in American money. Annual gross sales range from $200,000 to $230,000. Marcel Lierman and his son, Roger, the latter 33 years old, are "agricultural engineers," the father being a graduate of the "Institut National d'Agronomie."

In an average year, last year, the Liermans devoted 486 acres to wheat, 272 acres to sugar beets, 127 acres to alfalfa, 73, to rapeseed, 64, to barley, 36 to oats, 43 to winter barley and 21 to flax.

They grew a good-sized garden, providing vegetables for their entire establishment; and canned many delicious fruits from their diversified orchard.

The Lierman farm has 103 acres set aside for cattle pasture, and 68 acres for sheep runs. There are two sheep herds of about 420 each, and about 750 lambs are marketed annually. Thirty-five milking cows provide about 1,000 of gallons of milk per cow annually. A thoroughly modern pigery yields more than 300 swine annually. Fifty to 60 steers are purchased each year, in the fall, for grain feeding and winter fattening.

The farm employs 40 to 50 full-time farmhands, mechanics and supervisors, and increases its working force to 70 or more during the crop season. This, it will be noted, is about triple the number that would be employed on a modernized American farm growing the same crops and livestock. Many of the workers live in a village, in houses owned by the Liermans, paying $1 per month rent. Some have held the same jobs for 25 or more years. Each family has its individual garden, and receives free electricity and supplies at greatly reduced prices.

From 30 to 35 per cent of the farm's annual gross goes for labor; but under a long-range program mechanization is being increased five per cent annually, and labor retrained as machines are introduced.

The farm now has five tractors, two trucks and six trailers, together with a wide variety of other mechanized equipment. It serves as the center of a cooperative pool embracing ten farms, where tractors and other labor-saving machinery can be rented, with drivers, on a day's notice, with the cost apportioned.

Productivity of the Lierman farm has increased 50 per cent since 1915, through better seed selection, increased fertilization and advanced methods of tillage and harvest.

France has a system of price supports somewhat akin to that of the United States, embracing basic farm commodities. The Liermans, unlike most other French farmers, say they would prefer an open market without subsidies.

One of the biggest needs confronting French agriculture, they pointed out, is easy credit at low interest rates.

Deadly Doctrine Of A U. S. Circuit Court

One of the most far-reaching and dangerous decisions ever handed down by a U.S. Court of Appeals was promulgated Friday by a circuit court of three judges in Washington, D. C.

By a two-to-one majority, this tribunal ruled that the powers of Congress to investigate red infiltration into American society, and government, is limited sharply; and that Congressional investigators have no right to compel witnesses to name former Communist associates.

Here is raised a new jurisprudential theory of the rights and duties of Congress, revolutionary in its implications, harrassing in its limitations that would be imposed upon the Congress—amounting to a bold new challenge that the U. S. Supreme Court is the final and supreme legislative body in this land; and that the Congress is a fawning creature and servile subsidiary of the nine justices constituting the Supreme Court.

This court boldly lays down the theory that the right of Congress to investigate traitorism and subversive activities is not an absolute right, but rather a limited right depending entirely upon what slant a federal judge might take, on the wild-eyed premise that Congressional inquiries must have as their purpose some valid legislative goal, such as remedial laws.

How utterly idiotic can a Court of Appeals get? How far removed from the U. S. Constitution, and the Bill of Rights? How long will the American people submit to the rapidly growing tyranny of the U. S. Courts as at present constituted—the lowest in talent and in public esteem this country ever knew in its immemorial history—which in their middle echelons and at their source in the United States Supreme Court rapidly are seizing and usurping legislative functions of government; and are issuing laws and edicts by judicial fiat, in contempt of Congress and the Executive Branch of the Government?

When that right is destroyed, American liberty is destroyed. When that right is impaired, American liberty is in deadly danger.

Farm Price Declines

In the three weeks since Congress met, Republicans have shown signs of panic over farm price declines. Democrats have offered the same old panaceas of the Truman administration and both sides have turned a real problem into a political football.

The President's farm message offered nothing which had not been previously suggested, but it represented the best political thinking of the White House "palace guard" which took over from Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson the task of recommending ways of meeting what Republicans from farm states described as a political crisis.

Benson has taken a steady pounding for the past six months from Democrats and members of his own party, though continuing price decline had been predicted by agricultural economists as inevitable since farm prices began dropping at the end of the Korean war, with the steady increase in European production of basic farm products a contributing factor.

Some non-political observers who have visited agricultural areas devoted to feed grains, cotton and dairy products believe that the concern of members of Congress in an election year is more acute than that of the farmers themselves. At any rate, the decline in farm prices has become a major issue among members of Congress from the both parties, with occasional evidences of something closely resembling demagoguery.

Since the government buying of hogs has now produced enough for school lunches and the other non-commercial uses for which it was designed and most of the original 500 million dollars allocated last November for that purpose has been spent, without an upturn in the price of hogs, demands are being made that packing companies increase the price they are paying for hogs.

The packers' reply is that the Department of Agriculture fixed the price to be paid for hogs bought for the non-commercial program and they have not paid less than that price. Any higher price will have to be passed on to the consumer at a time when the lowered cost of pork products, widely advertised by chain and group markets, is increasing sales. The renamed "She's A Bang" . . . The song publisher in big trouble for not paying writers 150 grand.

The Tin Pan Alley copycats, who have just come out with two "new" ditties titled: "Weep Me An Ocean" and "Love Is Many Things" . . . The playwright (now represented on Broadway) who is ooily embarrassed. His pal left him for a girl! . . . Bob Goldworm, who hoped to marry Janis Paige (she eloped with another), being consoled by ballerina Mary Ellen Terry. . . The top Broadway producer who is back at his psychiatrist's. His stage manager and Girl Friday quit him and he wants to know why. . . Eartha Kitt, who says she missed getting a large bauble from an Arabian prince because she got her picture in the London papers wearing slax. The sheik thwift it was soooo unchic. . . Duke Elvire De Bousquet, who allegedly blew his fortune (close to a million) gambling at Monte Carlo. He is now the maitre d' at Bucks County Playhouse Inn.

The top model's beau-friend (married) who dropped dead the other day with a receipt in his pocket for her $6,000 mink. She was hysterical all week calling cops and begging them to keep the news from his wife. . . The network headliner, whose prestige dived, who is drowning in booze, too. The tragedy is the woman in his life, who is ditto. She never drank a drop until she met him. . . The backstage stickup of $7,000 at "Plain & Fancy." The salaries of the troupe. It wouldn't have been staged by gentlemensult, say both packers and retailers, would reduce demand, and thus fill additional warehouse space with more pork.

President Eisenhower's soil plan, a proposal made numerous times before but never adopted by Congress, to prevent accumulation of surpluses, was brought forth by the White House as a surprise move to counter Democratic demands for restoration of payments at 90 per cent parity. It has been reported here on good authority that Secretary Benson did not know until the last minute that the President would propose the soil bank.

Its overall immensity is regarded dubiously by both Department of Agriculture officials and heads of farm organizations, both of whom have seen plans to raise farm prices fail during peace time, with only war periods bringing agricultural booms.

The steady drift toward large farming enterprises, which has reached a point where two million of the 4,500,000 farms in the United States produce 90 per cent of the grain and other crops, 1½ million earn a bare subsistence and another million show an income of less than 1,000 per person indicates that the small farmer, finding many champions in Congress, would benefit to only negligible extent from the farm assistance plans now under consideration. Size of the average farm has increased 5 per cent in the last 20 years, and the 40 acre farm is gradually being squeezed out of existence.

The political debate on farm supports largely ignores this trend toward bigness which is just as apparent in business where thousands of small retail outlets have shut up shop. It also pays scant attention to the self defeating purpose of permitting farmers who have curtailed some crops to grow feed grains for livestock, increasing production of both cattle and hogs and thus sending prices down.

The forlorn hope of Republican leaders at this stage is that the price cycle is about due for an upturn. If that doesn't happen, the farm vote could wield the balance of power in the next election, as it apparently did in 1948, when farmers listened to Harry S. Truman more than to Thomas E. Dewey.

Worry Clinic

By Dr. George W. Crane

Horace's dilemma shows that religion needs to be defended in logical fashion. Young people are very idealistic in the teens. They should not be upset by confusing the "form" for the "substance." Jesus was an advocate of common sense and often criticized the church ritual of his day.

Case Q-360: Horace P., aged 14.

is a thoughtful high schooler. "Dr. Crane, I am quite worried," he confessed to me after I had addressed his high school convocation.

"I want to join the church. But I don't know how to be baptized. My grandmother says I will never go to heaven unless I am immersed clear under the water. "But the church which I've been attending, thinks baptism by sprinkling is O. K.

"You've been teaching a Bible Class for many years," so what would you recommend?"

Logical Religion
My mother was in Horace's dilemma when she was a teen-ager. She had been baptized by sprinkling and then listened to a religious orator who informed her she would go to Hell unless she was immersed.

So she was baptized a second time by immersion, as have been millions of devout Christians. Many churches nowadays, however, leave it up to the new member and will accede to his wishes in the matter.

Actually, we have often unduly stressed "form" in religion and have ignored the underlying "substance." If a person is baptized by total immersion under the water, obviously this water bath does not wash away his sins, for water, even though full of modern soap and detergents, will not dissolve sins!

Since the act of baptism is thus purely a symbolical process, to indicate a change in the applicant's outlook, then many church members believe it makes no essential difference whether a person is sprinkled or totally immersed or just has water poured upon his head.

Now I anticipate a great influx of rabid criticism for having the temerity to mention such a topic as baptism.

And many editors will probably be deluged with red hot letters from readers demanding that Dr. Crane's column be deleted henceforth from the newspaper.

For when people can't stand logical analysis, they immediately try to stir up mob psychology to intimidate the advocate of logic.

"Moral indignation," stated H. G. Wells, "is jealousy with a halo."

But a scientist should never be coerced by mob hysteria.

"Always look a mob in the face," stated John Wesley, and that's what I have often done in this column as regards the previous taboo that has prevented newspapers from releasing sound medico-psychological facts about both sex as well as religion.

Religious Salesmanship
In our college courses on "Sales Psychology," we stress the value of presenting logical answers to prospects. People need facts.

And when teenagers are distressed or made neurotic by religious ritual, then we have a right to analyze such ritual to see if it is correct or simply an antiquated hieology of some misguided theologian of a previous century.

John the Baptist started the policy of baptizing with water but he said that Jesus baptized with the Holy Ghost.

Jesus left no word at all in the Bible saying Christians should be baptized by sprinkling or pouring or immersion.

So teen-agers should recognize that different church leaders, and not Christ, are responsible for such symbolism!

Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long 3 cent stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.

Construction Of Bridge Is Begun On Boeuf River

The new bridge over Boeuf River on U. S. 90 in Richland Parish is now under construction by the highway department.

Board member Sam Short said Friday that a contract has been approved at $250,000 with Spohrer-Pollard, contractors of Bossier City.

The bridge now under construction will be a 380-foot concrete and I-beam span with a 28-foot roadway clearance. The span will be in the vicinity of the old Rayville bridge which will be by-passed by the proposed relocation of U. S. 90 in this area.

During the 104 months, estimated time needed for completion of the new structure, traffic will use the existing bridge.

Episcopal Bishop Will Visit Local Churches Sunday

The bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Louisiana, the Rt. Rev. Girault M. Jones, D. D., will make his annual visitation to the Episcopal churches in Monroe Sunday. The bishop will confirm a class of candidates at Grace Church, Monroe, at the 9:45 a.m. service. The class will be presented by the rector of Grace Church, the Rev. John M. Allin. The bishop will be the celebrant and preacher at the 9:45 service, at which time the newly confirmed will make their first communion.

Bishop Jones will visit St. Alban's Church at 8 a.m. and St. Thomas's at 7:30 p.m. Candidates for confirmation at these churches will be presented by the Rev. Robert E. Ratelle, rector.

At 3:30 p.m. the bishop will confirm a class at St. Patrick's Church, the newly formed Episcopal Church in West Monroe. The Rev. James E. Marshall, priest in charge, will present the class. Friends of the Episcopal Church are invited to be present for the services.

Monroe Civitans Hear Address On Cerebral Palsy

The Monroe Civitan Club Thursday night at La Casa had as guest speaker K. E. Griswold, director of the cerebral palsy school at Selman field. Also attending the meeting was John C. Brinsmade, Jr., of the faculty of the University of Alaska, who is making an extended tour of the entire United States. He is a cousin of H. H. Brinsmade of Monroe.

Mr. Griswold gave information of the disease cerebral palsy, which is the name given when certain brain cells are injured. These refer especially to cells in the brain that control the motor center. It can happen he said to any one at any time in life.

There are 350,000 adult and 200,000 child cerebral palsy patients in the United States. Every year, Griswold said, 10,000 babies are born in the United States with C.P.

The disease can not be cured but conditions can be alleviated. The speaker told of the work that the school is trying to accomplish at Selman field.

Mr. Griswold was introduced by Program Chairman Capt. J. W. Faler. Following his talk, the speaker answered various questions.

Mr. Brinsmade was introduced by H. H. Brinsmade, his cousin, and while not on the program for a talk, he did speak about some of the conditions encountered in Alaska, from the sometimes 50 degrees below zero cold, to the conditions occasioning the midnight sun.

He also answered some questions from the audience.

In a leisurely three months recess from duties at his university, Mr. Brinsmade and his wife came over the Alcan highway which he said was better than some stretches in California. Then they proceeded on the west coast to get on highway 80 which brought them to Monroe. From here they go to New Orleans, Mobile, Pensacola and lower Florida. Then they will go up the Atlantic coast to New York and to Connecticut, native state of Mr. Brinsmade.

Before opening the meeting, formally, President Lea S. Thompson, thanked members for their support of him as candidate for member of the house at Baton Rouge and asked they continue this support when the runoff is held on February 21.

School Board To Join In Parish Recreation Plan

LAKE PROVIDENCE, Jan. 27 (Special) — At the January meeting of the East Carroll Parish School Board, a resolution was adopted whereby the board might enter into a parish-wide recreation program on a cooperative basis with the parish police jury and the town of Lake Providence, subject to provisions of an ordinance to be adopted by the Police Jury creating and forming a legal subdivision in the State of Louisiana

Officers Named For Tulane-Monroe Meeting Feb. 19

Officers of the second Tulane-Monroe Conference, to be held February 19, at the Virginia Hotel, were announced yesterday by Fred Fudickar, Jr., general chairman of the conference.

Officers are: Harry Frazer, Jr., finance and registrations chairman; F. C. Terzia, Jr. arrangements chairman; Fred A. Coon, Jr. publicity chairman; A. E. Montgomery, Jr., attendance chairman; and Mrs. Robert Oliver, hospitality chairman.

The Tulane-Monroe Conference is half-day educational lecture-discussion program featuring outstanding Tulane University faculty members and local experts in various fields.

Subjects for the 15 conference include psychology, human engineering, medicine, automation, anthropology, business, music and other education fields, Fudickar said.

Dr. Maxwell E. Laphams, dean of the Tulane University school of medicine, will be the luncheon speaker for the conference.

All of the conference program will be open to the public, Fudickar said.

The Tulane Alumni Association and the Tulane Alumni Club of Monroe are the sponsors of the Tulane-Monroe conference.

Dimes Drive By Progressive Men To Open Saturday

Saturday night from 8 to 12 the Progressive Men's Club will hold its annual March of Dimes drive with all proceeds going to the polio drive which is underway at the present time.

Tickets can be purchased from members of the club or at the door, according to Louis Costanza, president of the club. Salvatore Milello is chairman of the dance.

Colie Fontana and his orchestra will furnish the music. Costanza said that the club hoped to raise $1,000 for the March of Dimes.

Friday the Progressive Men's Club was in charge of street collections in the downtown area. Saturday the Northeast Louisiana Shrine Club will have charge of street collections.

John Luffey, chairman of the 1956 drive, urged every individual in the parish to drop their dimes into the coin collectors which have been placed in business establishments throughout Ouachita parish.

Representative Of Commodity Issuance Here

A. L. McClanahan, representative of the Louisiana department of agriculture, was in the Twin City area Friday for the purpose of discussing the newly-initiated commodity distribution program with interested parish officials.

McClanahan said Dave L. Pearce, Louisiana commissioner of agriculture, "is vitally interested in seeing the program initiated in each parish where the local situation shows a need."

"He also wants to lend a hand in accelerating and streamlining the operation in those parishes where distribution has begun," he continued. "I feel that everything possible is being done in Ouachita Parish to give the needy speedy consideration."

Those interested in certification may contact the local welfare office for details, McClanahan said. Meanwhile Pearce issued the following statement on his position regarding the surplus food distribution program.

"The federal government is spending millions of dollars of taxpayers' money for storage charges on surplus food while all around us we see our own people in desperate need of this food."

"As it now stands I have been able through Washington to secure certification for all parishes in the state to receive and distribute these commodities on the basis of need. However, only farm families are eligible under the present program. I personally feel that, inasmuch as these commodities were purchased not only with tax money from farmers but by the public in general, it is unfair to confine distribution to farmers only."

"I have previously expressed this viewpoint to Washington as well as here locally and I shall continue to advocate and fight for a commodity distribution program to include every person who is actually in need. Such a program will strengthen our lagging farm prices and at the same time be of untold assistance to those many, many families now needing food."

Those who are interested in seeing this program in operation are urged to contact their police juryman, local welfare officials, state representative and senators, he said.

known as the East Carroll Parish Recreation District.

The Parish School Board will furnish the recreational director, Paul Geisler, and make school facilities available for a year-round program.

Acting committee members working for the establishment of the program are: Paul Geisler, Keener Howard, Frank Voelker, Jr., Joe LeBeau, W. B. Cone, L. E. Walters, Graham Schneider and P. E. Fortenberry.

Fifth District G.O.P. Women Elect Officers

Mrs. E. W. Blegenwald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. James, was elected president of the Fifth District Republican Women's Club Thursday night when the members met at an annual dinner.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Roy Johns, vice-president and Mrs. Edward B. Ellison, secretary and treasurer.

The lively discussion following the election of officers centered around interest of the club in the general election on April 17, when C. C. Boardman, Robert Easterling and E. C. Dansby will run for police jury in ward 10 against the Democratic nominees.

Concluding her term as president, Mrs. John Reitzell said in part:

"It is heartening to us as we begin this 'year of decision' to find three exceptionally well qualified Republicans offering themselves as candidates in a local election. This is the fundamental way of developing a two-party system."

"The election on January 17 demonstrated forcibly the need of a two-party system in Louisiana. Close party competition, where the choice narrows to two candidates, would provide continuity of leadership, and continuity of voter support, and would bring an end to the ridiculous situation of an opposition split four to six and some times eight ways."

"The first statement the governor-elect made to the press was his assurance that Louisiana would be pledged to the Democrat presidential nominee no matter who that might be. It would seem this leaves a large segment of Louisiana Democrats without a voice in the affairs of their party."

"Those of us who are registered Republicans invite them to join with us in this pioneer movement of building a two-party system. A wholesale change of registration would bring about an opposition party of great strength, the natural cleavage for which already exists."

"Whatever the label, the establishment of a two-party system in Louisiana and elsewhere in the South becomes more essential every day."

The Island of Mauritius in the Indian Ocean was the home of the extinct dodo bird, says the National Geographic Society. Although the island is British, it was named for a Dutch prince. The majority of the people are Hindu and Moslem, but they speak a French patois.

Professor Francioni, a native of Labadieville, is a graduate of LSU, where he received his B. S. degree in 1914. He holds an M.S. from LSU and has done advanced study at Iowa State College. In 1914 he organized the Feliciana Cow Testing Association, the first dairy cow testing association in the South.

In 1915 he became a field representative of the Louisiana State Livestock Sanitary Board and in 1916 joined the Louisiana State University Agricultural Extension Service.

He became assistant professor of animal industry at LSU in 1920 and in 1931 was named professor and head of the department. He retired from his administrative duties recently but has continued teaching.

Greene said that the dedication was decided on in recognition of Professor Francioni's long and distinguished service to the livestock industry in the fields of research and teaching.

Professor Francioni is a member of numerous professional and scholarly organizations and is the author of numerous publications on animal industry topics. He is credited with several inventions of improved equipment for meat processing and has served as consultant to foreign countries on development of their livestock industries. In 1943 he received a citation from the War Department for development of butchering equipment for use by the armed forces supply services overseas. He has been active in civic affairs in Baton Rouge.

Cattlemen To Dedicate Meet To Francioni

BATON ROUGE, Jan. 27—(Special)—The 1956 convention of the Louisiana Cattlemen's Association, which will be held at the Captain Shreve Hotel in Shreveport, February 16-17, will be dedicated to J. B. Francioni, Jr., professor of animal industry at Louisiana State University and for 25 years head of the Animal Industry Department.

Announcement of dedication of the convention to Professor Francioni was by the executive committee of the association, of which Watkins Greene, Youngsville, is president.

Professor Francioni, a native of Labadieville, is a graduate of LSU, where he received his B. S. degree in 1914. He holds an M.S. from LSU and has done advanced study at Iowa State College. In 1914 he organized the Feliciana Cow Testing Association, the first dairy cow testing association in the South.

In 1915 he became a field representative of the Louisiana State Livestock Sanitary Board and in 1916 joined the Louisiana State University Agricultural Extension Service.

He became assistant professor of animal industry at LSU in 1920 and in 1931 was named professor and head of the department. He retired from his administrative duties recently but has continued teaching.

Greene said that the dedication was decided on in recognition of Professor Francioni's long and distinguished service to the livestock industry in the fields of research and teaching.

Professor Francioni is a member of numerous professional and scholarly organizations and is the author of numerous publications on animal industry topics. He is credited with several inventions of improved equipment for meat processing and has served as consultant to foreign countries on development of their livestock industries. In 1943 he received a citation from the War Department for development of butchering equipment for use by the armed forces supply services overseas. He has been active in civic affairs in Baton Rouge.

Construction Of Bridge Is Begun On Boeuf River

The new bridge over Boeuf River on U. S. 80 in Richland Parish is now under construction by the highway department.

Board member Sam Short said Friday that a contract has been approved at $250,000 with Spohrer-Pollard, contractors of Bossier City.

The bridge now under construction will be a 380-foot concrete and I-beam span with a 28-foot roadway clearance. The span will be in the vicinity of the old Rayville bridge which will be by-passed by the proposed relocation of U. S. 80 in this area.

During the 10 1/2 months, estimated time needed for completion of the new structure, traffic will use the existing bridge.

Episcopal Bishop Will Visit Local Churches Sunday

The bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Louisiana, the Rt. Rev. Girault M. Jones, D. D., will make his annual visitation to the Episcopal churches in Monroe Sunday. The bishop will confirm a class of candidates at Grace Church, Monroe, at the 9:45 a.m. service. The class will be presented by the rector of Grace Church, the Rev. John M. Allin. The Bishop will be the celebrant and preacher at the 9:45 service, at which time the newly confirmed will make their first communion.

Bishop Jones will visit St. Alban's Church at 8 a.m. and St. Thomas's at 7:30 p.m. Candidates for confirmation at these churches will be presented by the Rev. Robert E. Ratelle, rector.

At 3:30 p.m. the bishop will confirm a class at St. Patrick's Church, the newly formed Episcopal Church in West Monroe. The Rev. James E. Marshall, priest in charge, will present the class. Friends of the Episcopal Church are invited to be present for the services.

Monroe Civilians Hear Address On Cerebral Palsy

The Monroe Civitan Club Thursday night at La Casa had as guest speaker K. E. Griswold, director of the cerebral palsy school at Selman field. Also attending the meeting was John C. Brinsmade, Jr., of the faculty of the University of Alaska, who is making an extended tour of the entire United States. He is a cousin of H. H. Brinsmade of Monroe.

Mr. Griswold gave information of the disease cerebral palsy, which is the name given when certain brain cells are injured. These refer especially to cells in the brain that control the motor center. It can happen he said to any one at any time in life.

There are 350,000 adult and 200,000 child cerebral palsy patients in the United States. Every year, Griswold said, 10,000 babies are born in the United States with C.P.

The disease can not be cured but conditions can be alleviated. The speaker told of the work that the school is trying to accomplish at Selman field.

Mr. Griswold was introduced by Program Chairman Capt. J. W. Faler. Following his talk, the speaker answered various questions.

Mr. Brinsmade was introduced by H. H. Brinsmade, his cousin, and while not on the program for a talk, he did speak about some of the conditions encountered in Alaska, from the sometimes 50 degrees below zero cold, to the conditions occasioning the midnight sun.

He also answered some questions from the audience.

In a leisurely three months release from duties at his university, Mr. Brinsmade and his wife came over the Alcan highway which he said was better than some stretches in California. Then they proceeded on the west coast to get on highway 80 which brought them to Monroe. From there they go to New Orleans, Mobile, Pensacola and lower Florida. Then they will go up the Atlantic coast to New York and to Connecticut, native state of Mr. Brinsmade.

Before opening the meeting, formally, President Lea S. Thompson, thanked members for their support of him as candidate for member of the house at Baton Rouge and asked they continue this support when the runoff is held on February 21.

School Board To Join In Parish Recreation Plan

LAKE PROVIDENCE, Jan. 27 (Special) — At the January meeting of the East Carroll Parish School Board, a resolution was adopted whereby the board might enter into a parish-wide recreation program on a cooperative basis with the parish police jury and the town of Lake Providence, subject to provisions of an ordinance to be adopted by the Police Jury creating and forming a legal subdivision in the State of Louisiana.

Officers Named For Tulane-Monroe Meeting Feb. 19

Officers of the second Tulane-Monroe Conference, to be held February 19, at the Virginia Hotel, were announced yesterday by Fred Fudickar, Jr., general chairman of the conference.

Officers are: Harry Frazer, Jr., finance and registrations chairman; F. C. Terzia, Jr., arrangements chairman; Fred A. Coon, Jr., publicity chairman; A. E. Montgomery, Jr., attendance chairman; and Mrs. Robert Oliver, hospitality chairman.

The Tulane-Monroe Conference is half-day educational lecture-discussion program featuring outstanding Tulane University faculty members and local experts in various fields.

Subjects for the 15 conference include psychology, human engineering, medicine, automation, anthropology, business, music and other education fields, Fudickar said.

Dr. Maxwell E. Laphams, dean of the Tulane University school of medicine, will be the luncheon speaker for the conference.

All of the conference program will be open to the public, Fudickar said.

The Tulane Alumni Association and the Tulane Alumni Club of Monroe are the sponsors of the Tulane-Monroe conference.

Dimes Drive By Progressive Men To Open Saturday

Saturday night from 8 to 12 the Progressive Men's Club will hold its annual March of Dimes drive with all proceeds going to the polio drive which is underway at the present time.

Tickets can be purchased from members of the club or at the door, according to Louis Costanza, president of the club. Salvatore Milello is chairman of the dance.

Colie Fontana and his orchestra will furnish the music.

Costanza said that the club hoped to raise $1,000 for the March of Dimes.

Friday the Progressive Men's Club was in charge of street collections in the downtown area. Saturday the Northeast Louisiana Shrine Club will have charge of street collections.

John Luffey, chairman of the 1956 drive, urged every individual in the parish to drop their dimes into the coin collectors which have been placed in business establishments throughout Ouachita parish.

Representative Of Commodity Issuance Here

A. L. McClanahan, representative of the Louisiana department of agriculture, was in the Twin City area Friday for the purpose of discussing the newly-initiated commodity distribution program with interested parish officials.

McClanahan said Dave L. Pearce, Louisiana commissioner of agriculture, "is vitally interested in seeing the program initiated in each parish where the local situation shows a need."

"He also wants to lend a hand in accelerating and streamlining the operation in those parishes where distribution has begun," he continued. "I feel that everything possible is being done in Ouachita Parish to give the needy speedy consideration."

Those interested in certification may contact the local welfare office for details, McClanahan said.

Meanwhile Pearce issued the following statement on his position regarding the surplus food distribution program.

"The federal government is spending millions of dollars of taxpayers' money for storage charges on surplus food while all around us we see our own people in desperate need of this food.

"As it now stands I have been able through Washington to secure certification for all parishes in the state to receive and distribute these commodities on the basis of need. However, only farm families are eligible under the present program. I personally feel that, inasmuch as these commodities were purchased not only with tax money from farmers but by the public in general, it is unfair to confine distribution to farmers only.

"I have previously expressed this viewpoint to Washington as well as here locally and I shall continue to advocate and fight for a commodity distribution program to include every person who is actually in need. Such a program will strengthen our lagging farm prices and at the same time be of untold assistance to those many, many families now needing food."

Those who are interested in seeing this program in operation are urged to contact their police jury-men, local welfare officials, state representative and senators, he said.

known as the East Carroll Parish Recreation District.

The Parish School Board will furnish the recreational director, Paul Geisler, and make school facilities available for a year-round program.

Fifth District G.O.P. Women Elect Officers

Mrs. E. W. Biegenwald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. James, was elected president of the Fifth District Republican Women's Club Thursday night when the members met at an annual dinner.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Roy Johns, vice-president and Mrs. Edward B. Ellison, secretary and treasurer.

The lively discussion following the election of officers centered around interest of the club in the general election on April 17, when C. C. Boardman, Robert Easterling and E. C. Dansby will run for police jury in ward 10 against the Democratic nominees.

Concluding her term as president, Mrs. John Reitzell said in part:

"It is heartening to us as we begin this year of decision to find three exceptionally well qualified Republicans offering themselves as candidates in a local election. This is the fundamental way of developing a two-party system.

"The election on January 17 demonstrated forcibly the need of a two-party system in Louisiana. Close party competition, where the choice narrows to two candidates, would provide continuity of leadership, and continuity of voter support, and would bring an end to the ridiculous situation of an opposition split four to six and some times eight ways.

"The first statement the governor-elect made to the press was his assurance that Louisiana would be pledged to the Democrat presidential nominee no matter who that might be. It would seem this leaves a large segment of Louisiana Democrats without a voice in the affairs of their party.

"Those of us who are registered Republicans invite them to join with us in this pioneer movement of building a two-party system. A wholesale change of registration would bring about an opposition party of great strength, the natural cleavage for which already exists.

"Whatever the label, the establishment of a two-party system in Louisiana and elsewhere in the South becomes more essential every day."

The island of Mauritius in the Indian Ocean was the home of the extinct dodo bird, says the National Geographic Society. Although the island is British, it was named for a Dutch prince. The majority of the people are Hindu and Moslem, but they speak a French patois.

Public Affairs Committee In Charge Of B&PW Program

The Business and Professional Women's Club met at the YWCA Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in observance of the monthly program meeting.

The Public Affairs committee was in charge of arrangements. A most interesting and educational program was presented, the highlight of which was the talk given by L. Cook. He used as his topic MAJDCO, and told of the purchase of site of ground, approximately 250 acres to be used for the encouraging of new industry into the city.

Also of great interest and informative value were the facts given by Commissioner Wayne H. Huckaby as he gave a talk on the railroad crossing situation in our town. He said that he believed that in the not too far future efforts would be taken to correct this traffic problem.

At the conclusion of the talks, Mr. Huckaby showed his color films, scenes of our own beautiful city of Monroe.

Then guests and members were invited into the dining room which was beautifully decorated with carnations. Refreshments were served to the following members and guests: Agnes Krogmire, Irene Reid, Inas Gwin, Lela Wyatt, Bessie Skinner, Laura Slater, Alice Baur, Gladys Miles, Hazel Wakefield, Lila Swinson, Edna Manley.

The Subdebs Of Oak Grove

The Subdebs of Oak Grove held a meeting in the home of Winston Bennett Tuesday afternoon at 2:30, with the secretary, Toni Roberts calling the meeting to order, and presiding in the absence of the president. To change the present time of the meetings was brought up and discussed. The club regrets losing Margaret McLenore as a member. She is moving to Lake Village, Ark. New guests at the meeting were Larry Corley, and Billie Daniels. After the meeting, a social hour was held.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Some May Over Eat To Fill Emotional Needs

Why do people overeat? Well, for many reasons. Probably the most usual one is habit. Adults are apt to be products of the eating habits which they experienced during childhood and teenage years at home.

People often seem to follow the emotional pattern of their childhood homes, too. For this reason children of unhappy parents are classified as one of the big risks in a marriage of their own.

I am sure that this could work both ways. The young girl and young man who grew up in the midst of emotional turmoil between parents should be the ones who know how to appreciate the importance of happiness in a marriage of their own. However, the theory seems to be that they have had such great psychological repercussions from distress that they do not respond as they normally would have.

Depends on individual. I think it all depends on the individual, in emotional pattern and in eating. If the mind and the heart are wide open for a better way of life, whether in nutrition or in romance, it will be found.

What I am most concerned about today is the middle aged woman, who without realizing it is eating more than she should in order to make up for emotional lacks.

This even has a name. It is called "Emotional Obesity," and is a recognized term in doctors' offices, as well as in the office of psychologists.

Food always has been comforting to man. Women who feel that they are not successful in their emotional relationships sometimes turn to food for solace. If you find yourself eating much more than you used to check yourself on this score.

Selman Pupils Give Benefit For Polio Drive

The Selman Elementary students presented a talent show Friday at the Selman auditorium for the benefit of the March of Dimes drive.

The program presented included an acoustic, POLIO by members of Mrs. Ruth Lee's third grade. Mrs. Ernestine Cook's first grade gave a number of vocal numbers and a reading. Mrs. Jesse Johnson's second grade was represented by three little girls singing a popular number.

The third grade, under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Hovem, appeared in a delightful skit, "Caps For Sale". A quintette of girls sang "The Bible Tells Me So" for Mrs. Fisher's fourth grade while the fourth grade from Mrs. Lera Hennessey's room read original poems.

Julie Clark and Latina Harris entertained with batons. Sharon Kay Little rendered a piano solo. Louise Weir and Chris Asby charmed the group with an acrobatic number and Chris Asby tapped her way into their hearts, all from Mrs. G. B. Wilson's fifth grade. Vevie and Louise Weir, accompanied by Donna Weaver gave a tap dance for Mrs. Opal Bauer's sixth grade.

Public Affairs Committee In Charge Of B&PW Program

The Business and Professional Women's Club met at the YWCA Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in observance of the monthly program meeting.

The Public Affairs committee was in charge of arrangements. A most interesting and educational program was presented, the highlight of which was the talk given by L. Cook. He used as his topic MAIDCO, and told of the purchase of site of ground, approximately 250 acres to be used for the encouraging of new industry into the city.

Also of great interest and informative value were the facts given by Commissioner Wayne H. Huckaby as he gave a talk on the railroad crossing situation in our town. He said that he believed that in the not too far future efforts would be taken to correct this traffic problem.

At the conclusion of the talks, Mr. Huckaby showed his color films, scenes of our own beautiful city of Monroe.

Then guests and members were invited into the dining room which was beautifully decorated with camellias. Refreshments were served to the following members and guests: Agnes Krogmire, Irene Reid, Inas Gwin, Lela Wyatt, Bessie Skinner, Laura Slaton, Alice Baur, Gladys Miles, Hazel Wakefield, Lula Swinson, Edna Manley.

Rainbow Girls Attended Installation

The order of Rainbow Girls No. 47 of Oak Grove attended the installation of officers at the Masonic Hall in Rayville Sunday at 2 p.m. Julia Ann White, recorder, Joy Holly, installing officer, Lillian Hollingsworth, chaplain, and D'Wana Head, marshal, participated in the installing. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Jewel Head, and Mrs. Julia White. Mrs. Head is the advisor of the Rainbow Girls. The meeting was held in the Masonic Hall and the crowd was served refreshments afterwards.

Mrs. B. Bullock
New PresidentLAKE PROVIDENCE — The
January meeting of the Cypress

Home Demonstration Club was held in the home of Mrs. Adrian Ryals of the Monticello Community. The meeting began at 9:30 and was climaxed by a "pot luck" dinner to which each member present contributed a covered dish.

Mrs. Bill Bullock, newly elected president presided over the short business session. Mrs. Schevon Antley, secretary, read the minutes of the previous meeting.

Miss Eunyce Howard, parish

agent, demonstrated the use of several items of sewing equipment, such as a hen gauge, cutting board, etc. The theme for the day's meeting was "sewing" and samples of new materials were shown to those present.

Those present included Messrs. Billy Kirksey, Roy Burgess, Jr., J. A. Bullock, Bill Bullock, Schevon Antley, Adrian Ryals, Miss Eunyce Howard and Miss Peggy Callari.

House Elected To
Police Jury Post

LAKE PROVIDENCE, Jan. 27 (Special) — At an official meeting of the Parish Democratic Executive committee Sam House, Jr. was officially named the second member of the police jury from Ward 3.

It was originally thought that there would be a run-off for this position. S. K. Mitchiner won the other position with a clear majority in the first balloting.

Total votes cast for all candidates for the Police Jury in Ward 3, were 2,045. Since two jurors were to be selected, the total votes cast were divided by four, making it necessary for each winning candidate to receive 511 1/4 votes. House was given 512 votes, just of one vote over the line.

Neuberger Stirs
Republicans With
Remarks On Ike

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 —UP— Republican leaders Friday coldly denounced a suggestion by Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D-Ore.) that "panicky politicians" might use drugs to get President Eisenhower through another election campaign.

Senate GOP leader William F. Knowland, a possible presidential candidate himself, told the Senate he was "deeply shocked" by Neuberger's statement. He said it "cast reflections" on the White House staff and Mr. Eisenhower's physicians.

"I hope that there is no repetition of this type of statement in the heat of the campaign," Knowland said.

Neuberger's statement, made in a newsletter to his constituents, also was denounced by Sen. Barry M. Goldwater (R-Ariz.), chairman of the Republican Senatorial campaign committee.

Neuberger replied that he was glad to have the newsletter printed because it was entirely "friendly" in tone. The freshman Democrat said he had sent a copy to Mr. Eisenhower to "express my good wishes regarding his health."

In the newsletter, Neuberger said a second term bid by the President would make Mr. Eisenhower's health an overriding campaign issue.

"There even exists the danger that panicky politicians... might try to have him propped up unwisely with drugs and other such aids so that he could fulfill speaking and TV commitments to the permanent detriment of his well-being, just to get by election day," he wrote.

White House Outlines
Ike's Recovery Routine

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 —UP— The White House Friday gave the public an outline of the streamlined new routine President Eisenhower has adopted since returning to work after his heart attack.

Real Values In Life Not Riches,
Dr. Cashman Says

"The Better Things of Life" formed the topic of the address of Dr. Robert Cashman of Shreveport before the Men's club of the First Methodist church Friday night.

It is not, he said, the physical luxuries which most of us desire such as beautiful homes, cars, travel and all that wealth can buy, but rather the unseen riches which come to us from the love of friends, good health, precious memories, a clear conscience and the practice of Christian stewardship.

He said in part:

"The Bible well illustrates in the story told by Luke of a certain ruler who came to Jesus and said 'Good Master what shall I do to inherit eternal life?' Jesus reminded him of the Ten Commandments, but these he said he had kept with diligence all his life. But Jesus pointed out the one great lack of all. Sell all thou hast and distribute unto the poor and then thou shalt have treasure in Heaven and then come follow Me."

When he heard this he went away sorrowful for he had great possessions.

"It is revealed also in times of serious illness, or when we mourn the death of loved ones and realize how quickly the emphasis changes on what we had previously regarded as important."

"When we suffer tragedies like the sinking of the great luxury liner, The Titanic, on April 14, 1912, when 1,502 souls were lost in a single night, we are told that men and women emerged from staterooms to the decks, leaving behind them all their stocks, bonds, jewelry and other luxuries as useless, it is not difficult to reassess the values of what were the better things of life."

At the meeting Mrs. James T. Harris accompanied Mrs. P. A. Poag at the piano with old time religious songs.

The opening prayer was by the Reverend Pomeroy and the benediction was given by the Rev. Kirby Vining.

Negro Children
Denied Entrance
To White School

WALNUT RIDGE, Ark., Jan. 27 —UP— Three Negro children tried without success today to enroll for the spring semester in the white elementary school at this north-east Arkansas town.

It was the second attempt this week by Arkansas Negroes to gain admittance to all-white schools. Twenty-seven Negroes applied for admission at three Little Rock schools Monday. They were rejected.

Walnut Ridge Supt. A. W. Rainwater said he told the Negro children and the three Negro adults who accompanied them that Walnut Ridge is "committed in its plan for this school year insofar as integration is concerned."

He added that a petition last September by seven Negroes for integration still is "under consideration."

The meeting was cordial and friendly, he said.

There are about 1,800 children in the Walnut Ridge school system. About 20 are Negro. Walnut Ridge maintains an elementary school for Negroes with one teacher, but Negro high school students are sent to a Negro school at Jonesboro, Ark., about 15 miles away.

Favrot Reports
No Leads On Red
Propaganda Hunt

BATON ROUGE, Jan. 27 —UP— District attorney J. St. Clair Favrot said today an investigation of Communist literature being mailed from Baton Rouge had "run into a blank wall."

"We just got on the case too late," he said.

Favrot announced several weeks ago Communist party literature advocating integration had been mailed from Baton Rouge and New Orleans. Communist activity is illegal in Louisiana.

Cotton Producers Still Hunting New Economical Bale

BILOXI, Miss., Jan. 27 (AP) — A cotton producer said today his industry still needs to find an economical bale that will keep lint clean and be easy to handle.

Joe Hardin of Grady, Ark., a member of the National Cotton Council's Production and Marketing Committee, said a council committee was working on the problem of packaging and had reduced the field of wrapping materials to five — polyethylene, vinyl films, burlap laminates, x-crate paper and non-woven fabrics.

Hardin said arrangements had been made for more than 6,000 bales to be covered with experimental wrappers in tests set up in all parts of the cotton belt.

He said results of the tests will provide the basis for further research.

The council's two day annual meeting opens Monday. Activities today and yesterday were confined to committee meetings.

Charles W. Shepard Jr., chairman of the council's Sales Promotion Committee, said his committee still sought to have every cotton product labeled cotton.

He said when the campaign for voluntary identification started in 1945 only 17 per cent of all advertisements devoted to cotton merchandise mentioned the fiber content. In 1955 some 60 per cent of the advertisements mentioned the word cotton, he said.

Shepard, a cotton merchant from Gadsden, Ala., said consumers are entitled to know what fibers go into a fabric.

Shepard said that $20,794,210 spent during 1955 to advertise cotton products, of that amount $12,386,717 went for advertisements which specifically mentioned the cotton content.

FPC Investigating
Gas Rates Charged
By Independents

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 —UP— The Power Commission today ordered investigations into the rates charged by 16 independent producers of natural gas, all of whom have Tennessee Gas Transmission Co. as a customer.

The commission on about Nov. 1, 1954, allowed the producers to start charging new rates that resulted in a total annual increase of about $6,200,000 on their sales to Tennessee, which pipes gas along the eastern seaboard.

Shivers Indicates 'Much'
Interest In Nullification

AUSTIN, Jan. 27 —UP— Gov. Allan Shivers said Friday he is "greatly interested" in a move by four southern governors to "nullify" U. S. Supreme Court action banning segregation in public schools.

The governors of Georgia, Mississippi, Virginia and South Carolina met Tuesday at Richmond and agreed to seek congressional safeguards against "encroachment by the central government."

Shivers wrote Gov. Thomas B. Stanley of Virginia Friday for a "first-hand account" of the meeting.

His inquiry raised the possibility of a special session of the Texas legislature, particularly if the governor should look with favor on the Richmond proposals.

The governors of the four states said they would submit the proposed course of action to their legislatures, which are in session.

Shivers repeatedly has denounced the Supreme Court action as an encroachment on states' rights and pledged himself to fight the action with all legal means.

"If possible, I would like to have a copy of any proposed resolution of interposition to be considered by your legislature with reference to the encroachment of the central government on the sovereignty of the states and the people," Shivers wrote.

"As you may already know, I have appointed a 15-member committee to study this problem both from a legal and educational standpoint. I feel this information will be of vital importance to this committee," he said.

The Saturday session will begin at 7 p.m. with the Sunday session beginning at 1 p.m. According to Mrs. James Davis, secretary of the Convention, officers for 1956 will be elected Saturday night.

All singers and the general public are cordially invited.

WINNSBORO, Jan. 27 (Special) —The Franklin Parish Fifth Sunday singing convention will be held at the New Zion Baptist Church near Winnsboro Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. B. Bullock
New President

LAKE PROVIDENCE — The January meeting of the Cypress

Home Demonstration Club was held in the home of Mrs. Adrian Ryals of the Monticello Community. The meeting began at 9:30 and was climaxed by a "pot luck" dinner to which each member present contributed a covered dish.

Mrs. Bill Bullock, newly elected president presided over the short business session. Mrs. Schevon Antley, secretary, read the minutes of the previous meeting.

Miss Eunyce Howard, parish

agent, demonstrated the use of several items of sewing equipment, such as a hen gauge, cutting board, etc. The theme for the day's meeting was "sewing" and samples of new materials were shown to those present.

Those present included Mesdames Billy Kirksey, Roy Burgess, Jr., J. A. Bullock, Bill Bullock, Schevon Antley, Adrian Ryals, Miss Eunyce Howard and Miss Peggy Callari.

House Elected To
Police Jury Post

LAKE PROVIDENCE, Jan. 27 (Special) — At an official meeting of the Parish Democratic Executive committee Sam House, Jr. was officially named the second member of the police jury from Ward 3.

It was originally thought that there would be a run-off for this position. S. K. Mitchiner won the other position with a clear majority in the first balloting.

Total votes cast for all candidates for the Police Jury in Ward 3, were 2,045. Since two jurymen were to be selected, the total votes cast were divided by four, making it necessary for each winning candidate to receive 511 1/4 votes. House was given 512 votes, just one vote over the line.

Neuberger Stirs
Republicans With
Remarks On Ike

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 — Republican leaders Friday coldly denounced a suggestion by Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D-Ore.) that "panicky politicians" might use drugs to get President Eisenhower through another election campaign.

Senate GOP leader William F. Knowland, a possible presidential candidate himself, told the Senate he was "deeply shocked" by Neuberger's statement. He said it "cast reflections" on the White House staff and Mr. Eisenhower's physicians.

"I hope that there is no repetition of this type of statement in the heat of the campaign," Knowland said.

Neuberger's statement, made in a newsletter to his constituents, also was denounced by Sen. Barry M. Goldwater (R-Ariz.), chairman of the Republican Senatorial campaign committee.

Neuberger replied that he was glad to have the newsletter printed because it was entirely "friendly" in tone. The freshman Democrat said he had sent a copy to Mr. Eisenhower to "express my good wishes regarding his health."

In the newsletter, Neuberger said a second term bid by the President would make Mr. Eisenhower's health an overriding campaign issue.

"There even exists the danger that panicky politicians... might try to have him propped up unwisely with drugs and other such aids so that he could fulfill speaking and TV commitments to the permanent detriment of his well-being, just to get by election day," he wrote.

White House Outlines
Ike's Recovery Routine

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 — UP — The White House Friday gave the public an outline of the streamlined new routine President Eisenhower has adopted since returning to work after his heart attack.

The most notable changes have been in the number of callers he receives each day and in the way he gets his exercise and relaxation. He also pays more attention to rest and diet, but has retained such old habits as reading himself to sleep with western stories.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Mr. Eisenhower has been able to streamline his work schedule partly because of a "considerable" decrease in requests from members of congress and other persons to see him.

That gives him more time for essential duties and for the mid-day rest period prescribed by his doctors.

Another adjustment has been in his manner of exercise. Mr. Eisenhower now takes a daily swim in the White House pool instead of playing golf. But he is permitted to practice putting indoors, Hagerty said, and walks around swinging a golf stick "all the time."

Asked if the White House has an indoor putting green, Hagerty smiled and said "we've got millions of 'em."

The President also spends more time painting than before.

On an average day, Hagerty said, Mr. Eisenhower arises about 7 a.m., eats breakfast, reads the papers and shows up at his office about 9 a.m. He spends the first hour consulting with his staff and giving personal dictation. Appointments last from about 9 a.m. until 11:30 a.m. or noon.

Then the President takes time out for rest, lunch and some exercise. If he does not get to the pool before lunch he tries to get in a swim before dinner, Hagerty said.

Mr. Eisenhower returns to his office about 2 p.m., spends some 30 minutes on staff work and then keeps appointments until he leaves the office at 4:30 or 5 p.m.

After hours — dinner is at 7 or 7:30 p.m. — Mr. Eisenhower may see a movie in the White House or watch television. He rarely goes out.

The President retires about 10 p.m.

Farmer Approval Of Rice Quota Seen

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 — UP — Rice farmers in 13 states voted Friday on whether to accept government marketing quotas for their 1956 crops or see their price guarantees sharply reduced.

About 27,000 farmers were eligible to vote in the referendum and were expected to approve the quotas by the necessary two-thirds majority. Last year, more than 90 per cent of the almost 17,500 ballots cast were in favor of quotas.

Approval of the quotas means price supports for rice will be available at not less than the national average price of $4.40 per hundred pounds.

Negro Children
Denied Entrance
To White School

WALNUT RIDGE, Ark., Jan. 27 (AP) — Three Negro children tried without success today to enroll for the spring semester in the white elementary school at this north-east Arkansas town.

It was the second attempt this week by Arkansas Negroes to gain admittance to all-white schools. Twenty-seven Negroes applied for admission at three Little Rock schools Monday. They were rejected.

Walnut Ridge Supt. A. W. Rainwater said he told the Negro children and the three Negro adults who accompanied them that Walnut Ridge is "committed in its plan for this school year insofar as integration is concerned."

He added that a petition last September by seven Negroes for integration still is "under consideration."

The meeting was cordial and friendly, he said.

There are about 1,800 children in the Walnut Ridge school system. About 20 are Negro. Walnut Ridge maintains an elementary school for Negroes with one teacher, but Negro high school students are sent to a Negro school at Jonesboro, Ark., about 15 miles away.

Life Of The Party Is A Dud With His Girl

By DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been going steady for two years and plan to be married in another year or so. The one thing that bothers me is this: Whenever Billy and I are out in a crowd he drinks a little more than is good for him and becomes so clownish that I'm embarrassed for him. No matter who's around, he says and does the silliest things! I've mentioned this, somewhat apologetically, to friends who have been with us on such occasions and they say they thought he was the life of the party. Everyone is astonished at my reaction. They tell me I should learn to laugh with the crowd and not get so peeved. However, if their husbands or boy friends performed the same antics, I'm sure they would react as I do.

Maxine R.

ANSWER: A prophet is without honor in his own country and the life of the party is unappreciated by his girl friend. Or so it seems. Of course, not knowing just how Billy acts or what constitutes your idea of silliness, I really can't pass judgment. The acid test, of course, would be if he could still be the comic without the help of John Barleycorn. If he's really funny, you'll have a difficult time making a sobersides out of him. If you did succeed, it would be rather a pity; there's not enough laughter in the world as it is.

My suggestion would be for you to get an unbiased opinion on Billy's conduct to see whether he's unduly uninhibited or you're too easily embarrassed. If neither one of you will change, it looks like a bad combination for matrimony.

JOIN YOUR MAN

DEAR MISS DIX: I've been a happily married woman for over five years. My husband recently took a good job out of town and I can't make up my mind whether to join him or not. I like it here, but he says he's lonely. The change would necessitate a new job for me, too.

Troubled

ANSWER: If you want to preserve the happiness of your good marriage, hop the next plane -- a train's too slow -- and join your husband. Make a home for him wherever he is. That's your job, girl. Men must take work where it's to be had; your place is with him. Away with qualms and hesitations; join your man.

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm in love with a man of 27; I'm 25. We have been going steady for two years and were getting along fine until I started arguing and fussing at him quite a bit. Finally, he said these arguments were getting him down and he broke off with me. Now he's going with another girl. We've each been married three times but I never really loved anyone until this man came along. How can I get him back?

Janetto

ANSWER: Your disposition needs a thorough overhauling. It undoubtedly was the reason for the failure of your previous marriages, and I guess it will never let you keep a man happy or contented. A psychologist could probably help you achieve peace with yourself. Your pastime, too, could be of considerable help. Make these contacts and try to improve before you make any attempt to get this man, or any other, interested in you.

Prophet M. D. Willett

Spiritual Counselor, Advisor and Divine Healer formerly of Chicago, Ill., who is now conducting a revival at West Chapel AME Church, corner 3700 Owl St. and Powell Ave. and also broadcasting daily on Station KTRY at 3:45 and 4:15 PM is urging all colored and white citizens to fight this northern propaganda about rushing the integration of colored and white people. Prophet Willett has won the friendship of many southern white and colored citizens of his wisdom in this matter and he feels that the colored people are doing themselves a great injury for promulgating this drastic change.

He has spent thousands of dollars in trying to advise his people against such. With his experience, from a business standpoint, the colored people are treated far better in the south than in Chicago.

Anyone wishing to contribute to this work may write to Prophet Willett, 405 North 20th St., Monroe, Louisiana or phone 3-38 for private consultation. ADV.

Life Of The Party Is A Dud With His Girl

By DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been going steady for two years and plan to be married in another year or so. The one thing that bothers me is this: Whenever Billy and I are out in a crowd he drinks a little more than is good for him and becomes so clownish that I'm embarrassed for him. No matter who's around, he says and does the silliest things! I've mentioned this, somewhat apologetically, to friends who have been with us on such occasions and they say they thought he was the life of the party. They tell me I should learn to laugh with the crowd and not get so peeved. However, if their husbands or boy friends performed the same antics, I'm sure they would react as I do.

ANSWER: A prophet is without honor in his own country and the life of the party is unappreciated by his girl friend. Or so it seems. Of course, not knowing just how Billy acts or what constitutes your idea of silliness, I really can't pass judgment. The acid test, of course, would be if he could still be the comic without the help of John Barleycorn. If he's really funny, you'll have a difficult time making a sobersides out of him. If you did succeed, it would be rather a pity; there's not enough laughter in the world as it is. My suggestion would be for you to get an unbiased opinion on Billy's conduct to see whether he's unduly uninhibited or you're too easily embarrassed. If neither one of you will change, it looks like a bad combination for matrimony.

JOIN YOUR MAN

DEAR MISS DIX: I've been a happily married woman for over five years. My husband recently took a good job out of town and I can't make up my mind whether to join him or not. I like it here, but he says he's lonely. The change would necessitate a new job for me, too.

ANSWER: If you want to preserve the happiness of your good marriage, hop the next plane—a train's too slow—and join your husband. Make a home for him wherever he is. That's your job, girl. Men must take work where it's to be had; your place is with him. Away with qualms and hesitations; join your man.

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm in love with a man of 27; I'm 25. We have been going steady for two years and were getting along fine until I started arguing and fussing at him quite a bit. Finally, he said these arguments were getting him down and he broke off with me. Now he's going with another girl. We've each been married three times but I never really loved anyone until this man came along. How can I get him back?

ANSWER: Your disposition needs a thorough overhauling. It undoubtedly was the reason for the failure of your previous marriages, and I guess it will never let you keep a man happy or contented. A psychologist could probably help you achieve peace with yourself. Your pastor, too, could be of considerable help. Make these contacts and try to improve before you make any attempt to get this man, or any other, interested in you.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Kefauver Sees 'Difficult Fight' For Minnesota

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 — UP — Sen. Estes Kefauver Friday tossed his hat into the March 20 Minnesota Democratic presidential primary but conceded he faces a "difficult and uphill fight" against Adlai E. Stevenson.

At the same time, the Tennessee senator charged that some Minnesota Democratic leaders have "attempted to circumvent the intention of the primary law by assuring the state in advance" to Stevenson.

It will be the first head-on clash between Kefauver and Stevenson, who has powerful support in his bid for Minnesota's 57 delegates to the Democratic national convention at Chicago next August.

Kefauver and Stevenson also are scheduled for major battles in two later primaries—in Florida May 29 and in California June 5. In each instance, Kefauver decided to challenge Stevenson after the former Illinois governor had entered the contests.

The winner of the Minnesota race will gain an important head start in the Democratic presidential sweepstakes. In 1952 Stevenson won his party's nomination on the third ballot after Kefauver had led on the first two.

Rep. Eugene J. McCarthy (D-Minn.), a Stevenson delegate, told a reporter: "I expect Stevenson will win decisively, although Kefauver has some support. The primary will provide a good test of Kefauver's strength."

Kefauver's announcement that he will go into Minnesota and his charge that some Democrats had attempted to sew up the state for Stevenson were made in a statement issued through his campaign headquarters.

Cancer Society Relocates Office To Hudson Lane

The Ouachita Parish Unit of the American Cancer Society yesterday announced the relocation of its office from 707 Walnut street to 408 Hudson Lane.

Also announced was the assignment of a new post office box number for the Ouachita parish unit. The new post office address is: P. O. Box 430, Monroe, La.

Meanwhile, plans have already been announced for a meeting next Thursday night at the new headquarters on Hudson Lane. The meeting will be for the purpose of further developing plans for the April cancer fund drive and educational program.

All persons affiliated with the cancer society as well as any persons interested in assisting in the forthcoming campaign will be welcome to attend the meeting Thursday night.

Former Valet Of Supreme Court Justice Executed

PARCHMAN, Miss., Jan. 27 — Edgar Keeler, former valet to a state Supreme Court justice, died at 2:25 p.m. today in the gas chamber for the murder of a Jackson merchant.

Keeler, who was valet to Justice W. N. Ethridge Jr., told a reporter, "I'm rarin' to go," as he began his last walk.

He chewed gum as he walked down the hall to the gas chamber but spat it into his hand and tossed it into a trash can before entering the death cubicle.

Keeler died one day less than a year after he beat Louis Hutchins to death in his clothing store.

Keeler wore usual prison clothing as he sat in the wooden chair—a white sweat shirt, striped trousers and socks. He had removed his shoes before leaving his cell.

As he left his cell, he handed a magazine and a pack of cigarettes to William Wetzel, another condemned killer awaiting execution Feb. 9.

He gave two packs of cigarettes to Minor Sorber, scheduled to die with Wetzel for the same crime, killing a fellow inmate at the state penitentiary for breaking gangland's code against shot pigeons.

He told Wetzel, "It's been nice knowing you. See you again."

Wetzel didn't answer.

In his confession, Keeler told officers he entered the store to buy a pair of trousers.

Instead, he "rabbit punched" Hutchins, dragged him into a back room, killed him, and fled with the trousers and the money from the cash box.

He lost his appeal to the State Supreme Court.

Keeler also admitted beating a crippled night watchman and robbing a blind concessionaire at the Capitol last Feb. 23.

The robbery netted him $150. The watchman, Keary Cooper, spent months in the hospital recuperating.

Keeler was arrested after beating a woman storekeeper about four months later.

He told officers he "thought up" the crimes during the hours he waited for Justice Ethridge.

He said he had little to do when the justice was carrying out his Supreme Court duties.

Elizabeth Bass, Tulane Medical Pioneer, Is Dead

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 27 — Private services are scheduled tomorrow in Lumberton, Miss., for Dr. Elizabeth B. Bass, professor emerita of medicine at Tulane University.

Dr. Bass, the first woman member of the Orleans Parish Medical Society, died yesterday at Foundation Hospital following a long illness.

Dr. Bass, one of the founders of the Orleans Dispensary and a former president of the American Medical Women's Assn., was a native of Lumberton.

A 1904 graduate of the Women's Medical College of Pennsylvania, she joined the staff of the Tulane school of medicine in 1911. She retired from teaching in 1941. She became connected with the university four years before women were admitted as students in the medical school.

Dr. Bass also was the first woman officer of the Southern Medical Assn. She served as chairman of the group's section of pathology in 1939.

In 1952, she received the alumnae achievement award of the Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania. The American Medical Women's Assn. presented her the Elizabeth Blackwell Centennial medal in 1953.

She was a fellow of the American College of Physicians, diplomate of the American Board of Pathology, an emerita fellow in the American College of Pathology and a member of the History of Science Society.

Students Seek To Keep Catholic College 'Alive'

GRAND COTEAU, La., Jan. 27 — College of the Sacred Heart students today began a drive to keep alive the oldest Catholic girls college in the nation.

Mother Erskine, president of the college, announced yesterday the school in the heart of the Evangeline country would be closed after 135 years.

She said dwindling enrollment caused the mother house of the Religious of the Sacred Heart at Rome, Italy, to order the college closed after commencement this year.

From a peak of in 1943-44, the student body dipped to 44 this year.

But today the student body, headed by Theresa Canale of New Orleans, enthusiastically voted an all-out campaign to boost enrollment.

Student government leaders said they hoped to have 70 to 80 students for classes next September.

The campaign called for:

1. Personal appeals from each of the girls to friends of college age.
2. A publicity campaign initiated by the students to encourage prospective students and enlist the help of alumni and general public.
3. A nationwide approach, particularly through popular quiz shows.

And the students agreed with Mother Erskine that integration, initiated three years ago, had nothing to do with the declining student body.

"Our principle interest is in the Catholic religion," said one student. "Segregation is not an issue at all."

Louisiana One Of First States To Get CD Funds

Louisiana became one of the first states in the nation today to receive federal funds for the entire state from the 10-million-dollar National Survival Plan Project passed by Congress last summer.

Francis A. Woolfley, state Civil Defense director, said that the federal-financed Civil Defense project for the state was assured when Baton Rouge authorities signed a state-federal-city contract. Louisiana may require some $300,000 (more or less) for the Survival Plan, which calls for the formulation and testing of detailed emergency plans for the New Orleans, Shreveport, Lake Charles and Baton Rouge metropolitan areas.

The inclusion of southeastern Louisiana and a portion of Mississippi was assured last November 3 when the first such contract in the nation was approved for the New Orleans metropolitan areas.

"We convinced the federal Civil Defense administration that planning for New Orleans metropolitan area could not be separated from the rest of the state. As a result FCDA 'bought' our State Civil Defense plan into four target and three support areas," Woolfley said.

Under the 10-million-dollar Survival Plan Project, the State Public Works department is in charge of Louisiana's part in the program.

The first phase calls for the development of a planning blueprint at an estimated $40,500, with subsequent phases including the compilation of vital statistics, determination of ways to protect metropolitan area residents in event of attack and the formulation and testing of these plans.

Ouachita's Boys, Neville Girls Triumph

Lion Quint Noses Out Tigers, 55-54; Girls' Game, 41-31

BY NORRIS VANCE

The Ouachita High school eagles shot and hawked their way out of a first quarter deficit last night to eke out a 55-54 verdict over Neville High after the O.P. H.S. eagles had bowed out to the Neville sextet by a count of 41-31 in the opener of a double header.

The games, played in the Ouachita gymnasium, marked the Ouachita quint's second victory over the Tigers this season and gave the girls' team of the hot city rivalry an even season's competition thus far. Ouachita had swept both the boys' and girls' events in a previous meeting.

Deadly outside shooting by guard Bob Mosely, and the fast breaks and tips of Bobby Groves sparked the Neville eagles to a 15-7 lead in the first quarter. In the second, Groves especially continued to pound the nets for Neville but Ouachita, led by the accurate set-shooting and sure free throws of hefty T. L. Fuller, closed the margin minutes of blazing ball-hawking action just before the half.

Ouachita was trailing 25-22 in the waning minutes of the second quarter when ball hawk Dick Crowe and Fuller set up three quick baskets. Twice Crowe stole the ball after Neville had moved across the middle stripe and passed to Jeff Spence, who dribbled under fast for the baskets. Then in the same action - packed period, Fuller hacked the ball and dribbled in to score. Thus the Lions led 28-25 at the half after burning the nets with 21 points in the second period.

But Ouachita's surge from behind in the second quarter only set the stage for a thrilling seesaw battle that continued through out the last half. Neville was leading 30-29 after a basket each by Groves and Mosely. Fuller hacked the ball and dribbled in to score. Thus the Lions led 34-31, 38-33, 40-40 and 42-42, until Ouachita finally took what proved the decisive lead on a basket and two free throws by Jeff Spence. Spence's three consecutive points gave Ouachita a 46-42 lead and that proved barely enough to cancel out the sure shooting of Mosely and Groves in the waning minutes.

Paced by the long range baskets of Jo Ann Nubles, the Neville girls grabbed a 2-0 lead in the opening minute and were never headed in spite of the 21-point scoring performance of free throw line.

Ouachita's Donna Holderman, who made nine points from the free throw line, led the girls' team. The game was a close one, with Ouachita leading 15-14 at the half, 28-27 at the end of the third quarter, and 41-31 at the end of the fourth quarter. The final score was 41-31 in favor of Ouachita.

Condition Of Injured Boxer Listed Critical

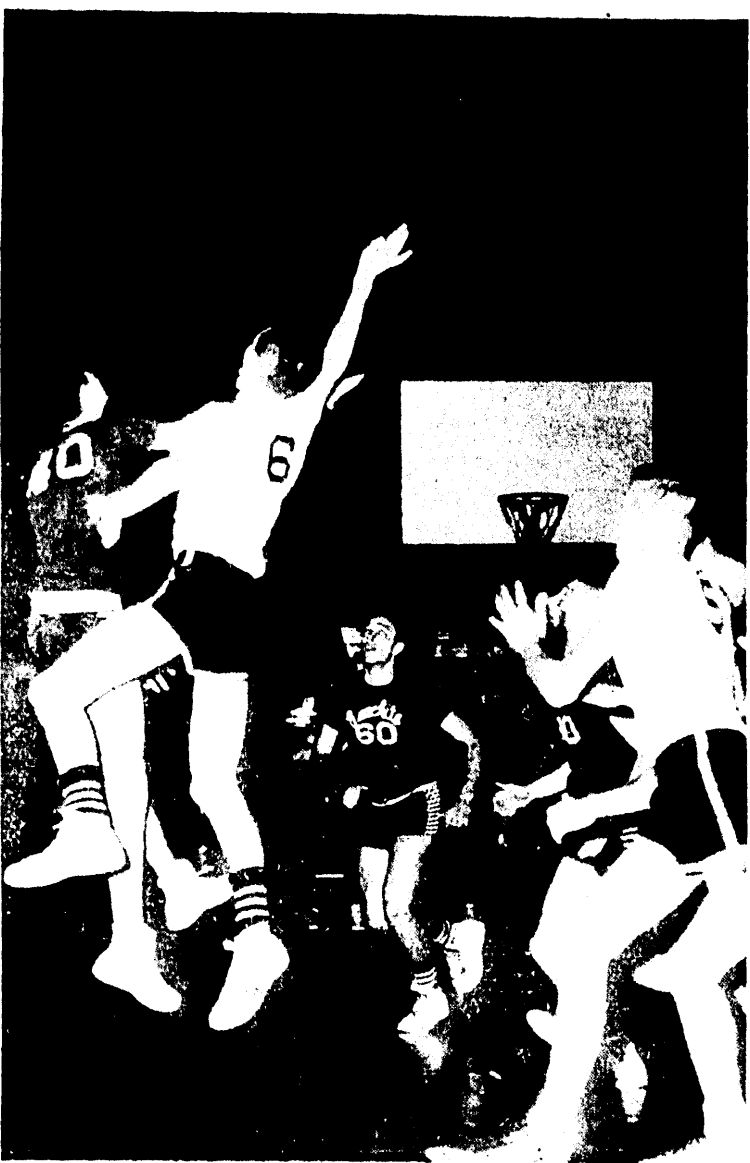

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 27 (AP) — Middleweight Robert Perry was listed in critical condition today at Episcopal Hospital where he was taken last night after being knocked down in a bout at The Cambria.

Physicians said the 20-year-old fighter sustained a blood clot of the brain, apparently when knocked down by Rudy Watkins during a televised bout.

After referee Pete Pantaleo awarded Watkins a technical knockout in the sixth round, Perry was taken to the hospital where he complained of a severe headache.

An operation was performed last night after Perry had lapsed into unconsciousness.

Tennis star Gussie Moran, famous for her lace panties, at Wimbledon, is now a radio commentator on baseball.

James Ramrods Bearcats Fast Rebel Quint, 74-48

RUSTON, La. Jan. 27 (Special) — The Ruston High Bearcats, led by their classy center, Bobby James, led only 21-19 at the quarter but pulled steadily ahead to trounce the Rebels of West Monroe High, 74 to 48, here tonight. In a preliminary to the all-boys cage program, the Rebel "B" team beat Ruston, 66-28.

James, rated the best player with 25 points on nine field baskets and eight free shots, and Jack Woods contributed 18 points to the Ruston cause. Gary Hackabay was high scorer for West Monroe with 11, while L. C. Crawford and Jerry Hixley, hooped nine and eight respectively for the visitors. Nelson was high scorer for the "B" Rebel with 15, while Freeman and Leonard Mitchell led Ruston with 12 and eight respectively.

Evangeline Leaders Meet

Cherberg Ousted As Washington's Head Grid Coach

SEATTLE, Jan. 27 (AP) — Johnny Cherberg, center of a player revolt that began in November, was dismissed today as head football coach at the University of Washington.

The dismissal was announced by Athletic Director Harvey Cassill after a conference with Cherberg. He said the dismissal is effective immediately.

Cassill said he took the action under authority given him by the university board of regents at a Dec. 10 meeting at which time it was decided to retain Cherberg.

The regents gave Cassill authority to deal with the situation as he saw fit in the future. The regents agreed to continue Cherberg's employment upon the coach's assurance that difficulties within the football program could be resolved amicably.

Cassill said it was his "considered judgment" that Cherberg had not satisfactorily resolved the problems which existed in December. He said it appeared that the turmoil, rather than subsiding, was increasing, causing damage to the reputation of the university not only in the athletic area but as a whole.

Kilbourne Sends Both Cage Teams Into Semi-Finals

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., Jan. 27 (Special) — Kilbourne High school advanced both its boys and girls teams to the semi-finals of the annual Lake Providence Invitational Basketball Tournament today.

While boys' teams of Lake Providence, Oden, and Holly Ridge, and girls' clubs from Pioneer, Newellton, and Epps also gained the brackets-of-four.

Considerable trouble has developed in the choice of a schedule for the 1956 Evangeline season and a special called meeting has been called by the league president Ray Mullins for Lafayette this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

According to Sports Manager Ed Head the problem mainly centers around the travel arrangements of the clubs.

Saul Adler, R. D. Farr, Jr. and Manager Head attended a meeting of the league in Lake Charles last Sunday which was held to iron out certain loop problems, including the schedule situation. At that time two tentative slates were given each manager to look over after arriving back home.

Then the specified choice was to be indicated and the slate returned Wednesday with suggestions and modifications. From all indications the differences must be great or else a special league meeting would not have been called.

Head stated last night that he felt sure that some agreement could or at least should be reached at this gathering unless "the very worst come to pass." If a slate is approved, then it will be ready for publication and the managers can then begin planning their season such as travel arrangements and accommodations and the like.

A report on the ticket drive here indicates that the sales are going fairly well and that more tickets are out, now than at any previous time. However, it is noted that these books are in the hands of salesmen and others who are trying to dispose of them. The civic clubs are distributing quite a number of the season books, and prospects are brightening.

Prices for season books here are grandstand, $25 plus tax; bleachers, $17.50; and box seats of four, $50. They may be purchased by calling 3-9461 or 3-8805 or at Adler Tire company, 201 South Grand street, or Feeders Supply Company, 513 Trenton street, West Monroe.

Transylvania's Girls, Bastrop's Quint In Finals

STERLINGTON, La., Jan. 27 (Special) — The Bastrop junior boys and Transylvania's girls tonight reached the finals of the annual Sterling Lions Club Junior Basketball Tournament. Other finalists will be determined in a pair of Saturday afternoon semi-finals that send the A. L. Smith girls of Sterlington against Goodwill, and the Smith boys against Linville.

Bastrop's quint advanced to the finals tonight by stopping the Transylvania boys in a thriller, 47-45, with Jefferies heading the Bastrop attack with 21 points. Patrick led Transylvania with 15.

The girls from Transylvania polished off Linville, 55-25, in a game that saw Johnson basket 33 points for the winners. Ford led Linville with 18.

Hendrix and Talley, registering 20 and 19 points respectively, led the A. L. Smith boys past Goodwill 62-40. Jones of Goodwill was high scorer of the game with 23.

Saturday's pairings: Semi-finals — Smith girls vs. Goodwill, 1 p.m.; Smith boys vs. Linville, 2 p.m.

Consolations — Linville girls vs. Smith — Goodwill loser, 5 p.m.; Transylvania boys vs. Smith-Linville loser, 6:15.

Jena Basketeers Defeat LaSalle In 61-54 Battle

OLLA, La., Jan. 27 (Special) — The Jena High School Giants caught the LaSalle Tigers of Olla in the last quarter here tonight to take home a 61-54 victory, but the Bengals got another whack at the Giants in a return game in Jena's gym Saturday night.

LaSalle held a 27-21 edge at the half, but Jena pulled into a 46-46 tie going into the final period, and the rivals staged a nip and tuck scramble until the Giants forged their lead in the last two minutes.

Holt and Richardson led Jena with 16 and 15 points respectively. Ken Winberry, with 18, and Lynn Russell, with 14, paced LaSalle.

In preliminary B boys' game, Jena won, 31-27.

LaSalle's girls also participate in the invasion of Jena tomorrow night.

Middlecoff Ties Demaret For Lead In Thunderbird

By BOB MYERS

PALM SPRINGS, Calif., Jan. 27 (AP) — Cary Middlecoff, with a brilliant display of iron shots, pulled up even with Jimmy Demaret at the 36 hole mark of the $15,000 Thunderbird Invitational Golf Tournament today, each with a 133 total.

Middlecoff toured the par 36-35-71 Thunderbird Country Club course in 35-31-66, and Demaret, the first round leader, with a gallant comeback on the back nine, posted 37-32-69. Likeable Jimmy had a 64 yesterday and Middlecoff a 67.

Thus the two go into the third round tomorrow with a two stroke lead over their nearest challenger, Doug Ford whose 69 gave him 135.

Tied at 136 were Julius Boros, with a 70, and Bill Ogden of Chicago, with a 68.

Demaret gave the gallery a thrill, and almost stroked himself into the undisputed lead, with an approach to the 18th green that left the ball three and a half feet from the pin. But when he putted, the ball rimmed and all but circled the cup and hung on the lip.

The leaders: Jimmy Demaret, Klamath Lake, N. Y., 64-68-132; Cary Middlecoff, Dallas, 67-66-133; Doug Ford, Klamath Lake, 66-69-135; Julius Boros, Mid Pines, N. C., 66-70-136; Bill Ogden, Chicago, 68-68-136.

Gardner Dickinson Jr., Panama City Beach, Fla., 69-10-137; Fred Hawkins, El Paso, Tex., 67-71-138; Byron Nelson, Roanoke, Tex., 68-71-139; Mike Soucek, Grossinger, N. Y., 71-69-140; Arnold Palmer, Latrobe, Pa., 70-70-140; Ed Oliver, Sanford, Fla., 68-72-140; Ed Furgol, St. Louis, 71-70-141; Bo Winitzer, Oklahoma City, 66-76-142; Jim Perrier, Hollywood, 71-71-142; Shirley Mayfield, Westbury, N. Y., 71-71-142; Tommy Bolt, Chattanooga, 1-71-142; Billy Maxwell, Odessa, Tex., 70-72-142; Jay Hebert, Sanford, Fla., 71-71-142.

Identify Eight Horses In Tropical Park Fire

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 7 (AP) — The eight race horses that perished in a $100,000 fire at a Tropical Park barn were identified today.

They were Calbrook and Brother March, owned by Tilyou Christopher of Miami; Djeddah's Star and Casba, owned by N. L. Haymaker, Berryville, Va.; Aladyme, owned by Courtney Burton, Gate Mills, Ohio; Cable Break, owned by H. N. Hayner, Plant City, Fla.; Classy Belle, owned by Jack Goldstein, Louisville, Ky.; and Babco, owned by L. T. Torres, San Juan, P. R.

Elmer Vickers, general manager at Tropical Park, said the barn, which burned yesterday, also set fire to an adjoining barn which might have spread the fire to many other structures had firemen not been able to control it.

Quachita's Boys, Neville Girls Triumph

Lion Quint Noses Out Tigers, 55-54; Girls' Game, 41-31

BY NORRIS VANCELEAVE

The Quachita High school eagles shot and hawked their way out of a first quarter deficit last night to eke out a 55-54 verdict over Neville High after the O.P. H.S. eagles had bowed out to the Neville sextet by a count of 41-31 in the opener of a double header.

The games, played in the Quachita gymnasium, marked the Quachita quintet's second victory over the Tigers this season and gave the girls' team of the hot city rivalry an even season's competition thus far. Quachita had swept both the boys' and girls' events in a previous meeting.

Deadly outside shooting by guard Bob Mosely, and the fast breaks and tip-ins of Bobby Groves sparked the Neville eagles to a 15-7 lead in the first quarter. In the second, Groves especially continued to pound the nets for Neville but Quachita, led by the accurate set-shooting and sure free throws of hefty T. L. Fuller, closed the margin minutes of blazing ball-hawking action just before the half.

Quachita was trailing 25-22 in the waning minutes of the second quarter when ball hawk Dick Crowe and Fuller set up three quick baskets. Twice Crowe stole the ball after Neville had moved across the middle stripe and passed to Jeff Spence, who dribbled under fast action for the baskets. Then in the same action - packed period, Fuller hawked the ball and dribbled in to score. Thus the Lions led 28-25 at the half after burning the nets with 21 points in the second period.

But Quachita's surge from behind in the second quarter only set the stage for a thrilling second half that continued through out the last half. Neville was leading 30-29 after a basket each by Groves and Mosely. Later an outside basket by Quachita's Johnny Maroney tied it at 32-32.

The remainder of the last half saw the score knotted at intervals at 34-34, 38-38, 40-40 and 42-42, until Quachita finally took what proved the decisive lead on a basket and two free throws by Jeff Spence. Spence's three consecutive points gave Quachita a 46-42 lead and that proved barely enough to cancel out the sure shooting of Mosely and Groves in the waning minutes.

Paced by the long range baskets of Jo Ann Nubles, the Neville girls grabbed a 2-0 lead in the opening minute and were never headed in spite of the 21-point scoring performance of free throw line.

Condition Of Injured Boxer Listed Critical

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 27 (AP) — Middleweight Robert Perry was listed in critical condition today at Episcopal Hospital where he was taken last night after being knocked down in a bout at the Cambria.

Physicians said the 20-year-old fighter sustained a blood clot of the brain, apparently when knocked down by Rudy Watkins during a televised bout.

After referee Pete Pantalone awarded Watkins a technical knockout in the sixth round, Perry went to his dressing room, then was taken to the hospital when he complained of a severe headache. An operation was performed last night after Perry had lapsed into unconsciousness.

Tennis star Gussie Moran, famous for her lace panties, at Wimbledon, is now a radio commentator on baseball.

Evangeline Leaders Meet

Cherberg Ousted As Washington's Head Grid Coach

SEATTLE, Jan. 27 (AP) — Johnny Cherberg, center of a player revolt that began in November, was dismissed today as head football coach at the University of Washington.

The dismissal was announced by Athletic Director Harvey Cassill after a conference with Cherberg. He said the dismissal is effective immediately.

Cassill said he took the action under authority given him by the university board of regents at a Dec. 10 meeting at which time it was decided to retain Cherberg.

The regents gave Cassill authority to deal with the situation as he saw fit in the future. The regents agreed to continue Cherberg's employment upon the coach's assurance that difficulties within the football program could be resolved amicably.

Cassill said it was his "considered judgment" that Cherberg had not satisfactorily resolved the problems which existed in December. He said it appeared that the turmoil, rather than subsiding, was increasing, causing damage to the reputation of the university not only in the athletic area but as a whole.

Kilbourne Sends Both Cage Teams Into Semi-Finals

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., Jan. 27 (Special) — Kilbourne High school advanced both its boys and girls teams to the semi-finals of the annual Lake Tournament today.

While boys' teams of Lake Providence, Ogden, and Holly Ridge, and girls' clubs from Pioneer, Newellton, and Epps also gained the brackets-of-four.

Semi-final play begins Saturday morning at 10 o'clock with Lake Providence's boys engaging Ogden. The Pioneer and Newellton girls clash at 11:15 a.m.; a boys' game between Holly Ridge and Kilbourne is set for 12:30 p.m.; and Epps and Kilbourne girls meet in the last of the semi-finals at 1:45 p.m.

The girls' final is set for 7 o'clock Saturday night, and the boys' title game for an 8:15 start.

In today's boys' contests Ogden stopped Oak Grove, 63-44; Lake Providence beat Forest, 57-54; Ogden beat Davidson of St. Joseph 65-34; Holly Ridge eliminated Newellton, 64-50; and Kilbourne side-tracked Monticello, 75-43.

The girls' results saw Pioneer beat Transylvania, 42-25; Newellton stop Monticello, 38-29; Epps beat Oak Grove, 36-22; and Kilbourne defeat Davidson.

Allen Ray Best, Holly Ridge, Perry of Monticello, and Williamson of Forest, led the day's scoring in the boys' division with 25 points apiece. Wactor hooped 24 for Kilbourne. Fain led Ogden with 23 against Oak Grove and 19 against Davidson. Jerry Head bagged 21 for Newellton. J. Hudson had 1 point for Lake Providence. Kitchens scored 13 for Davidson, and Corley led Oak Grove with 10.

Infielder, 2 Rookie Hurlers Join Giants

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (AP) — Infielder Daryl Spencer, recently discharged from the army, and rookie pitcher Pete Burnside and Dom Zanni, returned their signed contracts today to swell the total of satisfied New York Giants to 17.

Spencer, who hit 20 home runs playing third base for the Giants in 1953, now is playing in the Puerto Rican League. He is expected to complete with veteran Hank Thompson for the regular third base job.

Burnside, a 25-year-old lefthander, is considered one of the brightest mound prospects for 1956. He won 18 and lost 11 at Dallas last year.

Zanni, a native New Yorker, is a 24-year-old righthander who had a 15-12 record and a 3.28 earned run average at Sioux City, Giant farm team in the Western League.

Miss Kirby Falls To Miss Stewart In Doherty Golf

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Jan. 27 (AP) — Marlene Stewart of Fonthill, Ont., trailing by three holes with only six left to play, rallied to beat Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta 2 and 1 in the quarter-final round of the Helen Lee Doherty Golf Tournament today.

The championship field, meanwhile, slumped down to four survivors as the women amateur players shot two rounds.

In the other quarter-final matches, Joanne Goodwin, Dartmouth, Mass., defeated Mary Ann Downey, Baltimore, 5 and 3; Cookie Swift Berger, Buffalo, N. Y., beat Wanda Sanches, Baton Rouge, La., 4 and 3, and Janie Dobbin, St. Louis, defeated Charlotte Decozen, Miami Beach, 2 and 1.

Marlene Stewart meets Joanne Goodwin tomorrow and Cookie Swift Berger plays Janie Dobbin. Most of the quarter-finalists had stiff opposition in the tournaments third round shot this morning.

Miss Kirby defeated Betty Probasco, Mt. Lookout, Tenn., 1 up. Miss Stewart defeated Mrs. Maurice Glick, Baltimore, 5 and 4.

Mary Ann Downey defeated Mrs. H. S. Semple, Sewickley, Pa., 3 and 2. Wannie Sanches defeated Barbara McIntyre, Toledo, Ohio, 3 and 2.

Cookie Swift Berger defeated Ruthie Janssen, Seattle, Wash., 1 up. Joanne Goodwin defeated Anne Casey Johnstone, Mason City, Iowa 1 up. Janie Dobbin defeated Terry Logan, Essex, N. J., 2 and 1. Charlotte Decozen defeated Alice O'Neal Dye, Indianapolis, 2 up.

O. P. G. S. WINS 2

Quachita Parish Grammar School cage teams won a double header Wednesday from Claiborne of West Monroe, the girls winning, 32-0, and the boys, 31-12. Wanda Adcock led the girls with 15, and James Cromwell hooped 15 for the boys.

STERLINGTON, La., Jan. 27 (Special) — The Bastrop junior boys and Transylvania's girls tonight reached the finals of the annual Sterling Lions Club Junior Basketball Tournament. Other finalists will be determined in a pair of Saturday afternoon semi-finals that send the A. L. Smith girls of Sterlington against Goodwill, and the Smith boys against Linville.

Bastrop's quintet advanced to the finals tonight by stopping the Transylvania boys in a thriller, 47-45, with Jefferies heading the Bastrop attack with 21 points. Patrick led Transylvania with 15.

The girls from Transylvania polished off Linville, 55-25, in a game that saw Johnson basket 33 points for the winners. Ford led Linville with 18.

Hendrix and Talley, registering 20 and 19 points respectively, led the A. L. Smith boys past Goodwill 62-40. Jones of Goodwill was high scorer of the game with 23.

Saturday's pairings: Semi-finals — Smith girls vs. Goodwill, 1 p.m.; Smith boys vs. Linville, 2 p.m. Consolations — Linville girls vs. Smith — Goodwill loser, 5 p.m.; Transylvania boys vs. Smith-Linville loser, 6:15.

Championships — Transylvania girls vs. Smith — Goodwill winner, 7:30; Bastrop boys vs. Smith-Linville winner, 8:45.

Jena Basketeers Defeat LaSalle In 61-54 Battle

OLLA, La., Jan. 27 (Special) — The Jena High School Giants caught the LaSalle Tigers of Olla in the last quarter here tonight to take home a 61-54 victory, but the Bengals get another whack at the Giants in a return game in Jena's gym Saturday night.

LaSalle held a 27-21 edge at the half, but Jena pulled into a 46-46 tie going into the final period, and the rivals staged a nip and tuck scramble until the Giants forged their lead in the last two minutes.

Holt and Richardson led Jena with 16 and 15 points respectively. Ken Winberry, with 18, and Lynn Russell, with 14, paced LaSalle.

In a preliminary B boys' game, Jena won, 31-27. LaSalle's girls also participate in the invasion of Jena tomorrow night.

Middlecoff Ties Demaret For Lead In Thunderbird

By BOB MYERS

PALM SPRINGS, Calif., Jan. 27 (AP) — Cary Middlecoff, with a brilliant display of iron shots, pulled up even with Jimmy Demaret at the 36 hole mark of the $15,000 Thunderbird Invitational Golf Tournament today, each with a 133 total.

Middlecoff toured the par 36-35-71 Thunderbird Country Club course in 35-31-66, and Demaret, the first round leader, with a gallant comeback on the back nine, posted 37-32-69. Likeable Jimmy had a 64 yesterday and Middlecoff a 67.

Thus the two go into the third round tomorrow with a two stroke lead over their nearest challenger, Doug Ford whose 69 gave him 135.

Tied at 136 were Julius Boros, with a 70, and Bill Ogden of Chicago, with a 68. Demaret gave the gallery a thrill, and almost stroked himself into the undisputed lead, with an approach to the 18th green that left the ball three and a half feet from the pin. But when he putted, the ball rimmed and all but circled the cup and hung on the lip.

The leaders: Jimmy Demaret, Klamath Lake, N. Y., 64-69-133. Cary Middlecoff, Dallas, 67-66-133. Doug Ford, Klamath Lake, 66-69-135. Julius Boros, Mid Fines, N. C., 66-70-136. Bill Ogden, Chicago, 68-68-136. Gardner Dickinson Jr., Panama City Beach, Fla., 67-70-137. Fred Hawkins, El Paso, Tex., 67-71-138. Byron Nelson, Roanoke, Tex., 68-71-139. U. S. Stars Falter In Olympic Ski, Bobsled Events

Iron-Man Finn, German Girl Cop 1st Gold Medals

BY TED SMITS
CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy, Jan. 27 (AP)—A well-timed German fraulein and a Finnish "Iron Man" raced to the first gold medals and America experienced her darkest Olympic hours today in the seventh winter games.

Ossi Reichert, a 30-year-old Berlin cafeteria manager, dethroned the United States' Mrs. Andrea Mead Lawrence in the women's giant slalom ski race. Veikko Hakulinen, a wiry Finnish lumberjack, became a repeat champion by winning the exhausting 30-kilometer (18 miles, 1,228 yards) cross country ski marathon.

They were the first titles decided as full-blown competition began. Snow fell like manna from heaven on the grim, starved peaks of these Dolomite alps but even this could not bring consolation to the American camp, humbled in events in which it hoped to make a stand-out showing.

The U. S. hockey team, rated just back of the favored Canadians and Russians, was upset by Czechoslovakia 4-3, beaten by a late goal, and now must whip Poland tomorrow or face elimination in the preliminary round robin.

Mrs. Lawrence, a 21-year-old Parshall, Colo., housewife who has borne three children since her double Olympic triumph four years ago, could finish no better than a tie for fourth in the giant slalom while three other U. S. contenders were far out of the running.

Uncle Sam's two-man bobsleds, Waughtman (Conn.) Washburn, East Hartford, Conn., and Art Tyler, Rochester, N.Y., fared miserably on their two opening runs down Cortina's twisting, 1700 meter (1 mile, 109 yards) bobsled track and dropped well back of the streaking Italians.

An Italian jet pilot, mustachioed Lamberto Dalla Costa, outsped rivals from 15 nations with a total time of 2:44.45 on the two runs and his only serious challenger was a pinstriped teammate, Eugenio Monti, second at 2:45.26.

Washington, with the 250-pound Pat Bieslodecki, Ware, Mass., at the brake, had runs of 1:24.82 and 1:24.15 for a total of 2:48.97, giving him fifth place. He slipped off the track on the first run. Tyler, accompanied by Edgar Seymour, Rochester, registered 1:25.41 and 1:23.77 for 2:49.18.

The final two runs are scheduled tomorrow, with the championship determined on time totals. Only a miracle could beat the pace-setting Italians.

At the close of the day's activities, Russia, a strong favorite in its first winter games appearance, was tied with Finland and Germany for the lead in unofficial team standings with 10 points each. Austria had 9, Sweden 5 and the U. S. and Switzerland 2-1-2 each.

There is no official team point scoring but the traditional formula gives 10 points for a championship and all other points on a 5-4-3-2-1 basis to the next five finishers.

Matters can only go from bad to worse for the Americans, until the figure skating, in which U. S. stars are favored, takes the ice Sunday.

Tomorrow the Russians are favored to finish 1-2-3 in the 10-kilometer (6 miles, 376 yards) ladies' cross country ski race and sweep honors in the 500-meter (546 yards, 2 feet) speed skating, won last time by Chicago's Ken Henry. The Italians figure to complete their rout in the bobsled event.

Miss Reichert's victory in the women's giant slalom came as a mild surprise although the German girl rates as one of Europe's best. The prize had been virtually conceded to Switzerland's dazzling Madeleine Berthod, who missed one of the 59 gates and had to retrace her steps.

The Swiss farmer's daughter finished in a tie with Mrs. Lawrence for fourth place, timed in 1 minute, 58.3 seconds.

Miss Reichert spun down the 1,700 meter course and deftly through the strategically placed gates in one minute, 56.5 seconds to beat out Austria's Josefina Frandl, 1:57.2, and Austria's Dorothea Hochleitner, 1:58.2.

Louisiana Cagers Still Run Strong In Scoring Chase

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (AP)—The midwestern five-year monopoly in capturing small college individual basketball scoring honors appeared to be at an end today.

Eight of the top 10 scorers, including the first six, are playing for eastern or southern schools, the NCAA service bureau reported.

Topping the list, through games of Jan. 21, is Dave Olmstead of Clarkson, N. Y., with an average of 32.2 points a game. Close behind are two Louisianans, Bill Riegel of McNeese State with 32.0 and Grambling's Bob Hopkins with 31.9. Midwesterners are Joe Girlando, Case Tech (O) seventh with 28.8, and Mike Harkins, Akron, (O), ninth, with 27.4.

Last year's scoring leader was Bill Warden of North Central, Ill., and the last non-midwesterner to take the crown was George King of Morris Harvey in 1950.

2:04 while Penny Pitou, 17-year-old student from Lacombe, N.H., finished 34th in 2:10.4. Betsy Snite, a 17-year-old from Norwich, Vt., placed 36th in 2:16.2 but later was disqualified for missing one of the gates.

Hakulinen's cross country triumph was a monument to his amazing speed and staying powers on skis. He covered the distance in one hour, 44 minutes and six seconds, finishing 24 seconds ahead of Sixten Jernberg of Sweden. The Finnish lumberjack won the same event over a 20-kilometer longer distance in 1952 at Oslo.

Russians, who figured to win the gruelling grind, captured the third through the sixth places with Vladimir Kuzin, previous winner over Hakulinen, fifth.

America's two entries trailed badly. Andy Miller, McCall, Idaho, finished 38th in 2 hours, 38 seconds. Lynn Levy, New Orleans, was 50th in 2:10:56.

Shortly after the U. S. hockey team got its bumps from Czechoslovakia, North American prestige was restored by the favored Canadians, who smashed Austria 2-0 for one of the most one-sided victories in the history of international hockey.

The triumph was the Canadian's second and qualified them for the final round of the Olympic tournament. Paul Know scored five goals for the Canadians while Bill McKenzie and Jerry Theberge collected three each. The winners tallied six goals in the first period, 11 in the second and six in the third.

Ken Purpur, Grand Forks, N.D. In other hockey games Russia swept to an easy 5-1 triumph over Sweden, 5-1, and Italy and Germany played a 2-2 tie which almost ended in a brawl.

Only 6 Starters Named For Santa Anita Maturity

By ALEX KAHN

ARCADIA, Calif., Jan. 27—UP—The smallest field in the brief, nine-year history of the Santa Anita Maturity was entered Friday for the $155,960 race Saturday, with only six electing to go in the mile and a quarter stakes.

Although the race for four-year-olds drew only a half dozen horses, it included such nationally-known stars as Clifford Moores' Traffic Judge and Brookmeade Stable's Sailor.

Seven had been expected to be named through the entry box but Maj. A. C. Taylor's Colonel Mack passed the race because of a minor training injury and because he is not particularly fond of mud.

The racing strip was heavy with mud Friday and will be muddy again Saturday, it was expected, from the worst storm in nearly 20 years which dumped seven inches of rain on Southern California Thursday.

The others in the select field are Honey's Alibi, trackmaster, Guerrero and Beau Busher.

Under the penalty conditions for first money won, Traffic Judge with earnings of $285,150 last season and Sailor with $143,025 will carry top weight of 123 pounds each. Honey's Alibi follows with 119 while Beau Busher and Guerrero carry 116 pounds and Trackmaster carries the lightest impost of 114 pounds.

The winner was shooting for a net purse of $79,600, if six start, while the rewards for second, third and fourth also were rich.

Neither Nashua nor Swaps, both four-year-olds, were eligible for the race under the futurity conditions which call for nomination as yearlings and annual eligibility payments.

But in Traffic Judge and Sailor the race drew the colts that ranked just back of Nashua and Swaps as three-year-olds. Traffic Judge raced against the two top sophomores and gave both hard races. He ended up the year with six stakes wins to his credit.

Tony DeMarco Given Delay In Smith Bout

BOSTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—A virus attack which has felled former welterweight champion Tony DeMarco today forced postponement of his scheduled Feb. 7 non-title 10-rounder with lightweight king Wallace (Bud) Smith until March 5.

In its place Callahan A. C. Promoter Sam Silverman announced that Larry Boardman, Marlboro, Conn., will replace DeMarco against Smith in the Feb. 7 Boston Garden fight. Boardman has won 30 of 31 professional fights.

Wayne Causey, 3 Other Bonus Orioles Signed

BALTIMORE, Jan. 27 (AP)—

The Baltimore Orioles today signed their four bonus babies — Wayne Causey, Tom Gastall, Jim Pyburn and Bob Nelson — to 1956 contracts, bringing to 19 the number of players lined up for the approaching season.

Causey and Nelson, both 19, recently completed three months of winter baseball at Barranquilla, Columbia. Signed as a third baseman, Causey is to be groomed for second. Nelson, who played first base in high school, is ticketed for the outfield as is Jim Pyburn who played 38 games at third base last year before a bad back benched him.

Gastall, highly rated catcher, was unable to play much last season because he backed up Hal Smith and Gus Triandos, two regulars.

None of the four bonus players had any spring training last season and manager Paul Richards has scheduled plenty of work for each beginning Feb. 15 at Scottsdale, Ariz.

Babe Vows She'll Play Golf Again; Leaves Hospital

GALVESTON, Tex., Jan. 27 (AP)—

Her doctor, Dr. Robert M. Moore said, "She is fine."

The Babe, voted greatest woman athlete of the half century, told reporters: "Except for a little pain in my leg and my ankle, I feel fine."

Mrs. Zaharias said she will fly back to her home in Tampa, Fla., Sunday.

The famous woman athlete suffered her first attack of cancer in 1953 and underwent surgery. She had another session in the hospital last September, then returned in late November after pains developed in a leg.

After leaving John Sealy Hospital, she went to a beauty parlor "and got all prettied up."

Mrs. Zaharias said she plans to rest in Tampa before playing golf again.

Her husband, George, has been with her in Galveston and will fly back to Tampa with the Babe Sunday.

Winberry Named 'Most Valuable' LaSalle Gridder

OLLA, La., Jan. 27 (Special)—

Kenneth Winberry, LaSalle High School's all-state back, was named "most valuable player" of the LaSalle football Tigers at the annual banquet for the district Class A champions here last night. Carl Steen was honored with a special trophy as the player showing the most improvement during the season.

Coach Bill Walters presented the M.V.P. trophy to Winberry, and Coach Phillip White handled the presentation to Steen.

Milt Honsler, president of the Quarterback Club, also presented special state trophies to Winberry, Thomas "Bud" Brady, Earl K. Long, and Sissie Cornwell, the latter the lone girl on the program and receiving a non-grid award.

Paul Deitzel, head football coach at Louisiana State University, was guest speaker for the occasion as he continues to be in popular demand as speaker at such football gatherings over the state, and has already, in his brief tenure at L.S.U., made more such appearances throughout the state than any coaches at the state's bigger schools probably ever made over the same length of time.

Invocation for the occasion was by the Rev. W. W. Hayhurst, and benediction was by the Rev. Doris Dearman.

Golden Admiral Leader All Way At Fair Grounds

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 27 (AP)—

Golden Admiral moved to the front at the start and stayed there the rest of the way to win the featured $2,500 purse at the New Orleans Fair Grounds today.

The W. H. Bishop entry was one and three quarter lengths ahead of Burnt Child at the finish. Colonel Velvet was third, one and three quarter lengths behind Burnt Child.

Golden Admiral, ridden by Sherman Armstrong, raced the three quarters of a mile in 1:11 2-5 and Burnt Child paid $3.20 and $2.20. Burnt Child paid $2.20 and $2.20. Colonel Velvet's backers received $2.20.

The crowd of 7,866 bet $467, 976.

Grid Giants Leave Polo Grounds For Yank Park

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (AP)—The New York football Giants deserted the Polo Grounds for a 10-year lease at Yankee Stadium today amidst speculation that the baseball Giants also would move across the Harlem River, possibly by 1957.

Bert Bell, commissioner of the National Football League, negotiated the stadium lease with J. Arthur Friedlund, Yankee secretary and attorney when unidentified persons offered $1,000,000 for the Giants franchise based on the availability of the stadium.

"When they (Giants) turned down the offer," said Bell in a mimeographed statement, "I urged them to accept the lease, because the future of the league in New York had to be protected and there was no assurance a lease for the stadium could be had again at a later time."

Jack Mara, president of the football Giants, said the lease is for 10 years with a renewal option of 10 years. He said it was on a percentage basis, similar to their deal at the Polo Grounds where the Giants have played since Jack's father Tim, acquired a franchise in 1925.

The baseball Giants' lease on the property expires in 1962 and there have been preliminary discussions between Horace Stoneham, Giants' president, and Dan Topping, Yankee co-owner, about a move to Yankee stadium. Stoneham is in Arizona at the present time.

Charles Feehey, Giants' vice-president, said today the club would continue to play at the Polo Grounds. Although tickets have been printed for 1956 and no change is contemplated, many baseball men freely predicted the Giants would be playing elsewhere by '57.

Bell said various newspaper stories about the Giants' future plans were a factor in his move.

"I was continually worried," he said.

said at the Yankee office. "If Mr. Stoneham should move to the Twin Cities or somewhere, or if the park should not be available after the end of the ball club's lease, what would we do? If the league should get shut out of New York, it would be murder. And that's not going to happen as long as I'm around."

Mara expressed regret at ending the "invariably pleasant relations" with the baseball Giants but said he, too, was confused about what was going to happen to the Polo Grounds. As for the baseball Giants, Mara said he personally always through the club would continue to play at the Polo Grounds through the 1962 contract and still thought so.

The actual stadium contract is between the league and the Yankees with the league assigning the lease to the football club.

It was noticeable that there was no mention of Topping in the statements by Bell and Mara. Topping, former owner of the Brooklyn football Dodgers, broke with the National League in 1951 and jumped to the new All-America Conference. Many bitter words were spoken on both sides at that time.

The New York Yanks of the new conference played their home games at the stadium. After peace came to the warring leagues, another version of the Yanks played in the National League in 1950 and 1951. There hasn't been any pro ball at the stadium since 1951 and only a few college games, although the Yanks would be receptive to the Army - Notre Dame renewal in 1957, now set for West Point, N. Y.

Mara said he was optimistic about the club after its fine finish last fall.

Tennis stars Billy Talbert and Ham Richardson are inspirations for all diabetic victims — both became champions in spite of the affliction.

Iron-Man Finn, German Girl Cop 1st Gold Medals

BY TED SMITS

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy, Jan. 27 (AP)—A well-fed German fraulein and Finland's skiing "Iron man" raced to the first gold medals and America experienced her darkest Olympic hours today in the seventh winter games.

Ossi Reichert, a 30-year-old Berlin cafeteria manager, dethroned the United States' Mrs. Andrea Mead Lawrence in the women's giant slalom ski race. Veikko Hakulinen, a wiry Finnish lumberjack, became a repeat champion by winning the exhausting 30-kilometer (18 miles, 1.28 yards) cross country ski marathon.

They were the first titles decided as full-blown competition began.

Snow fell like manna from heaven on the grim, starved peaks of these Dolomite alps but even this could not bring consolation to the American camp, humbled in events in which it hoped to make a stand-out showing.

The U. S. hockey team, rated just back of the favored Canadians and Russians, was upset by Czechoslovakia 4-3, beaten by a late goal, and now must whip Poland tomorrow or face elimination in the preliminary round robin.

Mrs. Lawrence, a 21-year-old Marshall, Colo., housewife who has borne three children since her double Olympic triumph four years ago, could finish no better than a tie for fourth in the giant slalom while three other U. S. contenders were far out of the running.

Uncle Sam's two-man bobsleds, Waightman (Bud) Washburn, East Hartford, Conn., and Art Tyler, Rochester, N.Y., fared miserably on their two opening runs down Cortina's twisting, 1700 meter (1 mile, 109 yards) bobsled track and dropped well back of the streaking Italians.

An Italian jet pilot, mustachioed Lamberto Dalla Costa, outsped rivals from 15 nations with a total time of 2:44.45 on the two runs and his only serious challenger was a pit-sized teammate, Eugenio Monti, second at 2:45.28.

Washburn, with the 250-pound Pat Bieslodecki, Ware, Mass., at the brake, had runs of 1:24.82 and 1:24.15 for a total of 2:48.97, giving him fifth place. He slipped off the track on the first run. Tyler, accompanied by Edgar Seymour, Rochester, registered 1:25.41 and 1:23.77 for 2:49.18.

The final two runs are scheduled tomorrow, with the championship determined on time totals. Only a miracle could beat the pace-setting Italians.

At the close of the day's activities, Russia, a strong favorite in its first winter games appearance, was tied with Finland and Germany for the lead in unofficial team standings with 10 points each. Austria had 9, Sweden 5 and the U. S. and Switzerland 2 1/2 each.

There is no official team point scoring but the traditional formula gives 10 points for a championship and allots points on a 5-4-3-2-1 basis to the next five finishers.

Matters can only go from bad to worse for the Americans, until the figure skating, in which U. S. stars are favored, takes the ice Sunday.

Tomorrow the Russians are favored to finish 1-2-3 in the 10-kilometer (6 miles, 376 yards) ladies' cross country ski race and sweep honors in the 500-meter (546 yards, 2 feet) speed skating, won last time by Chicago's Ken Henry. The Italians figure to complete their rout in the bobsled event.

Miss Reichert's victory in the women's giant slalom came as a mild surprise although the German girl rates as one of Europe's best. The prize had been virtually conceded to Switzerland's dazzling Madeleine Berthod, who missed one of the 59 gates and had to retrace her steps.

Miss Reichert spun down the 1,700 meter course and deftly through the strategically placed gates in one minute, 56.5 seconds to beat out Austria's Josefina Frandl, 1:57.8, and Austria's Dorothea Hochleitner, 1:58.2.

Louisiana Cagers Still Run Strong In Scoring Chase

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (AP)—The midwestern five-year monopoly in capturing small college individual basketball scoring honors appeared to be at an end today.

Eight of the top 10 scorers, including the first six, are playing for eastern or southern schools, the NCAA service bureau reported.

Topping the list, through games of Jan. 21, is Dave Olinstead of Clarkson, N. Y., with an average of 32.2 points a game. Close behind are two Louisianians, Bill Riegel of McNeese State with 32.0 and Grambling's Bob Hopkins with 31.9. Midwesterners are Joe Girlando, Case Tech (O) seventh with 28.8, and Mike Harkins, Akron, (O), ninth, with 27.4.

Last year's scoring leader was Bill Warden of North Central, Ill., and the last non-midwesterner to take the crown was George King of Morris Harvey in 1950.

West Virginia Tech still leads in team offense, with 103.4 points a game, while McNeese State has replaced Pacific Lutheran in team defense, allowing 57.0 points to 57.1.

2:04 while Penny Pitou, 17-year-old student from Laconia, N.H., finished 34th in 2:10.4. Betsy Snite, a 17-year-old from Norwich, Vt., placed 36th in 2:15.2 but later was disqualified for missing one of the gates.

Hakulinen's cross country triumph was a monument to his amazing speed and staying powers on skis. He covered the distance in one hour, 44 minutes and six seconds, finishing 24 seconds ahead of Sixten Jernberg of Sweden. The Finnish lumberjack won the same event over a 20-kilometer longer distance in 1952 at Oslo.

Russians, who figured to win the gruelling grind, captured the third through the sixth places with Vladimir Kuzin, previous winner over Hakulinen, fifth.

America's two entries trailed badly. Andy Miller, McCall, Idaho, finished 38th in 2 hours, 38 seconds. Lynn Levy, New Orleans, was 50th in 2:10:56.

Shortly after the U. S. hockey team got its bumps from Czechoslovakia, North American prestige was restored by the favored Canadians, who smashed Austria 23-0 for one of the most one-sided victories in the history of international hockey.

The triumph was the Canadian's second and qualified them for the final round of the Olympic tournament. Paul Know scored five goals for the Canadians while Bill McKenzie and Jerry Theberge collected three each. The winners tallied six goals in the first period, 11 in the second and six in the third.

Ken Purpur, Grand Forks, N.D. In other hockey games Russia swept to an easy 5-1 triumph over Sweden, 5-1, and Italy and Germany played a 2-2 tie which almost ended in a brawl.

The others in the select field are Honeys Alibi, trackmaster, Guerrero and Beau Busher.

Under the penalty conditions for first money won, Traffic Judge with earnings of $265,150 last season and Sailor with $143,025 will carry top weight of 123 pounds each. Honeys Alibi follows with 119 while Beau Busher and Guerrero carry 116 pounds and Trackmaster carries the lightest impost of 114 pounds.

The winner was shooting for a net purse of $79,600, if six start, while the rewards for second, third and fourth also were rich.

Neither Nashua nor Swaps, both four-year-olds, were eligible for the race under the futurity conditions which call for nomination as yearlings and annual eligibility payments.

But in Traffic Judge and Sailor the race drew the colts that ranked just back of Nashua and Swaps as three-year-olds. Traffic Judge raced against the two top sophomores and gave both hard races. He ended up the year with six stakes wins to his credit.

Tony DeMarco Given Delay In Smith Bout

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (AP)—The New York football Giants deserted the Polo Grounds for a 10-year lease at Yankee Stadium today amidst speculation that the baseball Giants also would move across the Harlem River, possibly by 1957.

Bert Bell, commissioner of the National Football League, negotiated the stadium lease with J. Arthur Friedlund, Yankee secretary and attorney when unidentified persons offered $1,000,000 for the Giants franchise based on the availability of the stadium.

"When they (Giants) turned down the offer," said Bell in a mimeographed statement, "I urged them to accept the lease, because the future of the league in New York had to be protected and there was no assurance a lease for the stadium could be had again at a later time."

Jack Mara, president of the football Giants, said the lease is for 10 years with a renewal option of 10 years. He said it was on a percentage basis, similar to their deal at the Polo Grounds where the Giants have played since Jack's father Tim, acquired a franchise in 1925.

The baseball Giants' lease on the property expires in 1962 and there have been preliminary discussions between Horace Stoneham, Giants' president, and Dan Topping, Yankee co-owner, about a move to Yankee stadium. Stoneham is in Arizona at the present time.

Charles Feehey, Giants' vice-president, said today the club would continue to play at the Polo Grounds. Although tickets have been printed for 1956 and no change is contemplated, many baseball men freely predicted the Giants would be playing elsewhere by '57.

Bell said various newspaper stories about the Giants' future plans were a factor in his move.

"I was continually worried," he said at the Yankee office. "If Mr. Stoneham should move to the Twin Cities or someplace, or if the park should not be available after the end of the ball club's lease, what would we do? If the league should get shut out of New York, it would be murder. And that's not going to happen as long as I'm around."

Mara expressed regret at ending the "invariably pleasant relations" with the baseball Giants but said he, too, was confused about what was going to happen to the Polo Grounds. As for the baseball Giants, Mara said he personally always thought the club would continue to play at the Polo Grounds through the 1962 contract and still thought so.

The actual stadium contract is between the league and the Yankees with the lease assigning the lease to the football club.

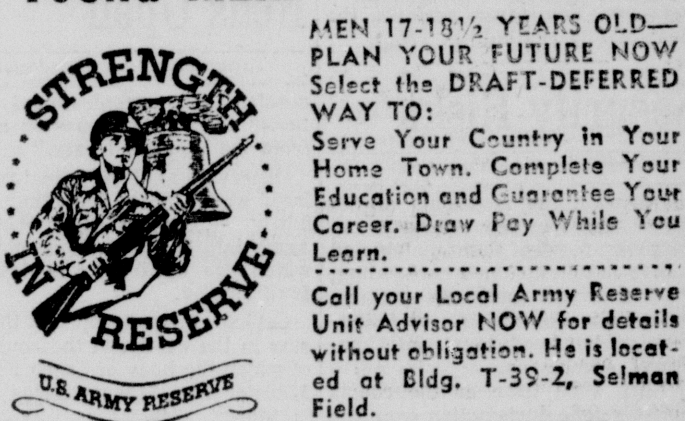

It was noticeable that there was no mention of Topping in the statements by Bell and Mara. Topping, former owner of the Brooklyn football Dodgers, broke with the National League in 1951 and jumped to the new All-America Conference. Many bitter words were spoken on both sides at that time.

The New York Yanks of the new conference played their home games at the stadium. After peace came to the warring leagues, another version of the Yanks played in the National League in 1950 and 1951. There hasn't been any pro ball at the stadium since 1951 and only a few college games, although the Yanks would be receptive to the Army - Notre Dame renewal in 1957, now set for West Point, N. Y.

Mara said he was optimistic about the club after its fine finish last fall.

Bastrop Boy Scout Receives First Ner Tamid Award

A Bastrop Boy Scout Friday night became the first in the Ouachita Valley Council to receive the Ner Tamid Award, religious honor bestowed by the B'Nai Israel Congregation.

Charles Snyder, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Snyder of Bastrop, was presented the award by Semis Heninger, who was himself awarded the high Scout honor of Silver Beaver in 1942.

Participating in the very impressive ceremony were the Rabbi Jacob Lantz, who directed the program; Jack Pankey, Scout executive of the Council; Ben Parnell, president of the Ouachita Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Pankey said that by the end of 1956, it is estimated there will be more than three million Boy Scout members in the United States.

Parnell pointed out briefly the highlights of activities in which the Scouts in his Council, covering 15 parishes, of northeast Louisiana, have engaged.

He said that for 1955, the Ouachita Valley Council will rank one, two or three in its region, and added that it is the Council's policy to "give your boys a variety of activities and programs."

The Council president emphasized, "If you're not already doing it, help some boy or girl (in building their character). They need you."

Heninger told the Congregation that the honor represented in the award he was about to present to Charles represents outstanding leadership and religious strength.

When he had presented the award Heninger asked that Rabbi Lantz pin it on Charles' chest, after which Charles came forward and gave thanks.

He said, "I want to thank Mr. Heninger for presenting this award to me and Rabbi Lantz for pinning it on me. And I hope I can live up to what it means."

It was the first award of its kind the Congregation had bestowed on a Ouachita Valley Council Scout.

Rabbi Lantz placed his arm around Charles' shoulders and said, "This is only a symbol, Charles. It represents the height of your Judaism. You must perform the ideal of this symbol."

Security Risks

Bill of rights in our efforts to rid the government of Communists and engage in unrestrained herd-riding, the people who generally get hurt are not the Communists or fellow-travelers but good, loyal, anti-Communist Americans.

"Until such time as the courts squarely take jurisdiction over the adjudication of the government employees security program," Hennings continued, "we must rely on the moral pressure of public opinion to overcome security misadventures of justice, as in the Hennings case."

The case was reopened last Sept. 20, the day after Cain, now a member of the Subversive Activities Control Board, said in a speech that a security officer had blocked the reopening of a Treasury security case despite the existence of new evidence.

Cain did not name Hennings, but in a separate interview Hennings connected himself with the case.

The 42-year-old attorney appeared later at a hearing conducted by Hennings and testified he was declared a security risk on the ground that he was untruthful, without ever having a chance to reply to the charges.

He related that charges he had related to the Washington Bookshop, an allegedly subversive organization, and that he had made pro-Communist statements were dropped by a three-member, non-Treasury hearing board.

But, Hennings said, the board found he had not been convicted when he testified he had no recollection of a 1940 interview in 1942 with an FBI agent. He said the FBI agent had testified that he, too, had no independent recollection of the interview.

The "Treasury" announcement today did not set forth the original charges made against Hennings or the nature of whatever new findings may have led to the decision to restore him to duty.

Reynold B. Boulware of West Monroe was charged with driving while intoxicated and he was fined $400.

Robert P. Erskine was charged with simple battery and he was fined $50 or 50 days in default.

Richard T. Lewis of West Monroe was charged with disturbing the peace and he was fined $25.

Willie Williams of Gilbert was charged with public drunkenness and he was fined $25 or seven days in default.

P. O. East forfeited a $25 bond on a charge of public drunkenness.

J. L. Thomas was fined $5 for running a red light.

Marvin Puda paid a $10 fine for speeding.

Herman McCoy and Jack Hower were both charged with running a red light and paid a $5 fine each.

Youthful Cook Didn't 'Pan Out'

The desire of a West Monroe youth to bake a cake late Friday afternoon in the absence of his parents resulted in a smoky house episode, a fire alarm and no beef roast for supper.

Richard Cook, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Cook of 401 Filhiol, West Monroe, came home from his sixth grade at Mitchell school and decided he wanted to cook a cake.

He lit the oven and called his mother at the office where she works and asked if he might bake the cake. She advised him to come to the office and accompany her home, instead.

This he did, forgetting the fire under the oven and leaving no one at the house.

At about 5:30 p.m., he returned with his mother to see smoke swirling from crevices around the house and people gathering on the sidewalks.

Almost immediately a West Monroe fire engine speeded up the street running for the house. They were summoned by Richard's 14-year-old brother, Guy, who returned shortly before from visiting a neighbor.

The firemen, gulping smoke, discovered a crisply burnt beef roast in the oven and no damage, save a house "choked full" of smoke and minor damage to the stove.

Monroe Man On Bail After Lewd Film Seized

A 69-year-old Monroe man was released from custody Thursday, under a $1,100 bond after being charged with possession of indecent film.

The man, identified by Sgt. J. C. Kelly, of the Monroe juvenile department, was Abe Fishman, owner of a proposed cafe location at 118 S. Grand.

Fishman was arrested as he rented six reels of film to patrolman W. F. Johnson, who was dressed in plain clothes.

Following the arrest of the elderly man, Sgt. Kelly and Johnson uncovered 20 more reels of film at the business establishment.

Fishman is charged with city and state counts for possession of the film which Kelly said was to have been rented for $5 a reel.

Mystery Shrouds Youth's Injuries; Attack Suspected

Mystery shrouded the cause of bruises and lacerations received by a 15-year-old West Monroe youth earlier this week after he took a companion home on his bicycle.

The youth, whose identity was withheld, told officers last night he didn't remember a thing after he took his friend home on North Seventh street.

"I was riding along on my bike whistling a tune and the next thing I remember was getting up and starting on my way home," he was quoted as telling officers.

The boy suffered multiple bruises and contusions about the face and received a blow on the left side of his head.

He was confined to a local hospital until late Thursday night.

Investigating officers were Ray Wyles and H. L. McPhail. Late last night police had released no theories in the case.

Equatorial Path

Kaplan, chairman of the U. S. Committee of IGY to Prof. Sydney Chapman, president of the international organization and famous British scientist.

The announcement and letters also disclosed some other new details of the satellite program which President Eisenhower announced last July, including:

1. The planned size for the first satellite — the United States hopes to send up about 10 during the program — has been increased from an original 20 inches to about 30 inches, although the weight remains about the same, 21.5 pounds. This will make the little artificial moon somewhat bigger than the "basketball" size first planned, but still tiny.

2. The first satellite will be fired at an angle of about 40 degrees to the equator from the launching site at Patrick Air Force Base, Fla., in a direction following the rotation of the earth — which will take it out over the Atlantic, to southeastward, as it starts its swift climb.

3. Well before each firing, the IGY will issue forecasts telling where and when the satellite may be observed by instruments or by the unaided eye.

The IGY announcement and letter to Chapman gave details of the research projects to be compressed in highly compact instruments, in each satellite. Of the 21.5 pounds, about half will be the weight of the metal sphere, the other half that of the instruments, including automatic radio transmitters to send continuing information on location and other data.

Eight fields of research will be explored.

Density of the outer atmosphere, where the satellite will orbit for periods varying from several weeks to several months, at altitudes between 200 and 800 miles.

2. Composition of the earth's crust. Variations in the pull of gravity are to be recorded, giving clues about the thickness and other features of the earth's crust.

3. Geodetic determinations. A program to learn more about the exact shape of the earth, for example, the bulge at the equator which makes the earth sometimes less than a true sphere, or "oblate."

4. Temperature within the satellite and on its surface. Scientists believe the internal temperature may range from below zero to 300 or 400 degrees above.

5. Pressure within the satellite. Meteorite impacts on the satellite as it travels in the fringes of outer space. Actually, the scientists are not too worried about damage by meteorite fragments in space. The material probably will be mere dust-size particles.

6. Instrumental measurements of the ultraviolet radiation from the sun.

7. Cosmic radiation. This energy from the area of the sun will be measured, including low energy particles about which little is known now.

During a 24-hour interval, the satellite will orbit the earth about 16 times.

The IGY said visual observations will be possible—"both with the unaided eye under optimum conditions, and preferably with binoculars. U. S. stations will have special optical cameras for precise observations."

A spokesman explained that "optimum conditions" meant clear air, at the periods of dawn and dusk.

Scouts Schedule Council Circus Here May 12th

The Ouachita Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America, will hold its circus at 8 p.m. on May 12, according to plans made last night by the council's circus committee, which met for the first time to consider the program.

To be held at West Monroe Rodeo Arena in West Monroe, the circus is expected to attract from 2,500 to 4,000 Scout participants. The Council includes 15 parishes in the northeast Louisiana area.

In 12 parts, the circus will include the Grand Entry; Indian Dance (Order of the Arrow dance team); Cub parade in story book form; Cub games; safety games; and other activity units.

Negro Scout troops will present a distinctively different program, the committee said. The Negro part will be called "Bridging the Gap Between Cubs and Explorers."

The circus is held in alternate years, with the Merit Badge show being held in 1955.

Members of the circus committee are James Walters, general chairman; J. W. Webster, promotion chairman; P. B. Mangum, public welfare chairman; J. C. Crawford, program chairman; and Dr. R. T. Armstrong, business chairman.

2 Accidents That Occur In Similar Fashion Hurt Two

Louisiana state police yesterday reported two accidents occurring in similar nature, that sent two persons to the hospital with minor injuries.

The first accident occurred early yesterday morning on the Old Jonesboro Road as William V. Barnett, 50, Route 2, West Monroe, traveling north, attempted to make a left-hand turn and a second vehicle collided with the rear of his auto.

Driver of the second vehicle was identified as David I. Robert, 34, Route 3, West Monroe.

Mrs. Elma Barnett, 49, wife of Barnett, received minor bruises in the collision.

Two passengers in the second vehicle, Mrs. Ina M. Roberts and Miss Kressie Driscoll, 21, both of West Monroe, received minor bruises about the knees.

The second accident occurred late yesterday afternoon about 12 miles out of Monroe on highway 80, west according to state police.

The accident happened in the same manner as the first, according to state police.

Gary L. Lovett, 25, of Calhoun, was attempting a left-hand turn when an auto driven by Marvin A. Cobb, 39, 3620 Cypress street collided with the rear of the Lovett vehicle.

No one was injured but total damages were estimated at over $600, state police said.

Sitton Guilty; Death Sentence Imposed By Jury

HENDERSON, Ky., Jan. 27 (AP)—An all-male jury today found 18-year-old Ben Charles Sitton guilty of murdering a Henderson policeman and fixed his punishment at death. The jury deliberated three hours.

Henderson circuit court Judge Raust Simpson said formal sentencing probably would be next Tuesday.

Sitton listened to the verdict calmly and with no outward signs of emotion. His attorney, George Clay, said the defense would move for a new trial.

Hagerty Charges

do about granting the Rogue River request.

Hagerty volunteered the following statement at a news conference with a request that it be used by newspapers that published the Pearson column:

"The story is a complete falsehood and in my opinion a scurrilous lie."

"There is no such letter in existence," Hagerty said, adding that Senate Interior Committee staff members had testified to that effect yesterday under questioning by Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz.).

Pearson then issued this statement:

"The first time Hagerty denied one of my stories was in October, 1953, when I reported Eisenhower had a heart condition. The second time Hagerty took me to task was in connection with the report on the Bikini bomb test, after which he telephoned me to apologize for what he had said."

"I am confident that time will prove the facts I reported in the Rogue River National Forest case also to be accurate."

A Senate-House committee is investigating the transaction under which 300 acres of the Rogue River National Forest in Oregon were patented in January, 1954, to Al Sarena Mines, Inc. The mining firm is headed by Charles P. and Herbert McDonald of Mobile, Ala.

Critics contend the grant was a "giveaway," saying that timber on the tracts is worth far more than the firm paid for mining patents. Administration supporters reply that the giveaway charges are a smear.

Undersecretary Clarence A. Davis took responsibility for the transaction in testimony before the committee yesterday. He said the Interior Department had no choice under the law.

Several Interior Department officials and Senate committee aides denied they had seen any letter bearing a "Dear Doug" memo from Eisenhower. Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz.) said he had checked Senate and House committees and no such letter exists.

Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich.) demanded during yesterday's session that Pearson be called before the committee and asked for the source of his information. This was overruled by Sen. Neuberger (D-Ore.), acting chairman, on the ground it would be an infringement of freedom of the press.

Military Curtails Travel Allowance Of 'Hitch-Hikers'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 — UP—The Defense Department Friday announced it will stop paying travel allowances to servicemen who hitch free rides aboard military planes.

But the department also said it has refused to reduce the official travel allowance for military personnel.

The Hoover Commission had criticized military personnel who form share-the-cost groups or "pinch on meals, sleep in terminals and cadge on the gullible public."

The commission recommended that the present six cents a mile allowance "be reduced to a point where there is no profit in it."

Rep. Daniel J. Flood (D-Pa.) said the Hoover Commission estimated that 825,000 servicemen get free rides aboard military planes each year for trips averaging 1,000 miles.

Flood, a member of the House Appropriations committee, said that by eliminating the six-cent-a-mile travel allowance for these trips, the government stands to save $49 million.

The Defense Department said it will stop paying cash allowances to servicemen who use government transportation such as the military transport service. But it said the six-cent a mile allowance is lower than that allowed by law (10 cents) and also lower than that allowed by some other government agencies.

Two city detectives arrested a 28-year-old Mobile, Ala., man late Thursday night and charged him with theft by check, Sgt. S. C. Martin in charge of the check division, said Friday.

Sgt. Martin identified the man as Claude M. Tingle, Jr., arrested by Detectives J. C. Bryan and F. T. Van, Jr., is presently lodged in the parish jail. No bond has been posted.

The amount of the check Tingle is charged with passing is over $20, Sgt. Martin stated.

El Paso Herald Blasts Shivers; Asks Dismissal

EL PASO, Tex., Jan. 27—UP—The El Paso Herald-Post editorially blames Gov. Allan Shivers for the insurance scandals and says if he doesn't quit he "should be impeached and forced out."

The Scripps-Howard newspaper in an editorial entitled "Still Silent Shivers" was critical of two of the governor's appointees to the Insurance Commission, Garland Smith and Byron Saunders.

"Smith is Shivers' man," the editorial said. "He has been with the governor for years. . . Are you afraid to fire him, governor? And why do you keep your appointee, Byron Saunders, the present chairman of the Insurance Commission."

"Would they talk if you acted, governor?" the editorial asked.

"Do they have anything to talk about that would displease or embarrass you?"

"If he doesn't quit, Governor Shivers should be impeached and forced out. He is responsible for the insurance scandal because his appointees allowed it. He was a member of the Veterans Land Board and was supposed to protect the $100 million the people voted to lend veterans to buy farms and ranches. He didn't."

"The trouble is—and maybe it's why Shivers is so silently complacent—that many members of the legislature should also be impeached. . ."

The editorial added.

52 Senators To Back Insurance Measure Of Long

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (Special)—A bill that would give both World War II and Korean war veterans one year to apply for National Service Life Insurance today was introduced by Sen. Russell Long.

Convinced that many veterans who had permitted their insurance to lapse or who had never applied for it would now like to be covered by its provisions, the Louisiana secured the endorsement of 52 other senators before placing his bill in the hopper.

He pointed out that the only cost involved would be that occasioned by administering the policies of the increased number of policyholders.

The Long bill does not make any additional persons eligible for insurance; it merely provides another limited period of eligibility for those who originally qualified and passed up the opportunity or who have permitted their policies to lapse.

Persons who served between Oct. 8, 1940, and Sept. 2, 1945, would have a year to apply for insurance but would have to satisfy the Veterans Administration that they are in good health.

"Many of our young people regret very much that they did not take advantage of the opportunity of taking out or continuing their insurance," stated Long. "And I think they deserve this additional chance. When they passed it up they were war weary and did not give a serious thought to their future as they would now that they have acquired considerable family responsibilities."

The 42-year-old attorney appeared later at a hearing conducted by Hennings and testified he was declared a security risk on the ground that he was untruthful, without ever having a chance to rebut the charge.

He related that charges he belonged to the Washington Bookshop, an allegedly subversive organization, and that he had made pro-Communist statements were dropped by a three-member, non-Treasury hearing board.

But, Hennings said, the board found he had not been candid when he testified he had no recollection of a 10-minute interview in 1942 with an FBI agent. He said the FBI agent had testified that he, too, had no independent recollection of the interview.

The Treasury's announcement today did not set forth the original charges made against Hennings or the nature of whatever new findings may have led to the decision to restore him to duty.

cussion of "organizational questions" and "joint measures arising from the Warsaw treaty."

Observers said the principal business would be the induction of the newly created East German Army into the Warsaw Pact forces which are headed by Soviet Gen. Ivan Konev.

Cepicka formally opened the session in the castle, in the courtyard of which the body of Czech Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk was found in March, 1948.

Cepicka praised Russia for causing a "certain relaxation of international tension."

He denounced "aggressive circles in the United States."

"The forces of war, however, have not given up their arms," he said.

BERLIN, Jan. 27 (AP)—Communist East Germany asked today that its new army be admitted to the Warsaw Alliance's military command, headed by Soviet Russia.

The official East German news agency ADN announced this development at a "security conference" in Prague of the Warsaw Alliance members, Russia and its seven European satellites.

The conference opened with a charge by a Czechoslovak speaker that the United States and certain other Western Powers are trying to revive the cold war.

ADN said East German Deputy Premier Walter Ulbricht made the request for inclusion of the new East German "people's army" into the Red bloc's military command.

The dispatch also indicated the Communists are drawing up a new proposal for a general European security pact. The West has regarded such proposals coolly in the past.

Ulbricht was quoted as saying East Germany supports a suggestion that a portion of Europe's countries be included in a security pact in which the Soviet Union, France, Britain and the United States would be represented. He did not say who made the suggestion.

Ulbricht's speech also mentioned a proposal for establishment of zones in Europe, in which the strength and distribution of military forces would be established by the "interested states." This presumably referred to East and West Germany.

Ulbricht said that, so far as East Germany is concerned, nothing stands in the way of an agreement to reduce the strength of military forces in Germany, including those of foreign powers.

"It is necessary," he then declared, "to reach agreement that the military forces in Germany must not be equipped with atomic weapons."

The combined Eastern Command was established in Warsaw last year under Russia's direction. Participating in the conference are Cabinet ministers of Russia, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Bulgaria, Albania, Hungary, Poland and East Germany. Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov is expected to speak tomorrow.

East Germany has been left out until now because it didn't have what the Communists called an army, although it did have a 110,000-man barracks police force that was an army in everything but name. The decision to create an army was made last week by the East German Parliament.

Monroe Man On Bail After Lewd Film Seized

A 69-year-old Monroe man was released from custody Thursday, under a $1,100 bond after being charged with possession of indecent film.

The man, identified by Sgt. J. C. Kelly, of the Monroe juvenile department, was Abe Fishman, owner of a proposed cafe location at 118 S. Grand.

Fishman was arrested as he rented six reels of film to patrolman W. F. Johnson, who was dressed in plain clothes.

Following the arrest of the elderly man, Sgt. Kelly and Johnson uncovered 20 more reels of film at the business establishment.

Fishman is charged with city and state counts for possession of the film which Kelly said was to have been rented for $5 a reel.

Mystery Shrouds Youth's Injuries; Attack Suspected

Mystery shrouded the cause of bruises and lacerations received by a 15-year-old West Monroe youth earlier this week after he took a companion home on his bicycle.

The youth, whose identity was withheld, told officers last night he didn't remember a thing after he took his friend home on North Seventh street.

"I was riding along on my bike whistling a tune and the next thing I remember was getting up, and starting on my way home," he was quoted as telling officers.

The youth suffered multiple bruises and contusions about the face and received a blow on the left side of his head.

He was confined to a local hospital until late Thursday night. Investigating officers were Ray Wyles and H. L. McPhail. Late last night police had released no theories in the case.

Equatorial Path

Kaplan, chairman of the U. S. Committee of IGY to Prof. Sydney Chapman, president of the international organization and famous British scientist.

The announcement and letters also disclosed some other new details of the satellite program which President Eisenhower announced last July, including:

1. The planned size for the first satellite — the United States hopes to send up about 10 during the program — has been increased from an original 20 inches to about 30 inches, although the weight remains about the same, 21.5 pounds. This will make the little artificial moon somewhat bigger than the "basketball" size first planned, but still tiny.

2. The first satellite will be fired at an angle of about 40 degrees to the equator from the launching site at Patrick Air Force Base, Fla., in a direction following the rotation of the earth — which will take it out over the Atlantic, to southeastward, as it starts its swift climb.

3. Well before each firing, the IGY will issue forecasts telling where and when the satellite may be observed by instruments or by the unaided eye.

The IGY announcement and letter to Chapman gave details of the research projects to be compressed in highly compact instruments, in each satellite. Of the 21.5 pounds, about half will be the weight of the metal sphere, the other half that of the instruments, including automatic radio transmitters to send continuing information on location and other data.

Eight fields of research will be explored:

1. Density of the outer atmosphere, where the satellite will orbit for periods varying from several weeks to several months, at altitudes between 200 and 800 miles.

2. Composition of the earth's crust. Variations in the pull of gravity are to be recorded, giving clues about the thickness and other features of the earth's crust.

3. Geodetic determinations. A program to learn more about the exact shape of the earth, for example the bulge at the equator which makes the earth sometimes less than a true sphere, or "oblate."

4. Temperature within the satellite and on its surface. Scientists believe the internal temperature may range from below zero to 300 or 400 degrees above.

5. Pressure within the satellite. Meteorite impacts on the satellite as it travels in the fringes of outer space. Actually, the scientists are not too worried about damage or destruction from fragments in space. The material probably will be mere dust-size particles.

6. Instrumental measurements of the ultraviolet radiation from the sun.

7. Cosmic radiation. This energy from the area of the sun will be measured, including low energy particles about which little is known now.

During a 24-hour interval, the satellite will orbit the earth about 16 times.

The IGY said visual observations will be possible "both with the unaided eye under optimum conditions, and preferably with binoculars. U. S. stations will have special optical cameras for precise observations."

A spokesman explained that "optimum conditions" meant clear air, at the periods of dawn and dusk.

200-man barracks police force that was an army in everything but name. The decision to create an army was made last week by the East German Parliament.

START PLANS FOR BOY SCOUT CIRCUS — Plans for the May 12 circus of the Ouachita Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America, to take shape Friday night as the group above met here with others to map out a circus program. Scouts Schedule Council Circus Here May 12th

The Ouachita Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America, will hold its circus at 8 p.m. on May 12, according to plans made last night by the council's circus committee, which met for the first time to consider the program.

To be held at West Monroe Rodeo Arena in West Monroe, the circus is expected to attract from 2,500 to 4,000 Scout participants. The Council includes 15 parishes in the northeast Louisiana area.

In 12 parts, the circus will include the Grand Entry; Indian Dance (Order of the Arrow dance team); Cub parade in story book form; Cub games; safety games; and other activity units.

Negro Scout troops will present a distinctively different program, the committee said. The Negro part will be called "Bridging the Gap Between Cubs and Explorers."

The circus is held in alternate years, with the Merit Badge show being held in 1955.

Members of the circus committee are James Walters, general chairman; J. W. Webster, promotion chairman; P. B. Mangum, public welfare chairman; J. C. Crawford, program chairman; and Dr. R. T. Armstrong, business chairman.

2 Accidents That Occur In Similar Fashion Hurt Two

Louisiana state police yesterday reported two accidents occurring similar in nature, that sent two persons to the hospital with minor injuries.

The first accident occurred early yesterday morning on the Old Jonesboro Road as William V. Barnett, 50, Route 2, West Monroe, traveling north, attempted to make a left-hand turn and a second vehicle collided with the rear of his auto.

Driver of the second vehicle was identified as David I. Robert, 34, Route 3, West Monroe.

Mrs. Elma Barnett, 49, wife of Barnett, received minor bruises in the collision.

Two passengers in the second vehicle, Mrs. Ina M. Roberts and Miss Kessie Driscoll, 21, both of West Monroe, received minor bruises about the knees.

The second accident occurred late yesterday afternoon about 12 miles out of Monroe on highway 80, west according to state police.

The accident happened in the same manner as the first, according to state police.

Gary L. Lovett, 25, of Calhoun, was attempting a left-hand turn when an auto driven by Marvin A. Cobb, 39, 3620 Cypress street collided with the rear of the Lovett vehicle.

No one was injured but total damages were estimated at over $600, state police said.

Sitton Guilty: Death Sentence Imposed By Jury

HENDERSON, Ky., Jan. 27 (AP)—An all-male jury today found 18-year-old Ben Charles Sitton guilty of murdering a Henderson policeman and fixed his punishment at death. The jury deliberated three hours.

Henderson circuit court Judge Raut Simpson said formal sentencing probably would be next Tuesday.

Sitton listened to the verdict calmly and with no outward signs of emotion. His attorney, George Clay, said the defense would move for a new trial.

Hagerty Charges

do about granting the Rogue River request.

Hagerty volunteered the following statement at a news conference with a request that it be used by newspapers that published the Pearson column:

"The story is a complete falsehood and in my opinion a scurrilous lie."

"There is no such letter in existence," Hagerty said, adding that Senate Interior Committee staff members had testified to that effect yesterday under questioning by Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz.).

Pearson then issued this statement:

"The first time Hagerty denied one of my stories was in October, 1953, when I reported Eisenhower had a heart condition. The second time Hagerty told me to task was in connection with the report on the Bikini bomb test, after which he telephoned me to apologize for what he had said."

"I am confident that time will prove the facts I reported in the Rogue River National Forest case also to be accurate."

A Senate-House committee is investigating the transaction under which 300 acres of the Rogue River National Forest in Oregon were patented in January, 1954, to Al Sarena Mines, Inc. The mining firm is headed by Charles P. and Herbert McDonald of Mobile, Ala.

Critics contend the grant was a "giveaway," saying that timber on the tracts is paid for mining patents. Administration supporters reply that the giveaway charges are a smear.

Undersecretary Clarence A. Davis took responsibility for the transaction in testimony before the committee yesterday. He said the Interior Department had no choice under the law.

Several Interior Department officials and Senate committee aides denied they had seen any letter bearing a "Dear Doug" memo from Eisenhower. Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz.) said he had checked Senate and House committees and no such letter exists.

Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich.) demanded during yesterday's session that Pearson be called before the committee and asked for the source of his information. This was overruled by Sen. Neuberger (D-Ore.), acting chairman, on the ground it would be an infringement of freedom of the press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (Special)—A bill that would give both World War II and Korean war veterans one year to apply for National Service Life Insurance today was introduced by Sen. Russell Long.

Convinced that many veterans who had permitted their insurance to lapse or who had never applied for it would now like to be covered by its provisions, the Louisiana senator secured the endorsement of 52 other senators before placing his bill in the hopper.

He pointed out that the only cost involved would be that occasioned by administering the policies of the increased number of policyholders.

The Long bill does not make any additional persons eligible for insurance; it merely provides another limited period of eligibility for those who originally qualified and passed up the opportunity or who have permitted their policies to lapse.

Persons who served between Oct. 8, 1940, and Sept. 2, 1945, would have a year to apply for insurance but would have to satisfy the Veterans Administration that they are in good health.

"Many of our young people regret very much that they did not take advantage of the opportunity of taking out or continuing their insurance," stated Long. "And I think they deserve this additional chance. When they passed it up they were weary and did not give a serious thought to their future as they would now that they have acquired considerable family responsibilities."

Rep. Daniel J. Flood (D-Pa.) said the Hoover Commission estimated that 825,000 servicemen get free rides aboard military planes each year for trips averaging 1,000 miles.

Flood, a member of the House Appropriations committee, said that by eliminating the six-cent-a-mile travel allowance for these trips, the government stands to save $49 million.

The Defense Department said it will stop paying cash allowances to servicemen who use government transportation such as the military transport service. But it said the six-cent a mile allowance is lower than that allowed by law (10 cents) and also lower than that allowed by some other government agencies.

El Paso Herald Blasts Shivers; Asks Dismissal

EL PASO, Tex., Jan. 27 (UP)—The El Paso Herald-Post editorially blames Gov. Allan Shivers for the insurance scandals and says if he doesn't quit he "should be impeached and forced out."

The Scripps-Howard newspaper in an editorial entitled "Still Silent Shivers" was critical of two of the governor's appointees to the Insurance Commission, Garland Smith and Byron Saunders.

"Smith is Shivers' man," the editorial said. "He has been with the governor for years. . . . Are you afraid to fire him, governor? And why do you keep your appointee, Byron Saunders, the present chairman of the Insurance Commission."

"Would they talk if you acted, governor?" the editorial asked. "Do they have anything to talk about that would displease or embarrass you?"

"If he doesn't quit, Governor Shivers should be impeached and forced out. He is responsible for the insurance scandal because his appointees allowed it. He was a member of the Veterans Land Board and was supposed to protect the $100 million the people voted to lend veterans to buy farms and ranches. He didn't."

"The trouble is—and maybe it's why Shivers is so silently complacent—that many members of the legislature should also be impeached. . . ." the editorial added.

52 Senators To Back Insurance Measure Of Long

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (Special)—A bill that would give both World War II and Korean war veterans one year to apply for National Service Life Insurance today was introduced by Sen. Russell Long.

Two city detectives arrested a 28-year-old Mobile, Ala., man late Thursday night and charged him with theft by check, Sgt. S. G. Martin in charge of the check division, said Friday.

Sgt. Martin identified the man as Claude M. Tingle, arrested by Detectives J. C. Bryan and P. T. Van, Jr. is presently lodged in the parish jail. No bond has been posted.

The amount of the check Tingle is charged with passing is over $20, Sgt. Martin stated.

Several other Democrats joined in denouncing the article and criticizing Benson. Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) said "the time has come to go after this fellow" and "make it clear to the farmers he's America's No. one economic enemy."

Humphrey said the article made such allegations as "scandalous wartime prosperity" of farmers "swindle of the city voters" and "political hypocrisy."

Young, a GOP member of the Senate agriculture committee, called the article "one of the most untrue and dastardly articles ever written against farmers."

The magazine article described the American farmer as an opportunist "generally eager to sell his vote to the highest bidder." It said that the city dweller is too indifferent, or benumbed, "to resent this legal corruption, even when the bribe is lifted out of his own pocket." It said the city dweller hasn't realized that "times have changed" and the low farmer has a minimum of two new cars.

"Before next November's elections, Democrats and Republicans alike will be groveling all over the barnyard as they court the country vote—but the Democratic antics will be the most embarrassing," said "Nearly all Democratic politicians are now convinced that the farmers offer the largest single block of detachable votes—and many seem willing to use almost any tool of demagoguery which promises to pry it loose from the Republican grasp."

The article said Benson had "made a few gingerly efforts to bring a little sense back into our farm economy, whereupon Democratic congressmen—and some Republicans—promptly denounced him as a callous-hearted ogre."

Benson

"this afternoon" if he actually wrote the letter, published in the February issue of Harper's.

Humphrey also said he would not accept any "escape hatch" that Benson signed the letter and didn't know what it contained.

In his statement, Benson said the article "was sent to my office" but in the rush of my duties I did not see it."

He said the letter of acknowledgment "was signed with my name by an assistant, Miller Shurtleff, who has authority for occasional routine acknowledgment."

"But as secretary of agriculture," Benson added, "I must take responsibility for this, and I do so. . . . we pulled a boner on this one. I'm sorry."

The letter said: "I have read the article by John Fischer in the December issue of Harper's with a great deal of interest. It is excellent." Among other things, the article called the American farmer an "imperial tyrant."

Referring to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles "brink of war" interview in Life magazine, Humphrey called Benson's letter "another invidious example" of an Eisenhower Cabinet member "getting into print when he shouldn't have."

The White House declined comment on demands by Humph

Bank Re-Elects All Officials

COLUMBIA, Jan. 27 (Special)—At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Caldwell Bank and Trust Company the present board of directors and officers were re-elected.

Thursday's meeting was the 55th annual meeting of the company. Members of the board are Dr. R. L. Adams, A. D. Bridger, Finas Brown, Dr. E. L. Carroll, H. B. Fisher, David Gartman, W. E. Godfrey, J. J. McKeithen, J. H. McQuerry and Fred Rowland, all of Caldwell parish.

The president, A. D. Bridger, made a statement to the meeting in which he thanked the depositors and stockholders, the board of directors and the employees for their assistance in the success achieved during a trying year, which, however, closed with the affairs of the bank in a satisfactory condition with assets of over $2,400,000, capital accounts being in excess of $300,000 and deposits over $2,100,000, after payment of the usual 15 per cent dividend on stock.

At the directors meeting no changes were made in the official group which remain W. E. Godfrey, chairman of the board; A. D. Bridger, president; J. H. McQuerry, vice president; H. B. Fisher, cashier; Mrs. Helen Humphries, asst. cashier; R. J. Lee, Mrs. J. D. Hudson and Miss Margie L. Steen, tellers.

The Caldwell Bank and Trust Company is one of the oldest business institutions in the parish, having opened for business in 1902 as the first bank in Caldwell.

Bank Re-Elects All Officials

COLUMBIA, Jan. 27 (Special)—At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Caldwell Bank and Trust Company the present board of directors and officers were re-elected.

Thursday's meeting was the 55th annual meeting of the company. Members of the board are Dr. R. L. Adams, A. D. Bridger, Finas Brown, Dr. E. L. Carroll, H. B. Fisher, David Gartman, W. E. Godfrey, J. J. McKeithen, J. H. McQuerry and Fred Rowland, all of Caldwell parish.

The president, A. D. Bridger, made a statement to the meeting in which he thanked the depositors and stockholders, the board of directors and the employees for their assistance in the success achieved during a trying year, which, however, closed with the affairs of the bank in a satisfactory condition with assets of over $2,400,000, capital accounts being in excess of $300,000 and deposits over $2,100,000, after payment of the usual 15 per cent dividend on stock.

At the directors meeting no changes were made in the official group which remain W. E. Godfrey, chairman of the board; A. D. Bridger, president; J. H. McQuerry, vice president; H. B. Fisher, cashier; Mrs. Helen Humphries, asst. cashier; R. J. Lee, Mrs. J. D. Hudson and Miss Margie L. Steen, tellers.

The Caldwell Bank and Trust Company is one of the oldest business institutions in the parish, having opened for business in 1902 as the first bank in Caldwell.
